Shakeups Requested In County Agencies

Health And Probation Departments Criticized

By ERIK INGRAM

The possibility of shakeups in two Marin County departments loomed yesterday with the release of bluntly worded progress reports on the health and human services reorganization.

The reports recommend that the probation department be severed from the health and human services agency but that the health and mental health departments remain in, along with welfare.

One was drafted by Betty L. Presley, director of the consolidated agency, and will be considered Tuesday by Marin County supervisors.

County Administrator John F. Barrows, in a separate document, said he concurred with Miss Presley's recommendations, adding, "I continue to believe a stronger, more decisive management for the probation department is needed. . ."

He urged that an outside consulting firm be hired to conduct a "management audit" of the department, headed by chief probation officer John W. Brewer.

Dr. Robert Taylor, mental health program chief, also came under fire from Barrows and Miss Presley as being uncooperative and lacking direction.

The county health department, meanwhile, was described by Miss Presley as lacking organization, direction and purpose when she took it over last summer from Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, who stepped down.

She recommended hiring another physician experienced in public health and community medicine to serve under her as medical director.

The consolidation of health, welfare and probation under one agency, with a combined budget of about $20 million, was approved amid controversy last year by county supervisors.

The board's decision to include the probation department drew protests from superior court judges, who said they had a good working relationship with Brewer's department.

Miss Presley, in recommending the probation department be separate, said she always had reservations about it being included. She urged, however, that three minor probation department programs be switched to her agency. Those are child adoption, child custody, and dependent children programs.

Adult and juvenile correctional programs would stay with probation.

Barrows said there remains "considerable evidence" to support merging probation under Miss Presley's agency but indicated he would not press the issue.

He said the board of supervisors and superior court jointly should select an outside consultant to determine how well probation programs are running under Brewer.

Miss Presley said she had a notion "all was not well" in the health department before she assumed leadership. "However, I quickly experienced, and have been trying to cope with since, the total lack of organization, direction and purpose."

She said the "most important first step (now) is a basic repair and rebuilding" of the health department.

Currently, she continued, there exists a minimum public health program, some dedicated individuals, but no overall direction. "Personally, I think a good and comprehensive public health and medical care program is essential and the public has a right to expect it."

Miss Presley urged that an experienced physician be hired to oversee and expand various public health and medical programs.

Both she and Barrows indicated a move is afoot to pull mental health out from under her agency's umbrella and recommended against it.

Miss Presley said she has "irreconcilable differences" with the philosophy, organization and priorities of the mental health program, which she said is marked by "a divided, divisive and highly politicized staff."

She said more effort should be made to fund programs for serious mental illnesses, such as schizophrenia, and on autistic and multiply handicapped children.

"Trying to be everything to everybody spreads the resources too thin. . .," she added.

Barrows said Dr. Taylor has been a critic of Miss Presley's management and methods and his "apparent unwillingness to establish proper program definitions, program budgets and management controls makes continuation of the present situation most difficult."

YEAR AFTER RELEASE

Ex-POW Looks To Future

By MARY LEYDECKER

It was just a year ago this week that Capt. William W. Butler left the "Hanoi Hilton" for the last time, heading home for a joyful reunion with his family and a tumultuous welcome from his San Rafael neighbors.

The day he was released now seems "an awful long time ago," Butler said in an interview this week at his new home near the University of California at Davis.

He said it's "hard to remember what I felt" on the day of his release after more than five years as a prisoner of the North Vietnamese, probably because "more has happened during the past year than in the five before."

Although the tall, tanned 10-year Air Force officer, said with a smile that his story is not a success yet, his life seems in marked contrast with the much publicized misadventures and tragedies of many of his fellow ex-POW's.

Butler spoke quietly of a man who was one of his best friends in prison days and who was killed recently in an auto accident.

Other former prisoners have encountered marital difficulties ("Everyone knows about the divorces," Butler said) and a couple of men even have committed suicide.

But for Butler, one of those people who has schooled himself "to expect the worse — then you're never disappointed," his reentry into freedom seems to have been quiet but joyous.

Still an Air Force officer (soon to be promoted to major), Butler is nonetheless leading an almost completely civilian life as a graduate student at Davis.

As he sat in the living room of his comfortable new home, Butler spoke of his studies, his plans, his wife, Julie, and the two children he knew only through pictures while a prisoner. His life now, although full of intellectual stimulation which he said he is thoroughly enjoying, seems a peaceful one.

He and Julie did not plan a big celebration this week on the

Leonard Rappa Takes Sausalito Council Position

Newly elected Sausalito City Councilman Leonard F. Rappa was sworn into office yesterday at city hall, according to City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie.

Rappa declined to take his seat at last Tuesday's council meeting, saying he would await a decision by the state supreme court on possible conflict of interest. Rappa, an attorney, represents several persons with lawsuits pending against the city.

After being sworn in by Deputy City Clerk Janet Tracy, Rappa declined comment on whether he would petition the supreme court on the conflict question or divest himself of the suits.

Search Pressed For Lost Plane

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — The Civil Air Patrol pressed the search today for a 27-year-old student pilot missing on his first long distance flight from the northern California town of Novato to his home here.

Mike Diamond's single-engine plane was equipped with an emergency locating device but that no signal had been received.

Diamond is known to have refueled in Monterey before continuing his flight south yesterday morning. Seven CAP planes and an Air Force C138 from McClellan Air Force Base in Sacramento flew search missions over the central California coast yesterday before it was learned that Diamond had flown a different route toward Riverside.

Gas Allocation Program's Effectiveness Is Rapped

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission (FTC) today blamed Congress and bureaucratic slowness for a fuel allocation program that "has been of limited effectiveness" in its first 45 days.

In a special 1,000-page report prepared for Congress and the President, an FTC staff of lawyers and economists concluded that the Federal Energy Office had made "striking" progress in view of its short existence, but added that "the program nonetheless falls short when measured against the objectives of the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act of 1973."

"The mandatory allocation program has been of limited effectiveness," the report concluded, in part because of start up problems, "some of them the FEO's own making."

The report was ordered by Congress in the 1973 act to assess the allocation program's performance after its first 45 days.

R.T. (Tim) McNamara, executive director of the FTC, said "the program has failed to equitably distribute available gasoline products." But the report gave the FEO high marks for its heating oil allocation program, while also giving some credit to a warmer than usual winter.

The report blamed Congress for setting "mutually incompatible goals" of high wellhead prices to stimulate production while trying to keep pump prices from skyrocketing. It also said the 1972 allocation base was unfair to independent dealers and refiners.

In concluding that the gasoline allocations had been inequitable, the report set a standard that no state should receive more than 5 per cent more or less of its 1972 allocations than any other state.

"While the severe hardship areas have received assistance, there remains a wide disparity between the 'haves' and 'have-enots' in gasoline supply."

The report placed a major share of the blame on Congress for establishing 1972 as the base year. The report said this may have disadvantaged independent dealers whose volume in 1972 was 17 per cent below that of 1973.

McNamara emphasized that the time period involved was "incredibly short to try and do anything with a program of this scope and complexity."

The report was issued in time to exert a possible influence on a new version of the Emergency Energy bill which will be introduced next week in Congress by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va.

Marin Motorists Take Gas 'Potluck'

Today is the first "potluck" day under the gasoline plan set up by Marin County gasoline station operators — and the results varied widely throughout the county. Meanwhile, more gasoline will be available this month than was expected.

In some locations such as downtown San Rafael, the lines were short and moving fast. But in Greenbrae and near Hamilton Air Force Base, early morning lines stretched for blocks. In some instances, drivers said they hadn't realized that both odd and even licensed cars were eligible to fill their tanks today.

Art Baptiste, president of the Marin County Independent Service Station Association, said the dealers had been delivered 75,000 handbills explaining the sales plan the dealers worked out for a 45-day test. In addition, 90 of the stations have bought special signs from the association, to post their opening hours, odd and even sales days and the half-tank minimum sale rule.

Sacramento sources reported today that four oil companies have agreed to Gov. Ronald Reagan's request that stations be reopened on Sundays. A total of 823 stations belonging to Union, Mobil and Gulf will open, the report said.

Baptiste said he had heard nothing of the plan, and said he knew of no plans by the independent dealers to resume sales on Sundays.

Several oil companies have increased their allocations to independent dealers, Baptiste said, easing fears that the stations would run out of gas before April 1. Shell oil raised the quota — earlier set at 60 per cent of March 1972 sales, to 70 per cent; Union and Enco have gone back up to 75 per cent and Standard has raised its dealers' quota to 94 per cent, Baptiste said.

RED CARPET, REALTORS COUNSEL CORNER

Dear Counsellor:
We are a couple in our early 20's. Our family consists of a one year old baby, an Irish Setter, and a kitten. It's difficult to find a Landlord who will rent to us so we have looked into purchasing a small home. However, several real estate agents have turned us away because we only have $1,000.00 in cash. Even though we have a substantial income and can make sizeable monthly payments, we have been told to "Come back when you have more down payment." Can you help us? Vicky L, Mill Valley

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

New President Faces Violence

CARACAS (UPI) — Newly inaugurated President Carlos Andres Perez faces an outbreak of guerrilla violence reminiscent of the 1960's, when he battled terrorists as the country's interior minister.

Perez

Leftist guerrillas claimed responsibility yesterday for a $20 million warehouse blaze-one of the worst fires in Caracas history- as well as a bank robbery. A number of bombs were planted in the capital, but none went off.

Perez, inaugurated Tuesday in a ceremony at which President Nixon was represented by his wife, Pat, called his first presidential news conference this morning to respond to the violence.

Interior Minister Luis Pinerua Ordaz said the government would clamp down on the terrorists, whom he called "exhibitionist anarchists."

Police Attacked

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas attacked police in two Argentine provinces early today, killing one officer and wounded three others, police reports said.

Police in the industrial city of Cordoba, recently taken over by a federal caretaker government to end a rightwing police rebellion, said guerrillas from the People's Revolutionary Army ERP attacked and damaged a local radio station.

Spokesmen said the guerrillas wounded with machine gune tire two of the three police guards and blew up transmitting equipment at the station, LV 2, "Radio Voice of the People."

Police in Resistencia, 600 miles north of Buenos Aires, said other ERP guerrillas attacked a small police station early today, killing one officer and wounding another. Spolesmen said the guerrillas were looking for weapons.

Still Captive

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — U.S. oil executive Victor Samuelson spent his 100th day in captivity today, awaiting freedom promised him for a record $14.2 million ransom payment.

A spokesman for the Esso Oil Co. of Argentina said there was still "no news" of Samuelson, their American refinery manager who was kidnaped by guerrillas of the People's Revolutionary Army ERP Dec. 6.

Esso, a subsidiary of Exxon Corp. of New Jersey, made the payoff to the ERP Monday, passing them 142,000 bills of $100 notes in briefcases, then sending the guerrilla-dictated announcement to newspapers Wednesday night.

Rebels Disarmed

LISBON (UPI) — The Portuguese government claimed today that soldiers loyal to the government had quelled a rebellion against Portugal's colonial policy in Africa by disarming members of an army column which tried to march on Lisbon.

A government spokesman said the march was "a small affair and the situation has been fully brought under control."

Military sources said the rebel column numbered about 200 men.

The official Portuguese news agency ANI said the column, which defied an order confining troops to their barracks, returned to its garrison at Caldas da Rainha after being disarmed. ANI said the rebels turned back when they failed to rally support for their movement.

Island Taken

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government paratroopers regained control of a small island two miles northest of Phnom Penh today, but faced heavy fighting on a nearby larger island in the Mekong River, UPI field reporters said.

The paratroopers pushed Communist-led rebel units from Oknhatei Island at midmorning, but the insurgents retreated to Khsach Kandal Island, within wading distance of Oknhatei.

Fighting on Khsach Kandal, about three miles long and a mile wide, was reported to be serious. Field reports said the rebels were well entrenched and government troops, heavily reinforced, were unable to advance.

No casualty figures on the fighting were available.

Red Ambush

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnamese soldiers ambushed a government convoy in the Central Highlands, knocking out 20 trucks, military spokesmen said today.

The North Vietnamese surprised the column yesterday in the Mang Yang pass by Highway 19, a favorite ambush site near Pleiku, 240 miles north of Saigon.

The remnants of the 52-truck convoy retreated to Pleiku after six hours of fighting, spokesmen said. There was no word on casualties.

Jetliner Fire

TEHRAN (UPI) — "Before I could do anything the plane burst into flames," said pilot Leif Knud Joergensen, describing the moment his Danish chartered airliner caught fire as it taxied down the runway.

"It was too late, and I did not know anything until I was picked up by rescue team members," the 38-year-old captain of the Sterling Airways Caravelle said.

The second-hand jet, on a charter flight from Hong Kong to Copenhagen with 92 passengers, caught fire Friday just before takeoff from Mehrabas airport here.

While passengers slid down the emergency chutes to safety, rescue teams cut through the plane's doors to reach those trapped at the front of the cabin, including Joergensen.

Danish Ambassador Bernhard Ulsen put the death toll at 14-seven of them Danish and the others Swedes. He said 46 others were injured.

Party For Prince

Violence Worsens

BELFAST (UPI) — A wave of bombings, hijackings and shooting swept across Northern Ireland yesterday in one of the worst outbreaks of violence in the province in the past four years.

Four persons were killed, three in bombings and one by gunfire.

"I can't remember such a sustained and widespread offensive as this since the troubles began," a British army officer said.

Authorities today guarded two hijacked trains suspected of containing bombs as well as dozens of other devices, waiting for daybreak to dismantle them.

Miners Working

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — About 90 per cent of the 27,000 miners involved in a three-week strike over state gasoline regulations were back at work yesterday and the West Virginia Coal Association predicted all dissidents would return by Monday.

The mines are usually closed during weekends.

Strikers began returning to work Thursday after Gov. Arch Moore suspended for 30 days his controversial "quarter-tank" rule, which limited gasoline sales to motorists whose tanks were less than one-quarter full.

Arms To Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Army is supplying South Vietnam with almost as much ammunition as it did when the fighting still raged, immediately after the cease-fire one year ago.

Altogether, the military has given Vietnam $1.1 billion worth of equipment and supplies in the first 12 months after the cease-fire, including 35 tanks and 35 armored personnel carriers, but no planes, helicopters or ships.

Pro-Israel Press Said Changing

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Egyptian ambassador to the United States says certain elements in tte American press are pro-Israel and this has resulted in a gap in understanding between the U.S. and the Arab world.

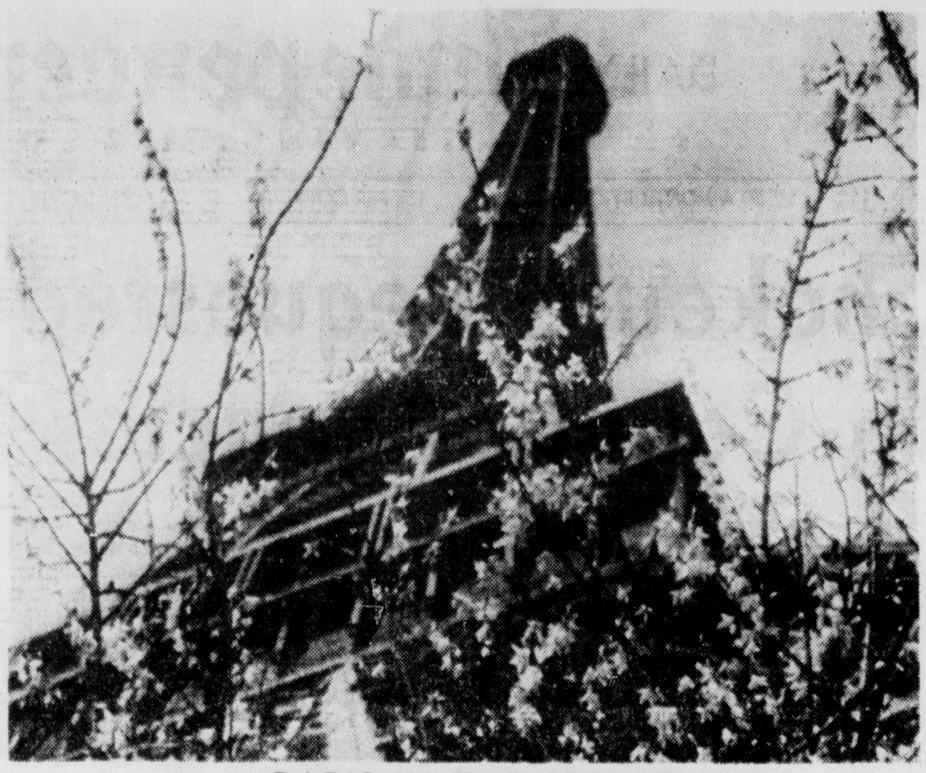

However, Ambassador Ashraf Ghorbal told the Commonwealth Club he was "happy to report to you today that we feel this trend, and its impact, is undergoing some change."

As Ghorbal spoke yesterday two dozen members of the Committee to Save Jews in Arab Countries paraded outside the hotel where he appeared.

Some of the demonstrators carried a black-draped coffin they said symbolized the slaying of four Jewish women in Damascus.

Ghorbal, newly-appointed to his post, said "most of the problems have yet to be solved" in the Middle East.

He said the problems included the Sinai desert, now occupied by Israel, the Golan Heights in Syria, the west bank of the Jordan River, Jerusalem and the question of the displaced Palestinians.

PARIS IN THE SPRING

They say spring is not too far away at this time of year. These young flowers at the foot of the Eiffel Tower prove the point as they add a magical touch to the view.

Wilson Threatens New British Elections If Program Beaten

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson today brandished the threat of a new general election if the Conservatives and Liberals join forces to defeat his minority Labor government in its first parliamentary showdown Monday.

Government officials said Wilson is convinced that the voters, fed up with party infighting and a week-long political crisis before the Labor government was formed, would put him back in office with a resounding majority.

Wilson took office 12 days ago at the head of a minority government after the Feb. 28 election failed to give any party an overall majority in parliament and the Conservative and Liberal parties were unable to agree on a coalition.

The new House of Commons votes Monday night on Wilson's legislative program.

It promised, among other things, food subsidies, higher retirement pensions and renegotiation of Britain's Common Market membership terms.

Conservatives and Liberals said they will vote against it because it promised legal clamps on prices but not on wages.

The Conservatives and Liberals together control 310 parliamentary votes against Labor's 301.

With the balance of power in the hands of 23 militant Northern Ireland Protestants, Welsh and Scottish Nationalists and a handful of independents, Wilson could be defeated.

In a speech last night he conceded this.

"As a realist," he said, "I recognize that if the opposition parties are determined to play around with the future of this nation, they are in a position to do so."

"But I want to give this warning," he said. "If they are realist they will recognize that they will do so at their electoral peril."

But Edward du Cann, a leading Conservative member of parliament, said his party was determined to bring the government down.

He said if Wilson is defeated Monday, it is "very unlikely" Queen Elizabeth II would accept his advice to dissolve parliament.

Pot Split With Royal Flushes

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Las Vegas gamblers may not know what the odds are that two players would draw a royal flush in the same poker game, but Allan L. Wilson says he does—it should happen once every 753,334,487 hands.

Two players actually did draw such an unlikely pairing at a poker table in a Las Vegas casino this week, but the pot was only $28. Under the rules of poker, they split it.

Experts said the odds that a single player would draw a royal flush were 649,766-to-one, but they did not know the chances of a double royal flush until Wilson, a computer expert who has written on gambling odds, worked it out.

Ex-POW Looks Ahead, Not Back

anniversary of his release "because I have folk choir practice tonight and two finals next week."

Butler knew when he came home that he wanted to go back to school after more than five years of being "mentally starved," and last September, he came to Davis as a graduate student in physiology.

He is going to school under an Air Force program in which he receives full pay and allowances and all educational expenses are paid by the service.

"I started off kind of light," Butler said about his new career. But, after receiving an A-plus in organic chemistry and an A in statistics last quarter, he plans a heavier schedule next quarter.

"I didn't take college seriously; I never did any studying, and I got lousy grades," Butler said about his undergraduate days at Stanford University, where he received a degree in biology 10 years ago.

Now, "I am applying myself," he said, and has found his return to college "easier than I thought it would be."

At 32, Butler said he is much older than the average graduate student on the sprawling campus, out he has found friendship with the younger students "on an easy social basis."

It is learning itself, though, that Butler finds "really challenging." He described with enthusiasm two lectures, one by a physics professor and another by a chemistry professor, whom he called "brilliant men," but who came to "exact opposite conclusions," which Butler found stimulating.

When the officer went to Stanford, "all I wanted to do was fly airplanes," he said.

He accomplished this dream by joining the Air Force right after graduation and flying until he was shot down in 1967.

Now his plans seem to hark back to earlier days. "I was one of those kids that all I was interested in was animals," he said.

In grammar school, Butler once took an aptitude test, and the result was the recommendation that a career as a veterinarian was best for him.

Patting his two dogs, Butler said he now would like to carry out that recommendation — if he can get into the toughly competitive veterinary school at Davis. At any rate, in the meantime, he is working toward a master's degree next year.

In addition to his studies, Butler's life is filled with family, friends, church and a little sheer recreation.

"IT'S HARD TO REMEMBER" — His busy schedule as a graduate student in the University of California at Davis and rebuilding a family life have almost swept away memories of prison days, Butler reports. He says his story "is not a success yet," but life has been better for him than for some of the other returned POWs.

A man who tends to apologize for time spent on frivolous activities, Butler's eyes lighted up as he spoke of a new hobby — flying the "sail plane" he bought after his release. "I love the feeling of freedom," he said about the sport, for which he has little time.

"Julie and the kids (Peter, 7, and Sheila, 6) love it, too," he added, telling of flights in the motorless plane he keeps at a small nearby airport.

Butler now also is able again to practice his guitar playing — an avocation he carried out in prison with a makeshift instrument. He has joined a group which sings and plays for Masses under the sponsorship of the campus Newman Club.

As for his health, Butler said "it's better than when I was in college." The foot which he broke when he ejected from his burning plane in 1967 and which was never properly set no longer bothers him.

"I jogged all last quarter," the trim Butler said, "and now I'm taking fencing."

Butler, who calls himself "very nearsighted," was without glasses during his years in prison, but sees normally now with a new pair.

From time to time, Butler's conversation was interrupted by the ringing of the doorbell. His own children had gone to the dentist with their mother, but the captain smilingly spoke to several young visitors, explaining Sheila and Peter's whereabouts.

"It's been great fun to get to know them," he said about his son and daughter.

He credits his good relation with the youngsters to his wife, Julie. "Even though I was an absentee at the dinner table, she kept me a member of the family."

Although Butler has found most of his new friends in his neighborhood (the Air Force doctor to whom he was assigned when he returned is now his next door neighbor in Davis), he speaks fondly of his fellow students.

Even though "they wear different clothes and speak differently" from Butler's undergraduate generation, he finds them essentially the same. Instead of the hostility he rather had expected because of being a military man, he said he has been met mainly with quiet questioning from younger students.

Butler, who seems confidently embarked in marching, one foot after another, into a new life, said, he hasn't "made a single speech since I moved to Davis.

"I do not intend to make a career of being an ex-POW."

School Ponders A Kindergarten

Kaleidoscope School, a private school in Novato, will hold a meeting for parents Monday on plans to add a kindergarten class this fall.

The session will be at 8 p.m. at 46 Estrella Way, according to school director Marianne Tarica.

The school at 1787 Grant Avenue has been operating for two years for four-year-old pupils, and is planning to expand to provide an alternative to public school, she said.

Eventually the school, which now serves 18 children, will expand to nongraded primary classes for students 4 to 8 years old.

Voters Can Now Sign Up As Ms.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) Gov. Ronald Reagan signed legislation yesterday permitting the use of the prefix Ms. in voter registration.

The measure AB765 by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, permits the choice of Miss, Mrs., Ms. or Mr. for all voters.

However, the sex of the person registering is required on ths registration affidavit.

Kapiloff's office said the measure would go into effect Jan. 1, 1975.

Embargo End Not Total Oil Answer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The end of the Arab oil embargo will sharply reduce the gasoline shortage and make the government's rationing plan obsolete, but the price of gasoline will rise to record highs, energy officials agree.

There may be secondary economic effects. President Nixon has said the oil embargo was a primary cause for inflation and the decrease in automobile sales and housing.

The first effect of the lifting of the embargo is expected to be the end of Sunday gas station closings, which have had a sharp effect on the tourist industry.

Gasoline station operators also will be free to fill up a motorists' tank rather than selling gas only if the tank is less than half full, the officials predict.

But other conservation measures — the 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, and the fuel allocation program —will stay in effect.

John C. Sawhill, deputy administrator of the Federal Energy Office, said the new supply of Arab oil could cut the U.S. shortage as low as 2 to 4 per cent compared to a high in recent months of 14 to 20 per cent. He said the gasoline allocation program would remain in effect through the summer.

But if gasoline is to become more plentiful, it will cost more. Some experts predict gasoline could rise as high as 70 cents a gallon.

The first shipments of Arab oil probably will not arrive in the U.S. for four to six weeks after the embargo is lifted. The major reason is simply transportation.

A tanker must reach a Saudi Arabian port, load its cargo of oil, and then travel 11,000 miles to U.S. ports. Many U.S. ports are not equipped to handle supertankers, which must then unload their oil in the Caribbean and ship it to the U.S.

However, some tankers already at sea could be rerouted to U.S. ports.

Energy Chief William E. Simon also has said he will urge U.S. oil firms to tap the nation's 217-million-barrel stockpile of gasoline to provide added gas for the U.S. while awaiting the first Arab oil shipments.

One major effect of the end of the embargo could be economic.

President Nixon Friday told a Chicago audience that the energy crisis led to economic difficulties. "It is one of the primary reasons we have an inflationary spiral at the present time," he said. "It is one of the primary reasons for difficulties in automobile sales."

Law Course Is Offered To Teachers

"Law in a Free Society," a course for school teachers, will begin Monday at the Marin County Civic Center. It is cosponsored by the Marin County Human Relations Department and San Rafael city schools.

The course will consist of 10 three-hour sessions, from 7 to 10 p.m. on Mondays, according to Douglas H. Bosco, human relations department director. It will be held in the board of supervisors' chambers.

Those successfully completing the course will receive two semester units of credit from Dominican College.

"Law in a Free Society" is sponsored statewide by the State Bar of California, in an effort to bring into the schools more instruction in the role of law.

Bosco said the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission has assisted in preparing materials for the course.

About 35 teachers, mostly from the San Rafael schools, have signed up for the program, Bosco said. Others wishing to enroll may do so at his office at the Civic Center.

VACANT HOUSE GUTTED

Petaluma firemen hose down the charred interior of a vacant house destroyed by fire last night. The house at 200 Stanley Street, which had been earmarked for condemnation by the city, was consumed in flames by the time firemen arrived shortly after 11 p.m. Cause of the fire and damage estimates were still under investigation today.

Deed Missing To Prove Nixon Tax Claim Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House claims that a document which would prove the validity of President Nixon's $576,000 tax deduction for the gift of his vice presidential papers is lost, according to congressional sources.

The sources said yesterday the White House reported it has been unable to find the original deed of the gift to the National Archives. The deed would be needed to establish the gift was made, as the White House claims, before July 25, 1969, when a new law declared such charitable donations nondeductible.

President Nixon says he may wind up owing several hundred thousand dollars in back taxes because of the "debatable, technical point" over whether the paperwork on the gift was completed in time.

"If it was completed in time, as I understand it, I get the deduction," he said yesterday. "If it was not completed in time, I pay the tax and the government gets to keep the papers.

"Well, under the circumstances, that is hard for me to realize. But the President, when the IRS is concerned, I can assure you, is just another citizen—and even more so."

Nixon made those remarks during his question-and-answer session before the Executives' Club of Chicago.

On Capitol Hill, the congressional sources said the missing deed was the only document that could back up Nixon's original claim that the gift was made in time to qualify for the deduction.

The 1969 law said such a gift had to be "completed" prior to the deadline.

The congressional source said the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which is investigating Nixon's 1969-72 taxes at his request, has found evidence establishing in three different ways that the gift was not completed until some time in 1970. He did not list the three ways.

Nixon deducted $576,000 from his taxes on the basis of the appraised value of the documents. The deduction saved him $235,000 in taxes.

The gift was the chief factor in reducing his taxes in 1970 to $791.81, in 1971 to $876.03 and in 1972 to $4,298.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., chairman of the congressional committee, has estimated that Nixon would be asked to pay well over $300,000 in back taxes. Other sources have put the figure closer to $500,000.

Reagan Asks Sunday Gas Station Service

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan has asked service station owners to open on Sundays beginning this weekend and discontinue limits on gasoline sales.

Reagan yesterday made the request for Sunday openings to major oil companies operating stations in California. He said some of the companies operating stations in California. He said some of the companies immediately agreed while others had not replied.

In telegrams to the companies, Reagan said: "In light of continuing difficulties many people are having in obtaining gasoline, I am asking the oil companies to voluntarily open their company-owned and operated stations on Sundays."

The governor also announced some modifications of his odd-even gasoline sales limitations now operating in nine counties to wipe out purchase limits.

"Gasoline retailers are discouraged from establishing maximum or minimum purchase limits," the new regulations state. "However, if limits are adopted the retailer should clearly indicate these limits by signs legible from off the premises."

The regulations said the need for limits "appears no longer necessary."

The changes were recommended by representatives of the nine counties now under the mandatory sales plan after a meeting in Sacramento Thursday.

Reagan's call for station openings on Sunday encompassed only company-owned stations, not the thousands of independent outlets.

The governor's office said Mobil promised to keep open 51 stations, Union five stations, Douglas 200 stations, Time 40 stations and Save Mor 75 stations. Texaco, which has no company-owned stations, said it would "encourage" its franchise dealers to open as well.

The odd-even regulations provide exemptions for doctors and nurses on emergency duty, postal vehicles, some vehicles operated by handicapped persons, taxis, autos rented for less than 30 days and other privately owned "emergency vehicles" such as repair trucks.

Under the odd-even plan, persons with vehicle license plates ending in even numbers may buy gasoline only on even days and odd numbers on odd days. Plates with letters and no numbers are considered even.

The plan has been instituted in the counties of Los Angeles, Orange, Alameda, Contra Costa, Solano, San Mateo, Riverside, Santa Clara and Ventura. In each case, it was requested by county officials.

Some ROTC Programs Cost $22,000 A Student

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon considers it uneconomical to continue Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) courses at schools where low enrollments jack costs up as high as $22,000 a student.

But an official acknowledged yesterday that it costs three times as much for each cadet trained at the military academies.

Richard Rose, deputy assistant defense secretary for education, said at a news conference yesterday that the services are concerned by the large number of colleges where ROTC course enrolled fewer than 15 seniors.

Cost per student ranges from $16,000 to $22,000, compared to $8,000 a student in schools with more than 50 ROTC cadets, he said.

If the cadet corps is not brought up within a few years at those schools, he said, then the courses may be dropped.

Brig. Gen. Dean Tice said the Army considered the small ROTC courses "uneconomical," but at another point in the news conference, Rose pointed out, with no complaint, that it costs an average of $69,000 for each service academy cadet.

Industrial Output Is Down Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's industrial output has fallen for a third straight month, but President Nixon maintains that "there will be no recession."

The Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production, released yesterday, fell 0.6 per cent in February, 0.7 per cent in January and 0.6 per cent in December. The index is considered a major indicator of the nation's economic health.

The drop was again blamed on the energy crisis, which has caused sharp drops in auto production and consumption of electricity and natural gas.

But Nixon, speaking to a group of businessmen in Chicago Friday, repeated predictions that the economy will remain strained for a while, but that it will turn up later this year.

"There will be apparently no worldwide recession and...there will be no recession in the United States," he said.

He said predictions of an 8 to 10 per cent unemployment rate will not be borne out.

In another development, the Cost of Living Council ended price controls from the newspaper, broadcasting, advertising and publishing industries.

The CLC also exempted wages in most of those industries from Phase IV controls. But it said payrolls for newspaper employees would remain under government restraint for the time being "because some important collective bargaining agreements are in process of negotiations..."

Stanford Smith, head of the American Newspaper Publishers Association called the decision "great news."

Mental Tests Ordered In Beating Case

An Oakland man — accused of beating a Tiburon woman and stealing her car — yesterday was ordered to undergo a psychiatric examination at Napa State Hospital.

Richard Gordon Jiminez, 21, was told to return to Marin Municipal Court Thursday for setting of a preliminary hearing date on two felony charges, grand theft and assault with a deadly weapon.

He is charged with beating Barbara Taber, 46, of the Cove Apartments, 35 Barbaree Way, on Feb. 28, then stealing items from her apartment and driving off in her car.

Marin Sheriff's deputies said they were told Jiminez was a friend of Mrs. Taber's.

Tomales Man's Dog Destroyed

An unvaccinated dog owned by a Tomales man was destroyed last week after it was bitten by a rabid skunk, Marin County health officials reported yesterday.

Dr. Marilyn F. Hicks, acting public health officer, said the incident took place March 3 and that a subsequent test of the skunk's brain proved positive for rabies several days later.

The same week a second rabid skunk was killed by park rangers at the Point Reyes National Seashore. There was no known animal or human contact with the second skunk.

Youth Arrested In Corte Madera

Marvin James McMurphy, 18, of 296 Blackstone Drive, San Rafael, was arrested yesterday by Corte Madera police on suspicion of burglary after he was found inside the locked Corte Madera Youth Center.

McMurphy was being held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $1,000 to appear in Marin Municipal Court on Monday.

Police said McMurphy was seen opening the rear window of the center by a witness at a nearby office. After police found McMurphy in the building, he told them he entered the center to get a bandage, according to officers.

Santa Rosan Arraigned In Stabbing Case

Frank William Haring, 18, of Santa Rosa, was arraigned yesterday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with a knifing incident in Petaluma Thursday night.

Police said Louis Owen Molles, 18, of 1313 McGregor Avenue, Petaluma, was stabbed twice with a six-inch knife after an argument between the two men and a juvenile on the front porch of the home of Molles' girlfriend.

Molles was taken to Hillcrest Hospital but refused treatment.

Haring was confined in the Sonoma County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bond. Municipal Judge Alexander J. McMahon appointed a public defender for him and set a hearing for 11 a.m. Monday to determine whether bail should be reduced.

Tapestries Are Being Displayed

Tapestries from the Coptic Christian village of Harrania, Egypt, are on display through April 5 at Nana's Gallery of Fine Art, 29 Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma.

The tapestries, which depict life in a rural Egyptian village, were collected by Mr. and Mrs. David Williams of Sonoma from weaving workshops in the Harraneya district near Cairo.

The gallery is open from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and Friday until 9 p.m.

OBITUARIES

Robert A. Sims Rites Set

Funeral for Robert A. Sims, Belvedere developer, will be at 2 p.m., Monday at St. Stephens Episcipal Church, Belvedere.

Sims, 41, was killed in the crash of his own plane Thursday, near Boise, Ida. He was president of Lantec, Inc. of Tiburon and Sun Valley Properties in Idaho.

He was born in Los Angeles. He was a graduate of Stanford University and received his law degree from Stetson University Law School in Florida.

Sims is survived by his wife, Elizabeth, of the home; his mother, Mary Louise Sims of Newport Beach, Orange County; three sons, Robert A. Sims Jr., and Craig Sims, both of Pensacola, Fla., and Jonathan H. Sims of Belvedere, and a sister, JoAnn Faville of Rockford, Va.

Burial will be private.

DR. FRASER

Dr. Alexander Falconer Fraser of San Francisco, who began his career as a Petaluma doctor, is dead at 74.

Fraser, who practiced medicine in San Francisco for the past 34 years, died last Saturday in a Daly City hospital.

He was a native of Boston, and moved to San Francisco with his parents in 1902.

Frraser was former president of the San Francisco Academy of General Practice, a former director of the San Francisco Medical Society and a former director of the California Academy of General Practice.

He is survived by his wife, Marcella Ann; three sons, Alexander F. Jr., Robert M. and John D., all of San Francisco, and a daughter, Pamela, of Santa Rosa.

TRUDY POLMAN

Trudy Polman, mother of John W. A. Polman of San Rafael and Joseph M. L. Polman of Petaluma, died yesterday at her San Francisco home after a long illness. She was 67.

Mrs. Polman was born and reared in Rhoon, The Netherlands. She came to this country 20 years ago, living in Salt Lake City, Utah for two years before moving to San Francisco. She had been a clerk for Lane Bryant Clothing Store, until sickness forced her retirement three years ago.

In addition to her two sons, Mrs. Polman is survived by a sister, Dit Goud of San Francisco; a brother, Arnold H. Goud of Rialto, San Bernardino County, and two grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Monday at Halsted and Co. in San Francisco. Burial will be in Olivet Memorial Park, Colma.

WILLIS DONNAN

Willis D. Donnan, retired machinist and 17-year Marin resident, died yesterday at a local hospital following a brief illness.

Donnan, 81, was a native of Leroy, N.Y. He had lived in California for 59 years. Before coming to Marin, he lived in San Carlos. At the time of his death, he resided at 189 Lovell Avenue in Mill Valley.

Donnan was a machinist for 20 years. He last was employed by the Stryko Corp. in South San Francisco.

He had belonged to a musical group in San Carlos and was in the choir of the Mill Valley Community Church.

Survivors include his wife, Helen, of Mill Valley; and a sister, Carol D. Fowler of Mill Valley.

Memorial service will be next Saturday at 3 p.m. at the church.

The family has asked that memorial gifts be made to the church.

Search, Seizure To Be Discussed

William S. Hamilton, Corte Madera attorney, will conduct a seminar on the law of search and seizure and how it relates to youth at 7 p.m. Tuesday. It is sponsored by the Marin County Youth Commission.

The seminar will be held at Rites of Passage, 1010 Grand Avenue, San Rafael. It is the first program in a series to acquaint young people with the law and their legal rights, according to Douglas H. Bosco of the commission.

Local attorneys will provide volunteer legal counseling to the young people under 18 years of age as part of the program, Bosco said.

Fund-Raising Dinner Slated

Operation Give a Damn, a community service group sponsored by St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church, will hold a fund-raising dinner at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the church, corner of Drake and Donahue Avenues in Marin City.

Profits from the dinner will go to the group's big brother and big sister programs and to finance camping trips and other outings for children this summer, according to Robert Washington, event organizer.

More information may be obtained by contacting Washington or Sharon Turner at the church.

San Rafael High Bands Will Play

San Rafael High School's concert and symphonic bands will perform at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the school auditorium.

Selections will include highlights from "Fiddler on the Roof," "Western Overture," "Variations on a Shaker Melody," and "American Folk Song Suite."

Proceeds will benefit the music department's spring tour, a school spokesman said.

Poetry Reading To Benefit School

A reading of modern African poetry to benefit the Bolinas-Stinson School District will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Bolinas Community Center on Elm Road.

Roland Jacopetti, Shirley Sanford, Bob Scott and Herman Berlandt will read selections from the leading poets of West Africa, East Africa, the Congo and South Africa.

First Aid Course To Start Monday

A course in advanced first aid and emergncy care, sponsored by the Marin Red Cross, will begin Monday at Red Cross headquarters, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Classes will be Mondays and Fridays from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. through June 28, according to Bruce Drier, first aid committee chairman.

Victimless Crimes Hit By Moretti

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti said Friday that if he is elected governor he will try to "decriminalize" victimeless offenses such as "alcoholism, gambling among friends, simple possession of marijuana for personal use, prostitution" and homosexuality.

Moretti said he favors making such offenses "infractions" instead of outright legalization.

Police and the courts should be freed from dealing with such victimless offenses so they can put moe attention on cutting down "crimes that affect people, that take something from them, or the cause the loss of their lives" such as murder, robbery, rape, and assault, Moretti said.

Moretti, a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, said that "We spend millions of dollars a year enforcing laws which treat alcoholics as criminals, recycling prostitutes through our court dockets and processing cases which involve the private sex habits of consenting adults.

"What we need is a program of decriminalization which will remove alcoholism, gambling among friends, simple possess on of marijuana for personal use, prostitution and similiar victimless crimes from the criminal codes.

The police "spend a lot of time hauling homosexsals in," Moretti told the Los Angeles Press Club. "They spend a lot of time chasing down people who smoke marijuana cigarettes. If they didn't have to do that, they could spend more time dealing with major crimes and more crimes would be solved."

While police and the courts deal with drunks and prostitutes, Moretti said, only 29 per cent of the robberies in the state are ever solved and only 17 per cent of the burglaries, 46 per cent of the rapes and 62 per cent of the aggravated assaults.

"The time has come to put the emphasis in law enforcement where it belongs —upon the protection of our citizens from the threat of violence and other serious crimes," he said.

"Should we continue to invest time and energy in cases involving the private sex habits of consenting adults while the number of unsolved rapes continues to rise?" he asked.

He said it has been estimated that more than half the arrests made are for victimless crimes.

$2 Million Suit Filed In Accident

A Petaluma youth, who was hurt in an auto accident last July 21, has filed a $2 million suit against the City of Petaluma, charging poor road maintenance.

William J. Fee Jr., 17, of 850 South McDowell Boulevard, has asked the Sonoma County Superior Court to award him $2 million in general damages, plus whatever other amount the court considers proper.

Fee's petition claims he was paralyzed in a single-car accident on Skillman Lane near Thompson Lane while riding in a car driven by Jerry Copus Jr., of 1317 Berrydale.

The car went out of control because of the deteriorating roadbed, the suit charges.

Vapor Device Opposition Of Oil Companies Probed

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The District Attorney's office has begun probing charges that a number of major oil companies might be quietly resisting an antipollution law demanding the installation of gas vapor recovery devices.

District Attorney Edwin Miller said the investigation of possible antitrust violations by the oil companies was just "in the initial stages."

Miller did not elaborate.

The antipollution ordinance, one of the strictest in the country, requires the operators of gas stations and gas storage facilities to install devices that would capture and recycle 90 per cent of the fuel vapors.

Proponents of the devices say they would eliminate some 30 tons of smog-producing hydrocarbons a day over the city as well as allow stations to recover $200 a month woth of fuel fromhthe vapors.

Since the law went into effect at the start of the year only five of San Diego's 2,500 stations have installed the controversial gas pump devices.

The supervisors have already extended the deadline by six months, and scheduled a publichearing for March 29 to consider pushing the deadline back to Jan. 1, 1975.

Meanwhile, county supervisor Jack Walsh said that vapor recovery equipment used at some of the stations was tampered with and, occasionally, sabotaged before it underwent critical official tests for effectiveness.

Walsh's charges followed an inspection Monday of six test sites by the supervisors and members of the Air Pollution Control District in San Diego.

"The first station we went to had been tested as recently as last Friday," said Walsh, "And the vapor devices on the gas pumps never failed. Then, when we went there, every car we tested failed.

"No one could understand what happened," he shrugged.

Several service stations owners told the Los Angeles Times they had been advised by their oil industry distributors not to install the vapor recovery systems in their stations.

Oil company critics have accused the firms of obstructing the ordinance because it would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars for the antivapor pumps in San Diego alone. And the ordinance is the model for similar laws in 25 other states and the District of Columbia.

"So the eyes of the nation are on San Diego," said one supporter of the law. "If it succeeds here and the oil companies have to comply, then they'll have to put the systems in all around the country, and this could cost them a fortune."

Oil company representatives have denied they are in any way banding together to resist the law and all, except Shell Oil, claim the technology is not yet perfected to comply with the San Diego ordinance.

A Texaco official said tests found in one of the vapor recovery pumps a concentration of hydrocarbons that was "in the explosive range."

The law covers four situations when gas vapors spill into the atmosphere — during bulk loading at gas teriminals; during tanker loading at the terminals, during tanker unloading at gas stations and, during the pumping of fuel for motorists.

A roughly similar law in Los Angeles has, since 1958, covered gas vapor recovery only during fuel tansfers from the bulk terminal into the tank truck.

HAVE YOU SEEN KIRSTEN? — Kirsten Black, auburn-haired, blue-eyed 14-year-old freshman at Terra Linda High School, has been missing since Feb. 26. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Black of 710 Montecillo Road, San Rafael, appealed today for any news of their daughter. They said it seems unlikely she would have run away, and fear harm may have befallen her.

Hodgson Rumored

WASHINGTON (UPI) — James D. Hodgson, former Secretary of Labor, is expected to be named ambassador to Japan, according to diplomatic sources here.

Deadly Virus Is Killing Millions Of Salmon In State Hatcheries

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — More than 2.3 million young king salmon have been killed by a deadly cold water virus at two state hatcheries in Northern California, the Department of Fish and Game reported yesterday.

At Nimbus Hatchery the virus was first observed about six weeks ago and already has killed two million fry — nearly half of this year's scheduled fish production at the facility near here.

Wildlife officials said the disease can be controlled in a hatchery environment by rearing the juvenile salmon in water at 58 degree temperatures, but water at that temperature is not available at Nimbus.

Nimbus officials also said the deaths there were continuing at a rate of 20,000 a day.

At the Feather River Hatchery in Oroville officials said 350,000 juvenile fish died before the virus was controlled through the use of well water which produced a constant supply of 58 degree water in the rearing ponds.

State fish and game officials also reported another outbreak, at the federally operated Coleman Hatchery near Red Bluff, but said they did not know how many fish had died there.

The cold water virus has the scientific name infectious hematopoietic necrosis and is also known as the Sacramento River Chinook Disease. It is endemic in salmon in the Sacramento River system.

The fry stricken with the disease at Nimbus were from eggs taken by hatchery workers over a six-week period beginning about mid-October last year.

A fish and game spokesman said there was nothing that could be done about the Nimbus deaths.

"It will just have to run its course," he said.

END OF A BANANA BAD DREAM

Brian Liston, star of "You Are a Banana," smashes a banana cream pie into the face of co-star, Kelly Ryan (left photo) to climax a film being made by third grade students at San Pedro School in San Rafael. Kelly (center photo) departs from the script, and goaded by the laughter of watching classmates, grabs up remains of the pie and throws it on the hero. Liston (right photo) is splattered from head to toe by her southpaw marksmanship. The youngsters in Jeanne Weitz's class filmed a horror story in which Brian and Kelly, playing brother and sister, go on a picnic and he falls asleep. He dreams of troubles in a world ruled by banana beings, and reacts violently when he awakens — and his sister offers him banana cream pie to eat.

Youth Arrested After High-Speed Auto Chase

A 17-year-old Fairfax youth was captured last night after leading police on a high speed chase around San Rafael and up Highway 101 to Marinwood.

He was booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of reckless driving and his 17-year-old passenger was warned and released, San Rafael police reported.

The chase started at 9:30 p.m. at Third and Hetherton Streets when police tried to stop the youth. He sped away, exceeding 80 miles an hour on Francisco Boulevard.

Five San Rafael police units joined in the chase around the Canal area of San Rafael. They were joined by two California Highway Patrol units and two Marin County deputy sheriff's units as the chase went north on Highway 101 at speeds of more than 100 miles an hour.

The youth took the Marinwood offramp and was going to swing back onto the highway on the bus lane, but a bus pulled out, blocking his path. His car was quickly surrounded by at least five patrol units, police reported.

Board To Discuss Future Desalting Of Sea Water

The possibility that Marin's future water supply will be extracted from sea water will be discussed at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Marin Municipal Water District office in Corte Madera.

The session on desalinization will be the first in a series to explore district water supply.

Tuesday's speakers will be Donat B. Brice, a chemical engineer involved in desalinization projects with the state Division of Water Resources, and James R. Cofer, assistant manager and district engineer for the Orange County Water District.

Brice is involved in a state feasibility study of the possibility of locating a desalinization plant at Point San Quentin in Marin.

A staff member of the division of water resources for 14 years, Brice headed the design study for the Diablo Canyon Desalting Plant, proposed for the San Louis Obispo area.

Before joining the state staff, he worked for two firms instrumental in the design of the Point Loma Desalting Plant at San Diego.

For the past seven years, Cofer has worked with Factory 21, a desalting plant used to replenish the underground water supplies of Orange County. Previously, he was employed by the state Division of Water Resources and worked on the state water project.

Before the desalinization discussion, district directors will meet in closed session to discuss with their attorneys the McCarthy Co. suit, according to J. Dietrich Stroeh, district acting general manager.

They also will meet in open session to consider 1973-74 budget revisions and relocation of pipe on Bon Air road in Greenbrae.

Upcoming sessions on water supply will cover conservation, natural supplies and wastewater reclamation and reuse.

Man Faces A Second Felon Count

A Fairfax man already facing a felony charge in Marin Superior Court has been bound over for trial on yet another count.

Following a preliminary hearing Thursday, Municipal Judge Robert A. Smallman ruled there was enough evidence to hold Woodrow Wilson Fitzsimmons, 30, for felony assault on a peace officer.

Fitzsimmons, accused of felony hit-and-run in the November traffic death of Harmen Evers of San Anselmo, also is charged with slugging Sheriff's Deputy Kenneth Harlan at thecounty jail Feb. 23.

Fitzsimmons is to be arraigned Monday in superior court on the hit-and-run case and March 20 on the assault count.

Hitch To Boost Pay Request For Faculty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — President Charles Hitch has announced he will seek a 6.2 per cent pay raise for the University of California faculty in 1974-75 rather than the 4.7 per cent increase previously recommended.

The smaller figure was based on estimates of what the eight comparison institutes in the nation would pay their faculties. But Hitch said yesterday that the estimates were too low.

If the full raise is granted by the legislature, it would cost Californians $14.4 million.

The school's regents Friday voted to send a letter to the Goodyear Co. critical of officials who made an illegal $40,000 campaign contribution to President Nixon's campaign.

Yesterday's action, recommended by the Regents' committee on investments, was the first time the university board has taken one of its investment companies to task on a social issue. The regents own more than $6 million in Goodyear stock.

But the Regents voted down three other proposals regarding Goodyear originated by stockholders and brought before the board by regent and gubernatorial hopeful William Matson Roth.

The proposals would have called on the company not to give pay raises to those involved in the illegal donation, to fire those involved, and to reveal the ethnic and racial composition of the company's workers.

ACCIDENT WRECKAGE — With hood and bumper sheared away, the twisted metal of this sedan's front end gives silent testimony to the impact of a head-on collision yesterday on Highway 101 near the Greenbrae interchange. The car's driver, Rosemary A. O'Connor of San Rafael, was reported in stable condition today at Ross General Hospital. The driver of the truck involved in the collision received only broken ribs. Bird Horde Remains A Problem

GRACEHAM, Md. (UPI) — The Maryland National Guard and the Army have rejected requests that they use helicopters to scare off the millions of birds that have roosted near here, unsettling townsfolk and attracting curiosity-seekers.

Frederick County Commissioner Donald L. Lewis had suggested that the Army or National Guard fly aircraft into the path of the estimated 10 million starlings, blackbirds and grackles, but Benjamin F. Dean, chief of staff for the Maryland National Guard, said, "You'd risk your life flying into those birds in a helicopter." Dean said yesterday that birds could either get sucked into the copter's engine or its propeller and cause the craft to crash.

"No way I'd do it," he said. "If I told a pilot to do it, he'd probably tell me to go to hell."

"They can make the request," said Lt. Robert Schulter, Army information officer at the Pentagon, "but in my opinion, I don't think it will do much good.

"The Army has been plagued with this type of problem for years at a number of forts and we found you can't scare them off," he said. "The birds will come back."

The birds swooped in this fall and their number has been growing since then. They have chased dogs, scared livestock and worried the 400 townsfolk about potential health hazards from the bird's droppings, which measure three inches deep in some places.

Suggestions on how to get rid of them have ranged from setting loose 10,000 starving cats in the 60-acre pine forest the birds roost in to scaring them off with aircraft or explosives. Lewis was appointed to head a joint effort by county, state and federal health and wildlife officials to find a solution.

Chandler Robbins, chief of migratory non-game bird studies at the Patuxent, Md., federal wildlife research center, said the birds are roosting in the forest as part of a northward migratory pattern.

"I would expect them to go in the next warm spell or the one after that," Robbins said. If they are not frightened off, he said, the birds may return to the same spot next year. It is about seven miles from the presidential retreat at Camp David.

The sight of the birds flying in at dusk each night has been compared to scenes in the Hitchcock thriller, "The Birds". Unlike the movie, the birds have not attacked anyone.

"It's kind of scary at night to see them birds come in," said Rachel Emrich, whose husband owns the pine forest, "Our dog, Lassie, almost tears down the door trying to get in the house when they come. The noise seems to scare her, and she shakes."

The birds have attracted so many tourists that state troopers have had to help unsnarl traffic jams.

San Rafael Woman Hurt In Head-On Auto Crash

Rosemary A. O'Connor, 54, of San Rafael, was reported in stable condition today in the intensive care unit at Ross General Hospital with injuries suffered yesterday in a head-on collision on Highway 101 near Greenbrae.

The California Highway Patrol said Mrs. O'Connor was southbound on the freeway about 1 p.m. when a car driven by Helen A. Gilles, 53, of San Anselmo changed lanes and forced Mrs. O'Connor auto across the highway through a gap in the center guard rail. (That portion of the roadway is under construction and a portion of the rail has been removed.)

The O'Connor car and a northbound truck driven by Michael L. Verbish of Sonoma collided, according to the highway patrol. The collision knocked the Verbish truck into a car operated by Robert H. Johnson, 31, of Fairfax.

A hospital spokesman said the extent of Mrs. O'Connor's injuries was not known this morning. Verbish was treated for broken ribs and cuts at Marin General Hospital and released. Johnson was not hurt.

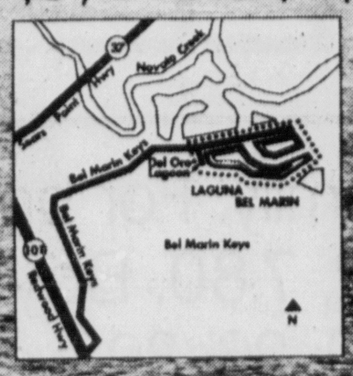

The highway patrol said Mrs. Gilles of 130 Morningside Drive, left the accident scene but was identified after her license number was spotted by witnesses. She probably will be cited for the illegal lane change which caused the accident, officers said.

Coeds Profit From Market Gift

CLAREMONT (AP) — It has been a year since nine Scripps College coeds were given $50,000 to invest for their college, and while the fund shows a slight loss, the girls say they have profited from the experience.

Mrs. J. Stanley Johnson of Altadena, Calif., a Scripps' trustee, donated the $50,000 to the small, all-women liberal arts college in February 1973 to teach the coeds financial responsibility. The market value of the fund as of Feb. 28, 1974 was $45,864, a spokesman for Scripps said.

"While it might look like we're losing money on paper, we don't really consider it a loss because we still hold the stocks and their value keeps changing all the time," she said.

The investment fund showed paper profits for six months, from June to November, but has listed losses the last three months.

At the first annual meeting of the Student Investment Fund on Thursday, the coeds presented Elizabeth Johnson, Scripps director of financial aid, with a check for $2,473.13. The amount was the equivalent of 5 per cent of the average month end market value and a similar percentage will be drained off annually for student grant and loan programs.

"I'm surprised and delighted the girls did as well as they have," Mrs. J. Stanley Johnson said. "This year has been pretty traumatic for everybody in the investment field, and I'm really pleased at how well things have turned out."

The nine-student board had full authority to handle the money, although Mrs. Johnson, in making her gift, set down protective guidelines.

"Everything was totally new so we learned a great deal," said Ann Farner, president of the fund. "We learned to work in a committee situation, how to deal with brokers and financial people.

"We also discovered that the stock market is not as important as people think. It reflects the economy more than it motivates it. Buyers' motivations can be changed by such a simple event as the President saying the economy is doing better whether that's true or not."

There Is A Brighter Outlook For Marin Lacrosse

Better Organization For Northern Cal Loop Club

By LEW CODDINGTON

Things are looking much better these days for the Marin Lacrosse Club. Organization has replaced chaos, optimism has replaced pessimism, and it may be time for victory to replace defeat.

Bolstered by a new coach and several new players, the team expects to improve on last year's winless record, according to Fred Bauer, who fills the dual role of vice president (of the club) and attackman (on the team).

"Things are going much better this year," Bauer said. "Last year we didn't practice, we showed up for games on the wrong days. We were disorganized. This year we aren't. We're out of the red financially, because of dues and donations, and we have the basis of a good team."

Marin opened its Northern California Lacrosse Association season last Saturday by losing, 15-4, to the club team from the University of California, Berkeley.

A league encounter with San Francisco is scheduled at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Golden Gate Park Polo Field, and the first home appearance will be next Sunday at 1 p.m., a non-league game against the University of Washington at Mill Valley Middle School.

The NCLA is a tough, seven-team league won last year by the Naval Postgraduate School of Monterey. Other teams are Palo Alto, Stanford (club level) and Golden Gate L.C. of San Francisco.

The Oakland team recently folded, bequeathing Marin four players — one of whom, midfielder Rusty Hay, lives in Sausalito. All four have become starters.

"The league has several former All-Americans in it," said Bauer. "Many of the players come from back east."

Marin's head coach is Jerry Jordan, a seven-year league veteran who recently moved from San Francisco to Fairfax and changed teams in the process. Assisting him is Geoff Homolya, a former teammate of Jordan's in S.F.

Homolya and Jordan also play. In addition, they referee games when they are not playing or practicing. Lacrosse and overwork seem to go together.

Formerly troubled for players, Marin now has 28, enough to cope with the demands of substitution. Lacrosse is a 10-man game, with three attackmen, three midfielders, three defensemen and a goalie. Midfielders scamper around a lot, so at least three complete groups are needed, like lines in hockey.

Marin has an outstanding midfielder, John Hubbard, and an exceptional goalie, 45-year-old Bill Harris. The team also has benefitted from the arrival of five players from the Ira Markwett Junior League, run by Bob Fleak.

"We're not hurting for players now," said Bauer. "The turnout has been real good."

The team's only problem now seems to be practice. Its workout schedule has been nomadic and irregular, due to the difficulty of finding a field and the trouble of getting 28 working men together in the same place at the same time.

Nonetheless, the team manages to practice weekly — quite an improvement over last year, when it didn't practice at all. It's only a matter of time, Bauer and his teammates figure, until Marin ends its year-old losing streak.

NBA ROUNDUP

Warriors Alive With G. Johnson

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Nate Thurmond is out but George Johnson is alive and well and so are the Golden State Warriors—back in first place in the National Basketball Association Pacific Division by .002 with a 112-107 victory over rival Los Angeles last night.

Johnson, who averaged only six minutes and 2.5 rebounds per game as a rookie last season after being signed as free agent by the Warriors, filled in superbly for the injured Thurmond by grabbing a career-high 30 rebounds.

Cazzie Russell continued his hot shooting against the Lakers by scoring a game-high 35 points but Los Angeles coach Bill Sharman said his own team deserves blame more than the Warriors do credit.

"It's just a shame," said Sharman, "that we played so badly in our most important game of the year."

"Our defense was terrible," Sharman said. "We let them drive the middle much too often without any pressure."

The wild chase for the Western Conference's last playoff spot resumes tonight at 8 o'clock when the two teams clash again on the Warriors' Oakland Coliseum Arena home court.

The Lakers were trailing 107-93 when they caught fire, hitting 14 straight points to tie the score at 107-107 with 1:19 to play. Then Rick Barry hit a left-handed hook shot and stole the ball from Gail Goodrich, setting up a lay-up by Butch Beard.

The Lakers still had a chance with 50 seconds remaining, but Happy Hairston lost the ball out of bounds. Jeff Mullins closed out the scoring with a free throw.

"This was one of the few times lately we have kept our poise when it counted," said Warrior coach Al Attles. "We could have given up or let down when they tied us."

Mullins ended with 22 for the Warriors, while Barry had a subpar 16 and Johnson and Beard each scored 14. Center Elmore Smith paced the Lakers with a season-high 25 points while Goodrich had 24 and Connie Hawkins scored 21.

After tonight's game, the Lakers have five games remaining, all at home, meeting New York, Milwaukee, Chicago, Buffalo and Seattle. The Warriors have home games against Milwaukee, Buffalo, Seattle and Portland and meet Seattle, Phoenix and Portland on the road.

Pistons 93, Bucks 89

Bob Lanier scored 19 points and grabbed 19 rebounds as Detroit gained its first playoff berth in six years. It was a costly loss for the Bucks, who are three victories from clinching another Midwest Division title, because starting guard Lucius Allen was injured early in the game with a possible tear in his left knee ligaments.

Cavs 104, Celts 103

LOOSE BALL — Los Angeles Laker guard Jim Price (left) and Golden State Warrior forward Clyde Lee last night scrambled for a loose ball in Inglewood. Price retrieved the basketball.

(UPI Telephoto)

Bulls 114, Braves 97

Chicago clinched a NBA playoff berth for the seventh time in the last eight years with the victory. It was the Bulls' 50th win of the season.

76ers 108, Suns 101

Steve Mix scored 27 points and Fred Carter added 24 as Philadelphia downed Phoenix.

Rockets 114, Bullets 105

Mike Newlin scored 32 points and Elvin Hayes and Phil Chenier each got 20 points to pace Houston to the victory.

Blazers 107, Knicks 105

Geoff Petrie's layup with 20 seconds to go enabled Portland to defeat New York. Petrie, held to only four points in the first half, then exploded for 25 more on 11 for 14 second half shooting as Portland snapped a three-game losing streak and picked up only its third victory in 16 games.

Hawks 126, Sonics 107

Pete Maravich and Walt Bellamy combined for 69 points to lead Atlanta past Seattle. Maravich had 39 while Bellamy's 30 points enabled him to become the sixth all-time scorer, passing the retired Bob Petit.

GOLDEN STATE (112) —Barry 8 0-0 16, Lee 2 0-0 4, Johnson 6 2-3 14, Beard 6 2-4 14, Mullins 9 4-7 22, Barnett 3 1-1 7, Russell 16 3-3 35, Dickey 0 0-0 0. Totals 50 12-18 112.

Marinites Keep Winning

Marin high school baseball teams continued their remarkable early-season success yesterday, winning four out of the five games they played.

Terra Linda defeated Montgomery in Santa Rosa, 6-3, Redwood downed St. Ignatius in San Francisco, 3-1, Novato whipped visiting Casa Grande of Petaluma, 4-0, and Marin Catholic topped Wilson in San Francisco, 8-4.

The lone loser was Tamalpais, a 10-2 victim of visiting Hogan of Vllejo. San Marin, San Rafael and Drake had games called off for various reason.

Terra Linda (6-1), Marin's winningest team, captured its sixth victory in a row on a route-going performance by pitcher Kevin Kirby, who struck out nine, walked two and allowed four hits.

Ken Wolter went three for four with a double for the Trojans, and Fitz Minnigerode clinched the win with a two-run single in the seventh inning.

Redwood (5-1) received superior pitching from Jeff Lucchesi (3-0), who did not give up a hit or walk in five innings and extended his personal scoreless streak to 17. St. Ignatius produced one hit and one run after he departed.

Redwood scored on a passed ball in the first inning, a double steal in the third and an error in the fourth. The Giants also managed only one hit.

Novato (1-3) took its first victory as Chris De Recat and Marty Rojas combined for a two-hitter, allowing one hit each.

Dave Brazell drove in three runs for the Hornets with a two-run double in the second inning and a bases-loaded walk in the third. The other run scored on a steal of home in the first by Mike Race.

Marin Catholic (3-1) belted eight hits, two each by Jeff Knotts and Rich Speidel. Len Kristensen and Knotts each had two-run doubles in the five-run fourth inning.

Tamalpais (2-2) scored its only two runs in the sixth inning as Ken Praszker singled and Peter Lea followed with a home run. Hogan's Bob Smith hurled five no-hit innings previously.

Drake's game with Mission of San Francisco was called because Mission was unable to get transportation due to the city workers' strike, and is tentatively rescheduled for Monday at 3:30 p.m. at Drake.

San Marin's game with Napa was postponed until Monday at 3 p.m. at San Marin due to inability to find a field yesterday. San Rafael's game with Petaluma was postponed until Wednesday at 3:15 p.m. at Albert Field because groundskeepers deemed Albert too wet yesterday.

Has A's Dark Changed?

MURRAY OLDERMAN

THE TIPOFF:

The pro football players, polled individually, don't really want a strike but will push for one anyhow if the autocratic owners cut off the pension insurance payments after March — the Players Association has already warned all members to take care of all dental and medical work right now.

Q. How could the Oakland Athletics hire Alvin Dark as manager after those racist remarks he made a few years ago when he was with the Giants, and considering that the world champs have key black guys like Reggie Jackson, Vida Blue and Bert Campaneris? — P.L., Sacramento, Calif.

I might say, like Bobby Dylan, the times they are a-changing. Actually, Dark's attitudes don't differ too much from those of owner Charlie Finley. Also, he'll be a lot more prudent than he was delivering those off-the-cuff remarks to a New York writer in '64, a decade ago. What really loused Alvin up in San Francisco was an extra-curricular episode (he eventually married the girl). Owner Horace Stoneham reacted puritanically to the peccadillos of a man who professed to be ultra-religious and straight.

Q. I recently saw Mark Harmon, UCLA's star quarterback, guest-star on "Ozzie's Girls" and he was great! Do you know if he's going to pursue an acting career or continue as a football player? — Tina Staudacher, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mark has hinted he'd like to play more football, but since there isn't much market for a wishbone quarterback who can't throw he'll probably gravitate towards acting, which wouldn't be unusual — his mother (former Elyse Knox) was an actress, and so's his brother-in-law, Rick Nelson.

Q. Edwin (Alabama) Pitts came out of Sing Sing prison to play for the Paterson (N.J.) Panthers in the late '30s and only two games for the Philadelphia Eagles. Why only two games and what happened to him? — Carlo Depile, Napa, Calif.

The Alabama Pitts case shows how sports and society have changed. It was a national cause celebre when Alabama was paroled from Sing Sing in 1935 after serving five years on a robbery charge and played some minor league baseball, then had a brief fling as an Eagle halfback. Truth is, 'Bama wasn't good enough or big enough for either — after making a big rep on prison fields of play. He died in a stabbing fracas in North Carolina in 1941. Nowadays you've got ex-cons in all the major sports, without much fuss — you can't hardly qualify as a heavyweight contender these days unless you've done a stretch.

Q. Our son, very much interested in football, has been unable to locate a book titled "Quarterbacking" by Bart Starr and has requested that his mom and I find it. We've tried every book store and have even written Bart Starr in Green Bay, Wis., but no success. Can you help us? — Felix Poletto, Denver, Colo.

Prentice-Hall (Englewood Cliffs, N.J.) published the book in 1967 and, I'm sure, can make a copy available to you. I should also note with due modesty that the same publisher produced a book called "The Pro Quarterback" by an author whose initials are M.O.

Q. Why don't the newspaper sports sections give more coverage to competitive water skiing? All I ever read about is snow skiing, dominated by non-USA skiers. The paper is happy when we take a 14th place! Who wants to read about some person from Lower Slobovia winning again? — A. St. John, Fall River Mills, Calif.

Because water skiing is for the doers, not viewers (and I should mention that the world water skiing champs in '73 were from Canada, for the men, and France, for the women. Snow skiing is also primarily a participant sport, but they have been able to make it exciting for spectators, too. And they operate with their own locomotion.

Green Has Unusual Way To Practice

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Ever since Hubert Green took down that old putter of his and practiced putting in the nude (in the privacy of his own home, of course), his game has improved steadily.

It improved to the point where the 27-year-old Florida State University graduate fired a 70-67–137 to take sole possession of the second round lead in the Greater Jacksonville Open golf tournament yesterday.

Green carded five birdies and parred the remaining 13 holes of the par 72, 7,088-yard Deerwood Country Club course to move one stroke up on first round co-leader John Mahaffey and Homero Blancas, both at 138.

Hot on their heels at 139 were Arnold Palmer, Jim Wiechers, Leonard Thompson and Florida golfer Nate Starks.

After his round of consistent golf, Green admitted to newsmen that his style of putting has changed since the U.S. Open last year. He now crouches more over the ball— something he developed while using an old putter at home in the nude.

"I was just using this old putter—every golfer has some lying around—and I was just standing there putting away while streaking, you might say," he said.

Whatever the reason, Green has been putting consistently, and nowhere was this more evident than his five-under 67 round which put him in front of the 10th annual GJO, with 36 more holes to go.

But the only time Green ran into real trouble was on the par-five fourth hole when his drive landed in a bunker near the center of the fairway. He blasted out and hit a five-iron to within 25 feet of the hole where he one-putted for a birdie four.

Green said he also enjoyed the attention of the large gallery following him and his two playing partners, Lee Trevino and Al Geiberger.

Trevino shot a 75-70--145 and Geiberger had a 74-72--146 to both make the cut at 146.

If Green had a problem with the fourth hole, it was no sweat for Blancas and Wiechers. They both eagled it, Blancas for the second straight day.

Palmer said he was pleased with his play and glad to be in striking posution heading into the final two days of the $150,000 tournament.

Labron Harris, who shared the first round lead with Mahaffey, shot a par 72 Friday to put him in a bunch at fourunder-par 140 with Jerry McGee, Tom Weiskopf and Australian Open champion Bobby Cole. Napa's Ron Cerrudo had a 76-73—149 and missed the cut.

INTENSITY — Greater Jacksonville Open golf leader Hubert Green yesterday concentrated on following his putt on the 11th hole. Green parred the hole in Jacksonville, Fla. (UPI Telephoto)

PREP TRACK

Tamalpais Victory Is Important

Tamalpais High School's track and field team opened its Marin County Athletic League season yesterday with an important 83-54 victory over San Rafael in Mill Valley.

In another league opening meet, Drake whipped Marin Catholic, 78-54, in Greenbrae. The two other encounters scheduled for yesterday, Redwood at Terra Linda and San Marin at Novato, were postponed until Tuesday, due to wet tracks at the home schools. Drake and San Rafael had been scheduled to host yesterday's meets, but the sites were shifted to the opposing tracks for the same reason.

Tam and San Rafael were two of the five teams thought to have a chance for this year's championship. Fred Adams led the Indians with a triple victory, in the 120-yard high hurdles, 330 lows, and the triple jump. Tam won all but one of the field events, and took a second place in the one it lost, the long jump.

Drake, on the other hand, had trouble in the field events, with only one victory, the pole vault, but made up for it by winning all but three events on the track. Marin Catholic's Jim Schneider was the meet's only double winner, in the shot put and discus.

STRIKE IN OFFING

NFL Players, Owners To Meet Today Over Pact Negotiations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The pro football players association and a committee of owners knuckle down today for new contract negotiations.

The negotiations are expected to be protracted and could ultimately wind up in a strike that could disrupt the 1974 season.

In advance of the first formal session, Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association predicted there would be "hard bargaining ahead." His counterpart, John Thompson of the owners' newly created Management Council agreed.

The association representing approximately 1,200 pro players has developed a series of opening demands, many of them aimed at what they term "freedom issues" that would diminish the power of NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"The freedom issues are going to be very difficult," Garvey predicted. "I don't see any major problems on the economic proposals."

The main "freedom issue" dispute centered on the players' insistence that the "Rozelle rule" be eliminated. The rule covers a player who plays out his option with one team in the hopes of signing with another team.

Rozelle has been the sole arbiter on what a team obtaining such a player must pay in compensation, usually high draft choices, to the player's former team—if the two teams can't come to an agreement.

The association argues that the "Rozelle rule" dissuades a team from bidding for a player and renders the entire option system meaningless.

Rozelle is on the sidelines for this year's negotiations, leaving the bargaining to Thompson and his group.

Four years ago, the players went on strike that disrupted the start of the training camps.

The players this year also want to abolish the current waiver rule so that once a player is released by a club, he is free to negotiate with any other team he wishes. They also are demanding that Rozell be stripped of his authority to arbitrate player-owner grievances, particularly those involving injuries.

Their economic demands boil down to a proposal that the individual winners' payoff in the Super Bowl be raised from the current $15,000 to $25,000; that the existing pre-season pay for players be made a flat $2,000; that the minimum annual salary be boosted from $12,000 to $20,000 and that retiring players be paid a $5,000 compensation to help them adjust to nonfootball careers.

There already has been one pre-bargaining flare-up between the two sides. The players association protested that the owners unilaterally decided to cut off insurance benefits for themselves and their dependents on April 1. The owners responded that the cut-off was mandatory because the previous contract expired on Feb. 1.

Dear Old (or young) Faithful — Bobby, unfortunately, quit after the 1962 season. Which was too bad, because he was a winner. Like his old teammate, Doak Walker, once said: "Bobby never lost a game in his life. Time just occasionally ran out on him."

Q. Rick Barry of the Warriors seems like a hothead to me —how does he keep his cool and still score when he's always raging at the referees? — Steve Warnecke, Cleveland, O.

Rick says he plays better when he gets hot (literally), that anger spurs him. Of course, it also spurred the NBA commissioner to fine him $1,000 for bumping an official.

PARTING SHOT:

A minority owner in the NFL, irate at being snubbed by the big guy running the club, is ready to start some legal fireworks to make the team accountable for its operation — it's not Wayne Valle and the Oakland Raiders.

Terra Linda, Redwood In A Costly Swimming Deadlock

They say a tie is like kissing your sister. This one was worse. It may have meant kissing championship hopes goodbye.

Terra Linda and Redwood high schools swam to an 86-86 tie in a Marin County Athletic League meet yesterday at Terra Linda, possibly giving league-leading San Rafael a clear route to the title.

In other MCAL meets yesterday, San Rafael defeated visiting Tamalpais, 107½ to 64½, and visiting San Marin downed Drake, 108-33. Novato drew a bye.

San Rafael (5-0) already has beaten Terra Linda (1-1-1), so now that the tie has occured, the Trojans cannot catch the Bulldogs in the standings even by beating them next time. A split with San Rafael in two upcoming meets would not help defending champion Redwood (3-0-1).

Matt Lager of Redwood won three individual races to star in the meet. Terra Linda's Tom Olund took two individual events and a relay and Bill Power triumphed in two relays and one race for the Trojans.

Terra Linda was missing star Dan Stewart, in Los Angeles for an Amateur Athletic Union meet. San Rafael swam without Ken DeMont, Bob Placak and Scott Hislop for the same reason.

Jeff Kamler, Joe Dunn and Sig Baerthel participated in three victories each for the Bulldogs.

San Marin's Art Morrill also was in L.A., but the Mustangs cruised to victory behind triple wins by Russ Testa and Bob Venema.

Rancho's Depth Keys Upset Over Piner Swimmers

SANTA ROSA — The Rancho Cotate High School swim team paid tribute to depth here yesterday.

Despite taking fewer first places, the visitors accumulated enough seconds and thirds to hand perennial Sonoma County League power Piner its first ever league loss, 92-79.

Wayne Eggert led Rancho (2-0 in league), taking firsts in the 50-yard freestyle (24.3) and the 100-free (54.5). He also swam the third leg of the victorious 400-free relay team.

Chris Nissen set a new Rancho mark in the 200 individual medley with a time of 2:09, cutting six-tenths off the old mark held by Dave Salo.

Marin Netters Bow To Foothill

College of Marin's tennis team lost to the state's number-one ranked junior college team, Foothill of Los Altos, 8-1, in Camino Norte Conference action yesterday in Kentfield.

Marin's only victory came in the day's final doubles match, when Greg Kalemba and Eric Rayner outlasted Benjy Robbins and Kevin Phallon, 6-1, 1-6, 7-6. In a number-one singles match, Bill Shine, in national junior college rankings, beat Marin's Mark Rodnick, 6-0, 6-4. Marin is now 1-1 in the CNC, and 7-2 overall.

Marin Track Team Defeated

College of Marin's track and field team dropped its first Camino Norte Conference meet yesterday, losing to West Valley of Campbell, 87-57, in Kentfield.

The Tars (2-1) were led by double winner Larry Butti, placing first in the triple and long jumps.

Redwood Crew Sweeps Berkeley

OAKLAND — The Redwood High School crew team took both races from host Berkeley yesterday in Bay Area Rowing Association action on the Oakland estuary.

The varsity covered the 2,000 meter course in 6:36.6 for a 15.4 second victory margin. The Giants are 2-0 in the six-team association and 7-0 overall. Redwood's junior varsity prevailed at 6:52. Berkeley's J.V.s closed at 7:28.

Rancho Track Team Triumphs, Sets A Record

Rancho Cotate High School got a record-breaking performance yesterday, but it was only good for second place.

The Cougars did better as a team, scoring 103½ points to take a non-league track and field meet from visiting St. Vincent of Petaluma (36 points) and Cloverdale (27½ points).

Sophomore Bob Otis cleared 5-feet-10¼ in the high jump to break the old school mark of 5-10, set by Monty Dunton in 1971. Cloverdale's Tony Cavallo also jumped 5-10¼, but was awarded first place for fewer misses.

Keith Chavez was a double winner for Rancho Cotate (1-1), taking firsts in the shot put (45-1) and the discus (116-9½).

Cubs Come Back

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs, rebounding from an embarrassing four errors in the first two innings and a 4-0 deficit, bounced back to whip Arizona State University 10-7 yesterday in an exhibition game.

Ruggles Hurls Marin Tars To 6-2 Win

SANTA ROSA — "It was a major league performance. He took the bat right out of their hands."

That was coach Vic Petreshene's assessment after left-hander Mark Ruggles pitched College of Marin to a 6-2 Camino Norte Conference baseball victory over Santa Rosa Junior College yesterday. Ruggles struck out 10, walked none and allowed six hits.

If Ruggles took the bat away from the Bear Cubs, he must have given it to John Billings. The Tars' outfielder doubled home two runs in the top of the ninth inning to break a 2-2 tie and key a four-run rally.

Cliff Johnson, a 26-year-old rookie, looks like he's going to finally make the big time.

Johnson, seeking to land a place on the Houston Astros' bench, would doubtless be better off in the American League where the designated hitter rule has opened up the job market. But even with Lee May at first base and Bob Watson and Cesar Cedeno in the outfield, the Astros are going to have to find room for their "oldest" rookie.

Playing rightfield yesterday, Johnson, who batted .302 with 33 homers and 117 runs-batted-in with Oklahoma City last year, slammed out four hits including a homer and a double to power the Astros to a 6-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Another rookie having a big day was Milwaukee's Steve McCartney, who collected two doubles off Oakland's Vida Blue as the Brewers erupted for four second inning runs en route to an 8-6 victory.

Elsewhere: Ex-Dodger Willie Davis had three hits in four trips to the plate against his former mates to lead the Montreal Expos to a 4-3 triumph over Los Angeles...Atlanta's Mike Lum belted a three-run homer off luckless Steve Blass to lead the Braves to a 6-4 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates...Rick Miller's two-run single in the seventh inning propelled the Boston Red Sox to a 3-1 triumph against the New York Mets...

The New York Yankees upended a split Texas Ranger squad, 5-2, in a game highlighted by rookie Terry Whitfield's three-run homer in the eighth inning...The St. Louis Cardinals handed Minnesota its ninth straight exhibition loss when three righthanders — Lynn McGlothlen, Greg Terlecky and Orlando Pena—teamed up to shut out the Twins...Likewise, four Cleveland hurlers—Bob Johnson, Mike Kekich, Ken Sanders and Cecil Upshaw—teamed up to blank the California Angels in a 2-0 Indians' win.

Marin Track Team Defeated

College of Marin's track and field team dropped its first Camino Norte Conference meet yesterday, losing to West Valley of Campbell, 87-57, in Kentfield.

The Tars (2-1) were led by double winner Larry Butti, placing first in the triple and long jumps.

Redwood Crew Sweeps Berkeley

OAKLAND — The Redwood High School crew team took both races from host Berkeley yesterday in Bay Area Rowing Association action on the Oakland estuary.

The varsity covered the 2,000 meter course in 6:36.6 for a 15.4 second victory margin. The Giants are 2-0 in the six-team association and 7-0 overall. Redwood's junior varsity prevailed at 6:52. Berkeley's J.V.s closed at 7:28.

Cager Sets Record With 49-Point Game

Tom Gagen set a Church League basketball scoring record last night by scoring 49 points on 22 field goals and five free throws as Dominican College defeated the Valley Baptist Boys, 88-46, at Dominican.

Gagen's performance overshadowed the first-place showdown in which Tiburon Baptist (6-1) rode Bill Taylor's 24 points to a 56-42 victory over San Rafael First Baptist (5-2). Christian Church won the night's other game over Valley Baptist Men, 33-26.

Poksay Sets Mark

Tom Poksay broke a San Marin High School record with an even-par 35 yesterday, to lead the Mustangs to a 212-214 non-league golf victory over Redwood at Indian Valley Golf Club.

Roberts Coach Changes His Mind

Combined AP & UPI

TULSA, Okla. — Oral Roberts University basketball coach Ken Trickey, who suspended himself yesterday after being charged with drunken driving, changed his mind today and said he would coach his team in the National Collegiate Athletic Association Midwest Regional finals.

"President (Oral) Roberts listened to me for a long time and was very kind and gracious to let me do this and he can do it without compromising the school," Trickey said.

"I'm real sorry the incident happened and I hope the incident will be resolved in the right way next week," he said.

Trickey said he told the players he would coach today's game and they "seemed pleased."

Assistant Jack Sutter was originally scheduled to replace Trickey on the bench.

"I feel bad for the school and the team," Trickey, 40, a vice president of the university, said yesterday. "I am innocent. I feel sure I will be proven innocent. I was not intoxicated."

ing from his job.

"My plans are simply to stay at the University of Southern California," McKay said. "I'm very happy right where I am."

McKay had been quoted in the San Francisco Examiner as saying he would quit at the end of the 1974 season if he could get a job in professional football. The paper said he was "optimistic" he would be offered a job in professional football.

CHICAGO — The Chicago Bears yesterday raised the possibility of legal action against retired linebacker Ross Brupbacher, who has signed to play for the Birmingham team of the World Football League.

Director of player personnel Bobby Walston said the Bears' attorneys would consult with the National Fottball League and "in all likelihood prompt legal action will be taken to protect the Bears' contract rights."

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

Birthday Celebration For Bonds

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI) — Bobby Bonds gave himself a great 28th birthday present.

The San Francisco outfielder celebrated number 28 yesterday by going 3-for-3 and leading the Giants to a 14-3 romp over San Diego at Yuma, Ariz. Bonds emerged from the slugfest with a .479 spring batting average.

Chris Speier and Ed Goodson also got three hits with one of Goodson's belts a homer.

While the batsmen were going strong, Ron Bryant, Jim Willoughby and Charlie Williams combined on a nine-hitter with Willoughby especially impressive in the middle three innings.

It was a great day all around for the men of Charlie Fox since the "B" squad vanquished the Padres 8-4 in another contest. Chris Arnold, Bruce Miller and Skip James each got three hits in that one with James unloading a 430-foot homer.

The only sour note of the day for the Giants was sounded when Steve Ontiveros, bidding for a job with the varsity this season, sprained an ankle while running the bases. He'll be lost for three days.

The Giants try to keep it going today against the California Angels.

San Jose Vs. UCLA Track Set Tomorrow

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — San Jose State, which hasn't lost a dual track meet in nearly two years, figures to be about a 20-point underdog tomorrow when it calls on UCLA, possibly the toughest team in the nation.

The meet, which also involves Long Beach State, was moved from today to tomorrow because UCLA's basketball team will be on television today as it goes for the Western regional National Collegiate Athletic Association title.

The Spartans lost one and gained one for the meet. Sprinter Ron Whitaker is doubtful with a leg injury but Marc Genet, who won the twomile in 8:51 last week at Stanford while running unattached, is eligible for the Spartans Sunday.

2 Tourneys Scheduled In Bowling

Two tournaments highlight the bowling schedule in Marin County.

First, the Marin County Junior Masters tourney will be held this weekend at Greenbrae Lanes. The Marin County Junior Bowling Association is sponsoring the event. Qualifying is at 3 and 6 p.m. today. Finals are at 3 p.m. tomorrow.

Second, the Northern California Professional Bowlers Association Tournament will be hosted by Nave Lanes next weekend. Eliminations begin at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. The finals are set next Sunday.

FRANK THERRIAULT recorded the top three-game series score in Marin County bowling league action this week. He bowled a 206-232-252—690 Thursday night in the 910 Classic at Greenbrae Lanes.

A's Losing In Spite Of Hot Tenace

MESA, Ariz. (UPI) — Maybe if Gene Tenace can stop hitting homers, the Oakland A's can start winning Cactus League games.

Tenace got his fifth homer of the spring yesterday and the A's dropped another game in a wild 8-6 loss to Milwaukee at Sun City. The World Champion A's take an unimpressive 2-4 mark into today's battle here with the Chicago Cubs.

Dick Green, who arrived in camp late, and Sal Bando, who has been out of action with an injured finger, both performed for the first time in yesterday's game.

Another first came when Joe Rudi went 0-for-3. It was the first time he had been hitless all spring and dropped his average to a still creditable .333.

Reggie Jackson belted two of Oakland's 11 hits to hike his Cactus mark over .300 and Ray Fosse also got a couple safeties.

Everybody Gets Into Act

OAKLAND (UPI) — Everybody got into the act last night as the California Seals recovered another National Hockey League drubbing.

While goalie Gilles Meloche got the short end of the statistics, it was obviously the lack of quality defensemen that enabled Pittsburgh to bang away with 42 shots while rolling up a 6-1 win.

Player director Garry Young says that building up the defense corps is his top priority for next season.

Six different Penguins scored with only a tally by Hillary Graves tying the count briefly at 1-1 early in the opening stanza, then the deluge came as Pittsburgh registered three more first period scores and coasted home.

Penn State's First

Penn State's John Cappelletti is the first from the school to be voted the Heisman Trophy as the nation's outstanding football player.

The Seals managed but 28 shots in a lackluster game before 3,853 fans. The crowd was probably held down by the fact that the key Golden StateLos Angeles National Basketball Association clash was televised to the Bay Area at the same time.

California now hits the road for games at Minnesota Tuesday and Los Angeles Thursday. Then it's back home next Friday to host Toronto.

First period: 1. Pittsburgh Lukowich 8 (Lavone, Bianchin) :48. 2. California Graves 9 (Croteau, Boldirev) 2:23. 3. Pittsburgh Bianchin 9 (Lukowich, Beverley) 4:04. 4. NEW HOPE — These fishermen, resetting their nets off Rhode Island's Point Judith, hope federal subsidies and new methods can bolster the sagging U.S. fishing industry.

SELDOM COOPERATIVE

The French Value Freedom

By ALINE MOSBY

PARIS (UPI) — After France reduced highway speed limits to keep French motorists from killing each other, French television interviewed a man on the street for his reaction.

"The government cannot tell us what to do with our cars," blustered one motorist. "That's like telling us we can't smoke or eat candy."

The individualistic spirit of the French, their insistence on go-as-you-please, their dislike of orders, match their foreign policies that often have them marching to a different tune.

This spirit is as evident on the streets of Paris as it was when French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert alone defied the other participants at the Washington oil conference.

Watch a pedestrian who is almost knocked down by a car running a red light. Watch a motorist who tries to steer through a green light with pedestrians illegally marching across his path.

Ask any Frenchman what he thinks of the police. Ask French who lie awake nights figuring out ways to avoid paying income tax.

One diplomat says, "The idea of cooperating is little known in French society. Thus one reason for French foreign policy is sociological. They have little sense of common civic responsibility in their own country, let alone with their Common Market partners. Self-help projects are practically unknown in France."

Exceptions such as attempts to halt a superhighway streaming past Notre Dame Cathedral, or the fledgling consumers' union, are so rare that they gain wide notice in France.

To the French, Napoleon's imperialism across Europe was spreading the civilizing French influence.

In World War I the Germans came within a shell's throw of Paris because France refused to agree to a joint military command for the Allies until 1918.

France alone refused to surrender some sovereignty to the proposed European army in 1954. France pulled out its troops from NATO in 1967 rather than submit to foreign command.

The late Charles de Gaulle, one of the greatest individualists of them all, extended France's traditional independence to include freedom from what he saw as domination by the United States.

Americans see their call for cooperation in solving the 1974 energy crisis as a neighborly proposal that results in good for all.

To the French delegation, the Washington Feb. 11 oil meeting "was meant to hide American attempts to re-establish their domination in Europe," foreign ministry spokesmen say.

Only France said "no" to group energy action, only France of the nine Common Market countries refused to attend the second meeting.

A cartoon in the Paris newspaper Le Figaro shows the French point of view: an American flag with eight new stars for the eight European nations who did go to Washington.

President Georges Pompidou calls for European unity but his terms mean a Europe led by France and divorced from the United States except for military protection.

"It's in the American interests anyway to keep troops in Europe," Jobert says.

But while Paris urges European unity, it floated the franc, killing any chance in the near future of a common monetary policy for Europe.

France vetoed reform of market farm policy and once forced European ministers to meet in Copenhagen and Brussels on the same day because of some political intrigue.

France was against any group aid to little Holland when it was shackled by an Arab oil embargo.

France's wish to keep influence in the Arab world prompted France to desert Israel in the 1967 Middle East war, quickly side with the Arabs in the 1973 war and become the Arabs' protector by signing oil-for-arms-or-industry deals.

The French people like to see Uncle Sam discomfited. A poll by the Sodres firm shows 52 per cent of the French approved of Jobert's "no, no, no" performance in Washington.

Delegates returning to Paris from the Washington oil conference chuckled to journalists, "Oh, we had a wonderful time."

One magazine likened Jobert to "the little warrior against the world." A cartoon shows Kissinger offering tiny Jobert dollars, oil, contracts, arms, Brezhnev's head and Mickey Mouse toys while Jobert haughtily keeps saying "no."

Is France's policy successful? Jobert points out that de Gaulle's denunciation of U.S. policy on Vietnam turned out years later to be right.

Jobert says, "France always has had good relations with the United States. Among European countries, France clearly states its opinion. This comes as a surprise to the Americans...one should take us as we are."

But Le Figaro commented "is France not taking the chance of torpedoing Europe while wanting it to be European?" And Combat editorializes that if Jobert doesn't want France to be cooperative with Washington, "then don't accept their dollars or their troops."

Fishing Industry Eyes Comeback

By WARD MOREHOUSE III
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

GLOUCESTER, Mass. — Your favorite fish dinner — at home or in a restaurant — could be cheaper soon if steps now being taken to regenerate the long-ailing U.S. commercial fishing industry succeed.

The steps include federal subsidies, training programs, and improved aquaculture (scientific fishing).

Commercial "catches" have begun to rise again, although they still are well below 20 years ago — and although fierce competition from Russian, Japanese, and other foreign fleets continues.

For example, in Gloucester, Mass., for the second consecutive year the value of fresh fish landings has increased by 25 per cent (to $12.1 million in 1973). And volume was up 15 per cent to 129 million pounds of fish.

(Thirty per cent of all fish catches by Americans are made off New England.)

Why the increase?

(1) Prices for fresh fish are up. Demand is higher, as people are looking for alternatives to more expensive meat.

(2) Gloucester's net 1973 catch of whiting soared to 23 million pounds, up 2-½ times from the previous year. "The whiting in the Gulf of Maine had a good spawning year in 1971. These fish were then caught in 1973," says Salvatore Favazza, executive secretary of the Gloucester Fisheries Commission.

(3) A million more pounds of shrimp were harvested because the shrimp industry in Gloucester, which began only in 1968, recently has expanded with more boats and better fishing methods.

Among current moves to strengthen the U.S. fishing industry:

TRAINING: Under the Manpower Development and Training Act of 1968, 80 Indians from 26 tribes across the U.S. are learning "aquaculture" of salmon and oysters at Bellingham, Washington.

The new $450,000 program, administered by the Lummi Indian tribe of Washington state, is funded jointly by the U.S. Labor and Agriculture Departments and the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Within a few weeks 25 unemployed people will begin training as "fishcutters" in New Bedford, Mass. in a program financed by a $30,000 grant from the U.S. Labor Department and administered by the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security.

Fifty students are enrolled in the University of Rhode Island's associate degree program in fisheries technology.

SUBSIDIES: A bill introduced by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D) of Massachusetts would increase by 70 per cent U.S. Commerce Department receipts from import duties on foreign-caught fish. These receipts are used to develop "increased markets" for domestic fishing products and to conduct biological and technological fisheries reserach.

Seventy per cent of the fish consumed in the U.S. is imported, but much of that is caught within 200 miles of America's Atlantic and Pacific coasts by foreign fishing fleets.

NEW FISHING LIMITS: The U.S. House is considering legislation that would establish an "interim" 200-mile U.S. fisheries zone off American coasts. If passed, this measure would keep the foreign fishing boats well out to sea and away from U.S. fishing grounds. House hearings are slated to begin early this spring.

Confidence Vote Bad, Says Nixon

CHICAGO (UPI) — President Nixon declared his opposition today to suggestions to provide for the removal of a president by a vote of no confidence such as exists under the British parliamentary system.

"I think the founding fathers made a good decision when they rejected that and decided that a president should only be removed when found guilty by a vote of the Senate of high crimes," the President said in answer to a question at the Chicago Executives' Club.

"They wanted stability in the presidency and they didn't want the instability of a vote of confidence hanging over a president."

He added that "if a president was always watching the polls, he'd be a weak president, not a strong one" and said in his opinion some of the great decisions that have been made by presidents have been the most unpopular ones."

RED CARPET REALTORS

RED CARPET, REALTORS COUNSEL CORNER

Dear Vicky L.
Avenues for assisting you are good. Have you looked into the prospect of a Lease-Option? This might be an excellent approach to "Pay-As-You-Go" with the idea of the long escrow period of perhaps six to eighteen months, making monthly payments toward your downpayment while living in the property. Briefly, a lease option can work successfully for both Buyer and Seller, particularly if you are serious about purchasing the home at the end of the lease period and if the owner desires a tax break for the year in which you are tenants. Your $1,000.00 should be adequate as a non-refundable deposit toward the down payment. Your ability to make good monthly payments should help with a portion of your rent payment serving as a credit toward the down payment upon excercise of the option. Each Red Carpet agent is familiar with Lease Options and will be most pleased to assist you in your goals. Just call your nearest Red Carpet office and refer to the Red Carpet, Realtors column on Lease-Options.

Business/Budget Analyst
TO $16,000
We have been selected by a major Corporation to recruit a person with a Business related degree such as Finance, Economics, etc; at least four but not more than seven years business exper. with no less than 2 of those years concentrated in the Budget realm. Someone capable of acting as liason between the Budget Group & Department Heads to gather realistic information & set up appropriate guide lines in order to perpetuate a healthy inter-departmental relationship. Some brush with a Computerised Budget would be helpful but more than that is the need for someone who can relate as well to people as to figures. You might say a budget ambassador is what we are really searching for. Call or come in with resume.

Unless you mean business. We are now considering qualified applicants in your area to become a working part of our National "Hot Food" Distributor System. You are not applying for a job! You are applying for a very high profit business of your own. NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY—NO SELLING INVOLVED. This business can be started part time—no need to quit your job. Can be expanded full time with company financing. We need people we can depend on. Our products are nationally famous "Hot Food" items. We have over 36 varieties of Hot Soups and Hot Entrees, such as Beef Stew, Chicken & Dumplings, Chili & Beans, and on and on. We have all of America's favorites. All these delicious products are sold from the latest in automatic vending equipment. Your route will be established and installed by us. Your age is not a factor if you qualify. Perfect for a nice couple to operate as a family business.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

CITY OF FAIRFAX, STATE OF CALIFORNIA
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the City of Fairfax will receive sealed bids at the office of the City Clerk, City Hall, Fairfax, California, on or before 10:00 a.m. on the 8th day of April 1974 for the furnishing of all labor, materials, and services required for the 1973 STORM DAMAGE REPAIR PROJECT, ARROYO ROAD.
Each bid shall be made in accordance with the plans, specifications, and contract documents prepared therefor, now on file at the office of Ben C. Albritton, City Engineer, 35 Mitchell Blvd., San Rafael, where they may be examined and copies thereof be obtained upon payment of $10.00 per set, which will not be refunded. Bids shall be submitted upon proposal forms furnished by the City Engineer, and shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check, currency or bid bond, equal to ten percent of the aggregate amount of the bid, which amount shall be given as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into the contract, if awarded him, and will file the contract bonds required within fifteen days after notice that his bid has been accepted.
The City Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and to waive any irregularity in any bid received.
Bidders are notified that, pursuant to law, the City Council has ascertained the general prevailing rate of wages and rates in the locality in which the work is to be performed, for each craft or type of workman or mechanic needed to execute the contract, and the prevailing rate so determined is on file at the office of the City Clerk and incorporated by reference herein. It shall be mandatory that all persons employed in the execution of the contract be paid not less than said specific wages and rates, and that existing labor agreements, relative to overtime, holidays, and other special provisions, be recognized.
Bids received by the City Clerk will be opened and read publicly at the time, date and place above specified, and will thereafter be tabulated and submitted to the City Council for consideration.

AFTER MANY ENDEAVORS

An Artistic Desire Triumphs At Last

By BETTY FROST

Although she has turned her hand to many endeavors, Audrey Menicucci always wanted to paint.

Six months ago she quit her job as crime stenographer for the Sausalito Police Department, and concentrated all of her efforts on oil painting. She specializes in seascapes, so realistic, that she says, "the crashing of my seas can be heard."

On Sunday she will have her first one-woman show of 30 oil paintings at the Boathouse, 300 Turney Street, Sausalito. The invitational champagne showing is scheduled for 2 to 7 p.m.

Miss Menicucci was employed by the Sausalito Police Department for over three years, and is a former police dispatcher.

The artist is a sixth generation Santa Rosan. She was educated in Santa Rosa schools and attended Santa Rosa Junior College. Her mother, Mrs. Elaine J. Minney, lives in San Rafael.

HER FIRST job was as "copy boy" on the old Call-Bulletin newspaper in San Francisco. Later she went to Hollywood as a promotional writer for television. She worked at radio station KSFO in San Francisco as assistant copy chief for 10 years, before moving to Sausalito.

For the slender brunette, art was always the underlying motif. She would come home from her work, eat, relax, and paint until midnight. She studied painting with Nevin Kempthorne of Novato, and at the Patri School of Art in San Francisco, no longer in existence. She also studied at the Positano Art Workshop near Naples in Italy, and returned from Italy to open her own art gallery at the Women's City Club in San Francisco.

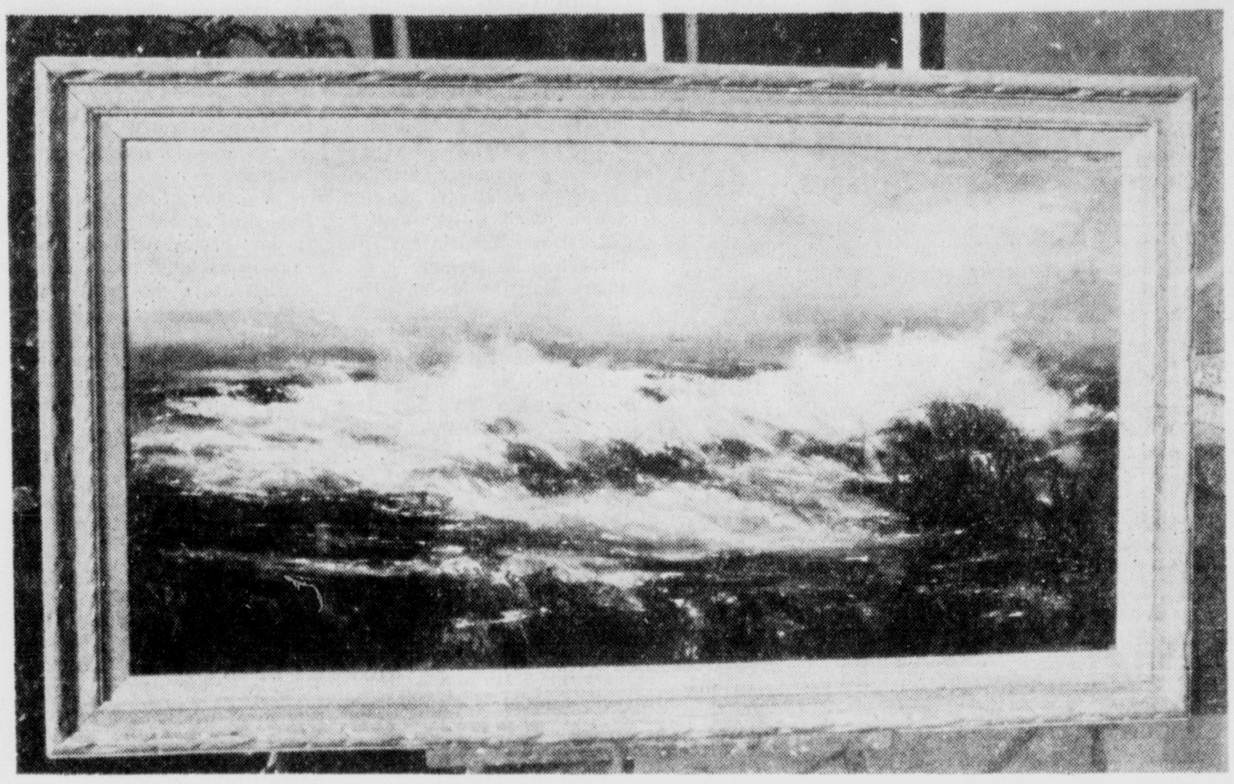

IN THE meantime she was receiving recognition for her painting. Her work has been displayed at the Gilbert Gallery in San Francisco and at galleries in Carmel, Monterey, Laguna Beach, La Jolla, Texas and New York. One of her seascapes was reproduced for a student art book.

Her interest in painting the sea stems from childhood fishing excursions off the Monterey coast, with her father. It was then that she learned to appreciate the power and the beauty of the ocean.

"Our home life was sort of like the play, 'You Can't Take It With You'," the artist recalled. "Mother wrote poetry, my sister played the piano, I painted, and we were all interested in drama. There were always lots of friends around."

What's next for Audrey Menicucci?

"I am dedicated to pursuing a career in painting. What I hope, now, is to be able to go to Paris in the fall, for concentrated art studies," she said, wistfully.

SEASCAPES, SUCH as this one of "Jenner", are the specialty of Audrey Menicucci of Sausalito, who will show 30 oil paintings at the invitational champagne opening of her exhibition in Sausalito Sunday.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Dinner Will Honor Former Tamalpais High Principal

By MOLLY MARIN

Former Tamalpais High School principal, Ray Bell, will be honored at a dinner Friday at the Deer Park Villa in Fairfax.

A cocktail party will begin at 6:30 p.m., and dinner will be served at 8 p.m. Marie Bruce at the high school, and Margret Chouinard of San Anselmo are reservations chairmen.

The party is being organized by Bell's former colleagues at Tamalpais High School, but friends, students, alumni are invited, according to Miss Bruce.

The educator is leaving Marin County to become the principal of a new high school in the Tahoe-Truckee Unified School District.

IRISH COFFEE, dinner and dancing are planned at the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere on Saturday for members and their guests.

Dinner will be served from 6 to 9 p.m. and dancing will continue from 8 to midnight.

MEXICO CITY artist Irma Gonzales de Griza will be a houseguest next week at "Green Trees," the bayside home of Dr. and Mrs. Eugene Kilgore Jr. in Tiburon. The visitor is the wife of Mexican muralist Ernesto Alcantara. Her work was "discovered" by Mimi Kilgore on one of her dozen trips to Mexico.

Mrs. Kilgore, a painter of miniatures, has invited Senora Alcantara here to join her in exhibiting paintings at the Menlo School and College Art Preview Party and Sale on Wednesday evening in Menlo Park.

FORMER LONG-time Sausalito resident Mrs. Martha Kuck was married Wednesday evening to Eugene R. Tyler of Sonoma at Faith Lutheran Church in Sonoma Valley.

The couple, who had not seen one another since graduating from high school in Porterville, met again last October at a high school reunion.

The bride is the former owner of the Personal Adjustment Bureau in Sausalito and was known in business as Martha Pereira. The bridegroom is also retired.

Mrs. Tyler is a graduate of Stanford University School of Nursing, and her husband attended the University of California at Berkeley.

The newlyweds will live in Sonoma following a wedding trip to Washington, D.C.

MRS. VINCENT McGarry of San Rafael has been elected general chairman for the gala 22nd annual Jewel Ball, which will be sponsored by the San Francisco Auxiliary to the Children's Hospital at Stanford next Oct. 26. Last year's ball netted $20,000 for the hospital for children.

Mrs. McGarry's committee for the ball will include Mmes. Barbara Adams, Eugene F. Barsotti Jr., Charles Bassett II, James M. Berry, William Griscom, Russell Hexberg, Morgan Lewis, Selby Mohr, Thomas Norman, John Owens, Irving Rovens, Vincent Rovetti, Harry M. Sawyer, Samuel Sayad, Norman Strom, Nick Tamaras, Milton Vrionis, Lee M. Perrott and Miss Katharine Hanrahan. Their plans are already underway for the ball, to be held at grand ballroom at the St. Francis Hotel.

A CONTINGENT of parents and members of the Paradise Harbor Yacht Club are spending today and tomorrow at Lake Merced while three boys from the club's youth sailing program compete in the Delmas/Sears Cup competition. The three, Tim Russell and Jeff Federsen of San Rafael and Vic Piltch of Novato compete in Snipes. It's the first year that the club has had entries in the sailing competition. Tim's father, Mike Russell, heads the youth program for the club.

BARBARA MACHADO of Corona and Ron Goodrich of San Rafael were married March 2 at the Church of the Wayfarer in Carmel with family and close friends attending the ceremony. Afterward they held a dinner at Chez Yvonne in Mountain View. The following day a reception was given for the couple at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

The bride, a Western Airlines flight attendant, and bridegroom, a water ski equipment sales representative, are living in Palo Alto. Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Machado of Corona and Ron's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Goodrich of San Rafael.

THE LAST WORD

Travel Picture Brighter Now Than It's Been For Some Time

By PAT BALMES

Marin people have been dreaming of getting away from the rain and gas shortages, it seems, because the travel business is reported to be way up.

Cruises and package tours are booming. Travel is not as extensive as previously, but people are still going everywhere for family vacations and on business, according to Naomi Vasilieff of San Rafael, a travel agent for 30 years.

Her employer, GTS Travel, report business is up 50 per cent over January, 1973. Last year was very bad, but the scary stories are cleared up now. In Europe fuel shortages are reported decreasing and the dollar increasing in strength, she said.

People are buying all-inclusive tours for one set price, so when they get to the foreign country they won't have to pay more than they expect.

GERMANY HAS been expensive for Americans, but the dollar is incresing in value there now, and it is "very healthy" in England and France. English hotels have been expensive because of dollar devaluation but costs in the future remain to be seen now that the coal strike is over, she said.

Good travel buys are Greece and Spain, which have had only minor dollar devaluation, and Central and South America and Mexico, which have had none.

Hawaii is having a boom, just like last year; people want to go and just sit on the beach. Canada, which has few gas restrictions, is a big attraction and Alaskan cruises are heavily booked, the agent said.

The industry is having another kind of boom as middle aged women who have traveled extensively, investigate the travel field for possible careers.

In a basic course at College of Marin, Rae Rutledge teaches would-be travel agents that it isn't all glamor but instead is time-consuming reference, paper and book work which is often frustrating because of changes in clients' travel plans or new fares coming in.

"Everything is going up," Mrs. Vasilieff said.

Travel agents must have a lot of knowledge or know where to look things up, keeping up-to-date on political situations in certain countries and health regulations, she said.

Familiarization trips put on by a foreign country's tourism department and airlines are excellent and highly organized, giving the travel agent a good insight; "but you are a total wreck when you come home," she said. They do in a week of seminars and whirlwind sightseeing tours and hotel visits what an average tourist would take three weeks to see.

MRS. VASILIEFF'S pet enterprise is organizing conducted tours for senior citizens designed wth their fixed incomes in mind, such as one day trips out of Sebastopol or a Mississippi cruise.

The student tour fad dwindled after World War II, she said. Now most youngsters want to go on their own. "If they have the opportunity, they should definitely travel. It is the best education I have ever had," she said.

Among Marin youngsters who will travel this summer are some students at Marin Country Day School in Corte Madera who will join in a Balkan adventure led by music director Barry Mineah. And senior high school students who are members of the youth group at St. Stephen's Church in Belvedere are planning a backpack trip to Wyoming. Last year they trekked through England.

Legal Secretaries Choose Margaret Downing As Best

Margaret Downing of Petaluma has been named legal secretary of the year by the Sonoma County Legal Secretaries Association.

Mrs. Downing was honored at the group's bosses' night for her service to the organization during the past year.

She was graduated from Petaluma High school and is employed at Santa Rosa Junior College evening college as administrator of a two-semester legal secretarial training course.

She has been a member of the Legal Secretaries Association since 1961 and has served as legal assistant chairman, legal secretarial training chairman and corresponding secretary.

She is the wife of Kenneth Downing and the mother of two sons, Eric and Corey Downing.

P-TA Sets Special Event

Redwood High School Parent-Teacher Association will sponsor a panel discussion, "Youth and the Law," Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theater at Redwood High School.

Panelists will be Douglas Bosco, director of the Marin County Human Relations Department; Redwood High School teachers Steve Baker and Don Shaver, who are teaching a course on students' rights; Sgt. Ray DeLeon of the Larkspur Police Department and Charles Newman of the Corte Madera Police Department, and principal Donald Kreps.

Bosco, who is an attorney, will give a talk, "What Students Rights Are." He is coordinator of "Law In A Free Society," a course offered to teachers in Marin County.

The policemen are at Redwood on Fridays to act as liaison from their departments and will discuss the problems students bring to them.

Kreps will outline students' rights as spelled out in a student handbook, relating to civil rights and educational codes.

ON THE AGENDA

New Director Of Boyd Museum Will Address Guild Members

Bruce Blake, new director of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science, will speak at an orientation meeting for new and prospective members of the Guilds of the Boyd Marin Museum of Science. The program will be held Wednesday at 9:30 a.m. at the museum in San Rafael.

Mrs. Thomas G. Moore, coordinator of guilds, will conduct the meeting.

Other speakers, who will discuss the museum's facilities and staffing procedures, will be Mmes. Peter Charles, president of the board of trustees; J. A. Carlson, director of guilds; Ned Meister, Festival of Trees chairman; John Ryan, fund raising coordinator; and Robert O'Neil, staffing chairman.

Mrs. Alonzo Ferrell, director of the museum's docent council, will speak on the docent training progams and expanded in school program.

Mrs. Jerry Miles is refreshments chairman.

PLANS FOR their 100th anniversary celebration will be made by members of Sigma Kappa Alumnae of Marin County at a meeting Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Marshall Gross in Tiburon.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Her 12-Year-Old Friends Are Fooling Around With Boys, 17

RAP:

I have these two best friends who like these two boys. But the boys are 17 and drive like wild men and my friends are 12.

The guys smoke pot and drink, and once they took the girls in the woods and got them stoned. Almost every day they hit the girls up for money. Then they spend it on other girls or booze and dope.

My friends say the boys are really cool but I think they're going to be in big trouble if they keep on like this.

What can I do without telling their parents? — WANTS TO HELP

WTH:

If they are your best friends, they should value your opinion. So tell them what you think and why. Perhaps they'll only call you jealous, but may be you can get it across that they're mixed up with a couple of "users" — and I don't mean just of drugs. — SUE

DEAR WTH:

If they won't listen, then their parents should know these girls are headed for trouble. It needn't be you who tells them, but get the word to someone — a counselor or friend —who will. — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

My mother says the meanest things about my boyfriend, but when he comes over to see me, she's all sweetness, especially if she wants him to do something for her, like gardening, etc.

Should I tell him how two-faced she is, or let him keep on thinking she's great? — PATSY

DEAR PATSY:

Tell your mother how you feel, but don't tell your boyfriend what she says about him. It will be much easier to change her attitude if he thinks she likes him. —SUE

DEAR PATSY:

Parents have a bad habit of running down boyfriends without really understanding why they do it. Your mother may like this fellow quite well, but she'll still let mean remarks slip out because . . . well, maybe she fears losing you and this is her way of warning. "Go slow! He's not the perfect choice." — HELEN

HELEN AND SUE:

I like to read "dirty books" as they're called. Whenever I check one out, I get the feeling the librarian is thinking, "Isn't he too young for this book?" I'm 13, but I know a lot more than a 20-year-old!

Once somebody asked, "Does your mother know you're taking this book?" Just to fix her, I said, "It's for my mother."

I feel embarrassed to buy a book that may be a little old for me. Am I abnormal? —E.B.S.

E.:

If you look for dirty books just because they're "dirty," you're a normal, curious 13-year-old (but not at age-20 level as you think).

If the book is a detailed, beautifully written love story, and you label it "dirty," maybe you should talk to a 20-year-old and learn where you're off the beam.

Lastly, if you feel embarrassed about buying any book, maybe it's not yet for you. — SUE

NOTE TO SUE FROM HELEN:

Agreed, except for the last sentence. A 13-year-old may feel embarrassment about buying a sex-education book, but he could benefit from the facts he learns. — HELEN

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

Four Inventions That Changed Art

By BETTY FROST

"The human eye is no longer the same eye. There are four inventions that have revolutionized our way of looking at the world and have influenced art," Vincent Price told those attending yesterday's A.M. lecture at the Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

The camera freed the artist from dealing with visual reality, and photography itself became an art form; the airplane, soaring above the earth gave new perspectives; the microscope opened up a hitherto unseen world, and the telescope brought confirmation and expansion of the myths about stars, Price explained.

In researching his most recent book, "Vincent Price Treasury of American Art", the veteran actor and art connoisseur found that American artists were, from the beginning trying to get away from their original ethnic backgrounds, and produced an American art revolution, which in its seriousness, he called "terribly exciting."

TO ILLUSTRATE the new position of American art, Price described his experience as a member of an art jury at the Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, Pa. For five days the jury inspected hundreds of paintings by distinguished artists from all over the world. The top award was given to a work by Antonio Copias, a little known Spanish painter from Barcelona. At the time the award was announced, Price was in Spain and talked to Spanish artists, who claimed that contemporary Spanish art was greatly influenced by American art.

"I found that Europe was looking to America for inspiration."

The theme of revolution in art was a continuing motif for the lecture. As a member of the Art Advisory Committee for the Bicentennial celebration in 1976, he spoke of the committee's wish to represent revolutionary changes.

"HOWEVER, WE never quite knew whom we were advising. The original committee was fired," he said, "and it was interesting advising people who no longer existed. We cloaked the revolutionary theme in polite language, or we knew we'd be sent to Siberia within three weeks," he joked to the appreciative audience.

Also a member of the Indian Arts Committee for the Department of the Interior, he told of how his enthusiasm for their handsome jewelry caused him to wear as much as he could. "I was the original hippie," he said, "but I had to give up all but this turquoise bracelet, because every time I went through the metal detection examination at an airport, it lit up and made a big racket."

He is enthusiastic about the Institute of American Art in Santa Fe, where 95 American Indian tribes are represented, producing what he calls "exciting contemporary pottery, paintings, jewelry, poetry and creative writing."

"ART IS a visual report of the day," the art authority said in response to criticism of the violence expressed in contemporary art. "We live in an ugly period, and artists show the destruction we all see."

He recalled one elderly woman viewing a bold modern representation of Christ's suffering on the cross, remarked, "I like a pretty crucifixion," as the audience gasped at the contradiction in terms. He described the old lady as "A Dresden doll made out of reinforced concrete."

Describing himself as a "drum-beater" the 6 foot 5 inch tall personality, said, "I am a drumbeater for the arts in America. I'm starting a male liberation movement to free the American male from sports."

He told the predominantly female audience, "We are, by nature, a nation of bellyachers. When you see a program that you think is a good example of using the media for visual education, write a post card to the station or network saying 'thank you, give us more'."

THE LONG-TIME star of movies, theater, television and radio told of being captive in a motel room "with motel art", during a snow storm in Nebraska. He decided to watch a rerun of a picture he had made 30 years ago.

"I was so beautiful," he declared, "all that hair I don't have now. But suddenly I realized that everyone but myself who appeared in the film was dead."

He concluded his program with examples of his own art, giving three dramatic readings. Then he deftly fielded questions from the spectators and laughter echoed through the auditorium.

Stained Glass Instruction Set

Class Wants To Do Own Smocking

By EUNICE FARMER
(Distributed by Register and Tribune Syndicate)

DEAR EUNICE,

I teach clothing construction in high school and have had some of my girls ask me a question that I think you can help me with. They would like to do their own "smocking" as a decorative trim for the smock tops they are making. The only smocking patterns available (and there are very few at that) are for children's clothes. What would the procedure be if they want to add this smocking to their own patterns? — MRS. JANE L.

DEAR MRS. J.L.,

Smocking is an embroidery design created from a series of dots placed on transfer paper and then stamped on your own fabric. If an area such as yokes, pockets or whatever is to be smocked and you aren't working with a pattern, you must do your smocking first, then cut the pattern out.

Allow three times the width of any section of your pattern you will be smocking. The transfer paper is usually stamped on the wrong side of the fabric, especially for English smocking.

You will hand baste, picking up each dot from the wrong side of the fabric. This forms even folds and your pattern is worked from these folds on the right side.

I have used many patterns and actually stamped them on the right side of the fabric, following the smocking instructions given on the pattern. These designs might not afford the creativity that English smocking offers, however, for a limited first attempt, it might be easier.

After the smocking has been completed, baste a very lightweight strip of fabric the size of your smocking on the wrong side of the garment. This will be stitched into the seams and will keep the smocking from stretching out of shape.

Place your actual pattern on the piece of fabric you have smocked and outline the cutting edge, instead of cutting through the smocking. Before you do any cutting, machine stitch twice inside the cutting line with a small stitch through the smocked area. This avoids threads pulling out later when you cut through them.

This is certainly the year to experiment with this beautiful embroidery technique — it's so creative and beautiful.

DEAR EUNICE,

So many of the ready-made garments have top stitching this year that I would like to use this top stitching detail on my clothes. My problem is that I want everything to be washable, and you have repeatedly told us that the silk buttonhole-twist isn't washable and that it would fade and shrink. What can I use in order to achieve this heavier decorative stitching? — MRS. N.M.

DEAR MRS. N.M.,

Good news. There is a wonderful new 100 per cent polyester buttonhole twist available, perfect for top stitching on washable garments. This thread, incidentally, can also be used on silks and wools as well as polyesters.

It sells for around 75 cents for a large spool and comes in a wide variety of colors. It is made in Switzerland and is sold under the trade name of Metrosene. Look for it in a shop where Swiss threads or sewing machines are found.

DEAR EUNICE,

You mentioned the versatility of a coat-dress because it can be worn by itself and yet can cover up a dress.

How can this be done? It seems either the coat would be too large to wear as a dress or it wouldn't fit over a dress. I travel a lot, and thought this would really satisfy my needs and eliminate extra clothes. — MRS. L.J.D.

DEAR MRS. L.J.D.,

You will have to be very careful with the selection of your coat-dress pattern. If you are, you will find that it will work for you.

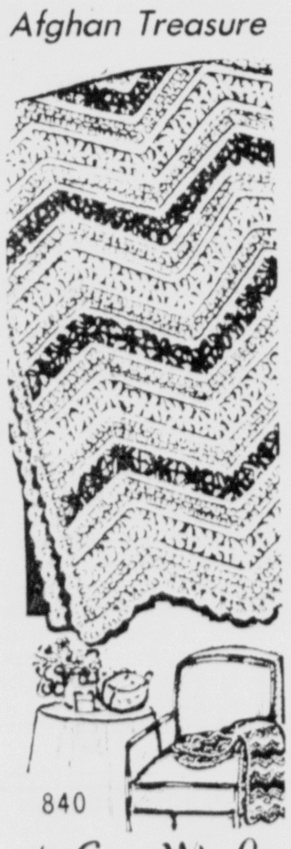

When choosing your pattern, find one that has a little ease on it, such as soft gathered yokes front and back; a looser sleeve, either raglan or slightly dropped; and most important, a slight chemise appearance to be belted. If you choose a pattern with a fitted waistline seam, it will be too close-fitting to wear as a coat.

When choosing the dress to wear with it, you might choose a very lightweight, soft, unconstructed fabric. Perhaps a print jersey to brighten up a solid coat, or a lightweight challis, or whatever. Perhaps the dress would work better if it were sleeveless.

These are all little details that you will have to think about when making your selection of fabric and pattern. Since I travel quite a bit myself, I have found this type of dress does serve many occasions and certainly does cut down on the luggage you must tote with you.

This is the season for those bare top dresses, and spaghetti straps are a great summer detail. Send 10 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Eunice Farmer in care of the Independent-Journal. Ask for the leaflet, "Spaghetti Straps and Rope Belts."

AWARD-WINNING FILM — Christ lies dying after his removal from the cross in this scene from "Wine of Morning," a feature-length, color film to be shown tomorrow at 7 p.m. at Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur. The film won all four major awards of the National Evangelical Film Foundation.

Film To Present Life Of Barabbas

"Wine of Morning," a feature-length, color motion picture, will be shown at 7 p.m. tomorrow at Calvary Baptist Church of Larkspur.

The film is the story of Barabbas, the man on whose cross Jesus Christ was crucified. Many Biblical incidents and New Testament characters come alive in the award-winning film, produced at Unusual Films of Bob Jones University, and written by Dr. Bob Jones Jr., chancellor of the university.

"Wine of Morning" is the first Christian motion picture ever to win all four major awards of the National Evangelical Film Foundation. The film was selected as best of the year; Katherine Stenholm was named best director; Al Carter, playing the role of Barabbas, was listed outstanding Christian actor of the year, and Bob Jones University was cited as producer of the year.

In 1958, "Wine of Morning" was chosen by the University Film Producers Association to represent American colleges and universities at the International Film Festival in Cannes, France.

Rev. David A. Tucker, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, said: "This is a film which has been acclaimed by critics as 'the most spectacular — the most dramatic film in the history of evangelical motion pictures,' having 'everything which goes to make a massive achievement as a religious motion picture.' Movement, passion, excitement, impact, and inspiration are woven against the constant background of the love and judgement of God, to evoke an unforgettable experience for the viewer. This is a film for the whole family."

Doors will be open at 6:30 p.m. Admission is free, but there will only be one showing. Calvary Baptist Church is located at the corner of Baltimore and Holcomb Avenues in Larkspur.

Alexander Post Will Give Organ Recital

Alexander Post, head of the organ department at San Francisco State University and organist-director of music at the First Unitarian Church of San Francisco, will play a recital on the Centennial Memorial Organ of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

His program will consist of the following: Offertoire sur Les Grands Jeux, Couperin; Partite - Auf meinen Lieben Gott, Boehm; Prelude and Fugue in E Minor, Bruhns; Two Settings of Nun Komm der Heiden Heiland, Bach; Fugue in E Flat Major (St. Anne), Bach; Toccata in D Minor, Opus 59, Reger; Prelude, Fugue and Variation in B Minor, Franck; Prelude and Fugue in C Minor, Mendelssohn; Three Pieces, Impromptu (Pieces de Fantaisie) Stele pour un enfant defunt (Triptyque) Carillon de Westminster (Pieces de Fantaisie), Vierne.

This recital marks Professor Post's initial appearance in recital in Marin. It also marks the premier performance of these works on the St. Paul organ.

A reception for Professor Post will immediately follow the recital in the parish hall of the church.

Film Will Premiere In Novato

Novato has been selected for a limited engagement during May for the premiere of the motion picture "Time To Run." World Wide Pictures, the producers of the film, announced the appointment of Sherman Moyer as executive chairman for the Novato area showings. Moyer is enlisting the support of numerous civic leaders and other residents to formulate plans for the premiere.

A representative of World Wide Pictures, Lyle Thorne, will be working closely with Moyer and the committee in preparation for the showings. According to Thorne, "Time To Run" is a new feature-length color release from the Billy Graham Film Ministry studios. The film has had an immeasurable positive impact on the lives of both teen-agers and their parents in communities throughout the country.

Thorne said: "Time To Run is a realistic and deeply moving portrayal of the tensions created in a family where the son's values and ideologies differ from his father's. Love and communication are crippled by the impenetrable silences between them. Further confrontations develop between the young man and his girlfriend when she becomes involved in the 'Jesus Movement.' The viewer encounters moments of humor, suspense and warmth throughout the film."

Moyer, who lives at 1952 Center Road, is pastor of First Baptist Church. In preparation for the premiere, he attended a special two-day seminar.

Special Service Slated Tomorrow

"The Living Word," a service of sacred song and Holy Scripture, will be presented at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow at Holy Innocents' Parish, 2 Tamalpais Drive, Corte Madera.

The program will be presented by a cast of over 50 from Christian Life Center, Santa Rosa. This is a charismatic group under the direction of Mrs. Bonnie Argue. A reception will be given by St. Edward's Guild immediately following the service. The Rev. Tod W. Ewald is the rector.

Talk On Psychic Awareness Set

"Spiritual Development Through Psychic Awareness" is the subject of a talk by Martha Harlin, director of the Association For the Unfoldment of Man, to be given for members of Spiritual Frontiers Fellowship and the general public tomorrow at 7:30 p.m., at the First Congregational Church, 8 No. San Pedro Road in San Rafael.

A psychic sensitive since childhood, she has done extensive experimental telepathy testing with researchers at the American Society For Psychical Research and the Maimonides Dream Laboratory in New York City as a subject for Dr. Stanley Krippner.

Miss Harlin offers classes at the Orpheus Institute in San Francisco in psychic development and is a resident of Sausalito.

Lenten Service Features Film

The fourth in a series of midweek Lenten services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church, 9 Shepherd Way, Tiburon.

The services consist of contemporary films and sermonettes by Pastor Fred J. Landdeck.

This week's film is "A Man and His Men," the story of a Christian coach in the National Football League and the impact of his faith on others.

Invitations Sought For Soviet Jews

The Bay Area Council on Soviet Jewry is sponsoring a program to have local families invite newly arrived Soviet Jewish immigrants to their homes for the Passover Seder.

Twenty-eight new immigrants have arrived in the Bay Area since September, ranging in age from 4 to 90. The Bay Area Council, fortunate in that some of its members speak Russian, has been active in providing apartments, jobs and social contacts since the first immigrant arrived.

Knowledge of Russian is not a prerequisite, however. Many of the new arrivals speak English, some of the families know Yiddish, and some who speak only Russian have high-school age children whose English is quite good.

Chaim Schukin, a physicist from Kharkov who arrived in San Francisco in October, is now connected with Stanford's Linear Accelerator Center and is a board member of the Bay Area Council on Soviet Jewry. "It is difficult to describe how moved I was when invited to Hannukah dinner by an American family," said Schukin. "It was actually the first such dinner I had ever attended in my life."

For many of the newly arrived Soviet Jews this will indeed by their first Passover Seder. The Bay Area Council on Soviet Jewry has met all 28 immigrants and will provide names and addresses. Those families who wish to open their homes this Passover may contact Peter Berest at the Bay Area Council office, 585-1400.

Bibles Available For Blind

By DAVID E. ANDERSON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Before I was blind," Dr. Dale C. Recker said, "I used to tell people "you have to make the best of life with whatever you have."

"After giving this advice to other people for years," he added, "it seemed natural that when I became blind, I had to learn to take it myself."

He has, and now as the head of Blind Work for the American Bible Society in New York City, Recker is stumping the country telling people being blind is not an overwhelming handicap. He's also telling them the ABS has Bibles —in Braille, on phonograph records and even on cassette tapes for the sightless.

Recker, 66, was serving as pastor of the First English Lutheran Church in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, when he went blind some 25 years ago.

"My adjustment was not quite as severe as it might have been for others," he said. "The whole congregation seemed to feel that this was their problem as well as mine and that made it a lot easier."

Recker stayed on at First English for 15 years after becoming blind and he estimates that in that time some 200 different men in the congregation drove him around on his pastoral calls and more than 30 women read him material he needed "to see" in his work.

He was reserved on giving an outright recommendation that blind people still should consider the ministry.

"Blindness cuts down on communication —you can't see an expression on someone's face," he said, adding that was important to pastoral counseling.

But he said he left the congregation not because of the difficulties, but because "I wanted to serve blind people in some special way."

For the past 15 years that has meant working with the ABS and its Scripture distribution program for the blind.

Last year, he said, the ABS distributed 650,000 records, 8,000 braille volumes and 100,000 cassettes of the New Testament.

The casettes offer both the ABS's New Testament in Modern English, popularly known as "Good News for Modern Man," as recorded by Bud Collyer, and the King James Version, recorded by Alexander Scourby.

Recker said, however, that even with the ABS' large distribution, "it's a never ending job."

He estimated there were about 500,000 blind people in the United States. "We serve directly about 20,000," he said

"A lot of blind people don't know they are blind," he said "because they can still see some."

"My chief emphasis is that we have Bibles for the blind—and would like to get rid of them. No one has to be deprived of the Bible because he can't pay," Recker added.

Speaking of his own blindness, Recker said it was "little things" other people take for granted that were the hardest to deal with.

"No one can quite realize what it means to not be able to pick up a newspaper," he said. "And there are little things I would like to do for my wife—but you feel so clumsy.

"Things then sometimes get to be such a big deal—like buying a bouquet of flowers—that you'd just as soon forget it," he said.

At the same time, however, Recker said his disability had provided him with some humorous anecdotes as well.

"I send books I want read and recorded to a prison group," he said. The prison has a program where inmates read and record books for the blind.

"One of the theological works I sent," he said, "had a chapter on immortality—and the inmate reading the work kept substituting the word immorality."

Catholic Relief Services Fund Drive Is Announced

Monsignor Timothy E. O'Brien, the Diocesan director of Catholic Relief Services in this area, has announced the annual appeal of the American Catholic Overseas Aid Fund will begin Monday and end with a special collection at all the parishes of this Archdiocese on Laetare Sunday, March 24.

This nationwide solicitation, sponsored each year under the auspices of the United States Catholic Bishops, primarily benefits the emergency relief and self-help endeavors of Catholic Relief Services. Also sharing in the proceeds of the appeal are the Holy Father's Charities, the Catholic Seamens Club, and the Refugee and Migration Office of the United States Catholic Conference.

Emphasizing the importance of this year's appeal, Mons. O'Brien called on everyone to be especially generous so as to enable CRS to continue to expand its relief and rehabilitation efforts in war-torn Southeast Asia.

"The plight of the refugee population in Vietnam and Cambodia is tragic. So many millions need help", he said emphasizing, "CRS is helping as many as it can with feeding programs, clothing distribution and medical service, but so much more can be done and so many more millions can be helped if CRS has the support of all."

Last year was a particularly hectic one for CRS because of the number of emergencies that occurred; earthquakes in Nicaragua and Mexico, drought in West Africa, floods in Pakistan and the man-made tragedies that affect millions in Vietnam and Cambodia.

In each case CRS responded at once with aid to the hungry and homeless. At the same time it continued to conduct more than 1,000 development projects in 50 countries around the globe designed to help people better their standard of living and enhance their dignity. The overall value of CRS overseas program in 1973 was $138,947,516.

Do Streakers Harbor A Childhood Wish?

NEW YORK (AP) — Those "streaking" cut-ups may be showing more than they realize, including a subconscious wish to be small children again, immune from care or responsibility.

That and various other impulses to mock the pressures of adult reality are seen by several religious scholars in the current campus antic of running nude through public places.

It may be partly a "protest of the child against the prospect of responsible adulthood," says the Rev. Dr. Seward Hiltner, a noted theologian-psychologist of Princeton Theological Seminary.

"There's a part of all of us that would like to remain basically irresponsible, that wants to go back to uncomplicated childhood."

He says this is especially marked in the "intermediate stage" of growing up.

Such regressions, intermittently, can be helpful, he says. The innate yen for it — for heedless, unblameable childishness — is reflected in the lure of the eternal child, Peter Pan.

It's also seen in the primitive superstition that "men can lose their problems by shedding their clothes," says Dr. Calvin G. Seeveld, a professor of aesthetics at the Institute of Christian Studies, Toronto, Canada.

While pointing out its naive aspects as well as underlying religious-psychological connotations, the theologians also cite its zany side — its echoes of the absurd abandon of ancient rites of spring.

The participants "want to fly like larks," says the Rev. Newman McLarry, a Southern Baptist pastor of Oklahoma City. While it's somewhat off balance, he adds, "I don't see any Sodom and Gomorrah about it."

"It's an absurd gesture in the face of the vaster absurdity around us," says the Rev. Dr. Joseph Sittler, an influential Lutheran theologian of the University of Chicago Divinity School. "In a time of general muck and guff, it's a sort of good, clean swipe across the dirty face of dissimulation.

"In our winter of discontent, compounded by all the administrative rot, it's saying, 'We've had enough. Let's do something real crazy.' The calculated craziness of our times has diminished the spirit of man, but spontaneous madness is a kind of purgation. It has a purgative quality about it."

"The nudity is not so important," Dr. Sittler adds. "We've had plenty of that. It's the running, the incongruity of something suddenly, surprisingly joyful and actual in the midst of what has become an accumulation of expected wariness."

Italian Mission Opens Tomorrow

St. Patrick's Church in Larkspur will be the locale for the Italian Mission, sponsored by the Italian Catholic Federation, tomorrow through March 19.

The mission will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Sylvio D. Masante, SJ, a native of Italy and now rector of Oblates of St. Joseph's in Tomales.

Services will begin at 5 p.m. and close with a 7 p.m. service on Tuesday, followed by refreshments in the social hall.

Woman Pastor At Davis Campus

DAVIS, (UPI) — Mrs. Ebba Johnson, ordained here in January, is the first woman Lutheran pastor in the southwestern part of the United States.

A native of Sweden who received her theological education at the University of Uppsala, the 29-year-old Mrs. Johnson will conduct a campus ministry at the University of California at Davis. Her husband is an assistant professor of English there.

Students Will Present Musical

A number of Marin high school students will present the outstanding musical "Celebrate Life" at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the Aldersgate United Methodist Church.

Written by Regan Courtney and Buryl Red this lively and moving drama concerns the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth.

About 17 young people are in the cast, with Stanton Nash in charge of direction and production. The Aldersgate church is located at 220 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael. Rev. Jim Hutchison is senior minister at the church.

A Good Pan Man Is Hard To Find

By JOURDON HOUSTON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

It looms again, the Easter basket battle of the jelly bean buffs vs. the chocolate egg fans.

Jelly bean manufacturers put speckles on their pastel-colored eggs and chocolate decorators dream up new frostings for their products, but increase in consumption of both reaches a peak during the spring season.

Although candy companies are notoriously close-lipped about their production figures, it is not unreasonable to estimate that the average American family eats two pounds of jelly beans a year.

A child of automation, the jelly bean is one of 2,000 kinds of candy consumed by Americans at the rather incredible rate of 20 pounds per person yearly.

Their ancestors were sugar-coated nuts from France, where, about two centuries ago, a process called "panning" was developed. A copper pan was suspended over a coke fire and an operator encased nuts in sugar by shaking the tray's contents with about the same verve as one jostles a popcorn pan.

In 1851, pans that revolved automatically were invented and bore, among other new candies, the jelly bean, which is essentially a molded gum center with a harder, corn-syrup coat.

The process for making these sweet ovals is the same for the small company with one revolving pan as it is for the big company with dozens producing up to six tons an hour.

A batch of wet centers are made by setting a gum or cooking-starch mixture into starch impressions.

Much like a confectioner's foundry, the process molds the centers as they dry. When sufficiently shaped, the centers move to the revolving pans, which more than slightly resemble cement mixers.

Inside the typical pan, a mere 100 pounds of centers roll around in about 150 pounds of corn syrup, sugar, and water, to which flavor and color are later added. Any flavor may accompany any color, but makers usually tie colors to their commonly accepted flavors, such as purple with grape or white with vanilla.

Primping comes next, as the batch moves to a polishing machine containing a small amount of edible wax and receives a gloss to heighten sales appeal.

Although the process of jelly bean creation varies little among the five or so major American jelly beaneries and the remaining 30 smaller ones, there is an acknowledged difference, not in looks but in texture, among different brands.

"Naturally, we try our competitors' jelly beans," said the production chief of one of the nation's largest manufacturers, "and, speaking as one who has tasted many, I can say there's a marked difference in texture from company to company, although not in appearance.

"You can take a company with an excellent product one year, yet discover the opposite the next. You know right away that they've lost a prize operator."

The secret of the jelly bean, then, is in the so-called pan man, or candy master, a coveted employee if he has what makers describe as an intuitive feel for the pan.

Most candy masters in American factories today are Europeans. They can control up to six pans each, regulating ingredients and air.

Too much cold air, and the rotating jelly beans scratch too fast. Too much heat, and water evaporates, leaving a batch of colorful hard candy.

In polishing, the final process in panning, the resulting luster is supposed to be an aesthetic lure to the buyer. "To be candid, I wouldn't want to polish to any great extent if the jelly beans were going to be boxed" explained the supervisor of New England's biggest jelly bean operation.

Such packaging considerations are taken seriously in the billion-dollar candy world. At one time, jelly bean packaging was gauged to reflect apparent racial attitudes of some Americans.

In those days, happily over, most manufacturers packaged some bags of jelly beans without the licorice bean; otherwise, their product would not sell in the South.

Here Was A Man: Rudy Pettersen

CAPT. RUDY PETTERSEN, a beloved 14-karat Marin character, has died and we will never see another like him.

He was genuinely tough. He could be gruff. He was no bluff. At the age of 70, with dimming eyesight and fading hearing, he still was strong enough to convert a handshake into an over-the-shoulder toss, if he felt like it. Fortunately, he didn't feel like it. Not bad for a man who for much of his life had to wear a back brace.

His language was as powerful as his muscles. He learned English along the waterfront and on the sailing ships of yesteryear. He never lost his heavy Norwegian accent. His polite vocabulary was as limited as today's most dedicated young user of four-letter words. When it came to swear words, Captain Rudy could put to shame any and all of today's most accomplished under-30 users of vulgarities.

In the presence of "the ladies," Captain Rudy automatically adopted the courtly manners of his strict European upbringing. He may have been a bit tongue-tied, but he was unfailingly proper.

Today's youth might see that as somewhat hypocritical. Actually, it was the true gentleman's desire to avoid giving offense.

Rough and crude as he could seem, Captain Rudy had to be a gentle man at heart.

HIS FORMAL schooling ended after the seventh or eighth grade in Norway. In a sense, he was intellectually undisciplined, and that was another of his strengths. He mostly originated his own solutions to the problems he encountered in life and during his public service — as Sausalito city councilman for 14 years and as a Marin County supervisor for two years. He was truly an independent thinker. In a way, he was a forerunner of today's practitioners of participatory democracy.

He was totally committed to the work ethic. In public service and in volunteer work, he did his own work, leaning on no one.

HE WAS TOTALLY without vanity.

Not many years after he served as supervisor, he found himself facing a 30-day jail sentence for drunken driving. He wound up in jail, in the basement of the very courthouse in which he had served as supervisor.

In those days, trusty inmates wandered rather freely about the courthouse building and grounds, performing various maintenance and janitorial functions.

Some in Captain Rudy's circumstances would have hidden in shame.

Not Captain Rudy. He took life as it came. He could often be seen in jail garb greeting old friends on the courthouse steps, cigar in place as usual.

Those who knew the real Rudy were not surprised that he was oblivious to his inmate status.

He went right on enjoying life wherever its tides carried him. He had been a youthful seaman aboard Norwegian sailing ships, San Francisco Bay ferry boat captain, operator of his own cargo steamer on the bay, Coast Guardsman, championship prize fighter, and he claimed to be the only man who worked on Golden Gate bridge construction from start to finish.

HE WAS WELL past 70 when he concluded that PG & E should extend gas service to San Geronimo Valley where he lived in the house he built himself, called "Viking's Rest." It is safe to assume that youthful PG & E executives could not take seriously anything said by this gnarled, wizened, gimpy-legged old fellow with thick glasses and a hearing aid.

PG & E hasn't yet extended its pipelines beyond White's Hill. When it inevitably does, don't be surprised to hear a voice in the wind (a gruff voice with deep Scandinavian accents) saying simply, "You shoulda done it a long time ago like I was telling ya."

Neither Captain Rudy nor those who knew him well considered him a religious man, but in his native Norway as a boy, he was exposed to Lutheran teachings, which he never forgot.

We cannot know if Captain Rudy winds up as a repentent sinner in Lutheran Heaven, or as an honored Viking in Valhalla.

But those who knew him are sure that he will be equally at home in either place, busily shaking hands and getting acquainted all around in either place.

Our loss; their gain.

But we who are left behind will go to our own graves missing the blunt advice he most surely would give us if he were still here.

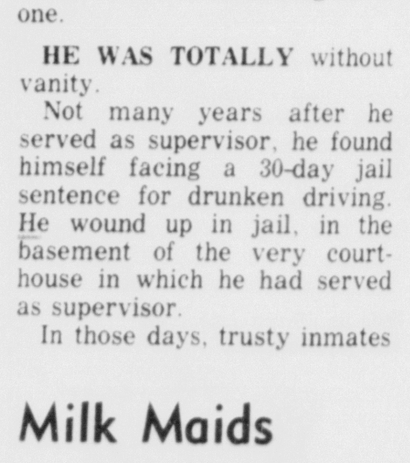

—Jack Craemer

Milk Maids

As one might expect, the common Bay Area wildflowers called milk maids are as white or faintly pinkish as a real milk maid's fabled complexion. One of the earliest of Marin's wildflowers, they bloom from January through April. They have a tooth-shaped tuberous root which gave rise to its genus name, Dentaria. These roots were eaten raw by the early settlers as a peppery-tasting relish. The flowers are borne on slender stems about 20 inches tall.

Gasoline Woes

One little-mentioned side-effect of the gasoline shortage is that wildflower and bird watchers are more limited in the practice of their hobbies. One fellow who keeps us informed about the wildflowers at points ranging from Point Reyes Lighthouse to the top of Mount Tamalpais finds himself restricted to hiking around San Rafael. He and his wife commute, and neither can afford the extra time of long gas line waits. However, we have always felt there is an unnoticed world of plants, animals, birds and insects close at hand that requires only improved powers of observation to discover. Perhaps the gas shortage will force us to sharpen our wits.

"Now comes the hard part."

"This is either the light at the end of the tunnel or the spot we were at before we went in."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

More Mysteries About 'Plate Of Brasse'

I have noted the letter to the editor on the alleged "Drake Brasse Plate hoax." I believe I knew the "unimpeachable source" whence Mr. Leon Spiro obtained his misinformation on the Drake Plate. Mr. Ambrose J. Weems (deceased) teamed up on a dig with J. Cosgrove in 1909. The result was not what they went after, but the plate that has gone from hand-to-hand and is meticulously copied and in the Smithsonian. No one has as yet collected under one roof all of the truths and conjectures about the Drake Plate. There is now known, to at least two national historical groups backed by evidence, that the Weems and Cosgrove find was the one that set tongues awagging. I'd advise any person who has information on the above to contact the Bancroft Library at the University of California, Berkeley.

Theater Acoustics Contribute To Success

I would like to thank you for your very fine editorial complimenting the Marin Symphony. This is great for the Marin Symphony, the community, and certainly for future rentals at the building. I cannot thank you enough for bringing to the attention of the public one of our fine local performing art groups who have improved, and I would like to believe that the acoustics in the building helped.

The building is a finely tuned instrument that has a good sound. An artist cannot help but appreciate the tones produced while performing in the building. I know you are a musically knowledgeable person and can appreciate this.

I believe the more good things that can be said for local productions and the building will encourage the artist and increase use of the building.

Last night's I-J (March 12) carried a story stating that the Tiburon City Council demands the right to choose the tenants of the Hilarita moderate income housing development. The crust of the upper, eh what?!

Hike In Letter Mail Rate Boon To Buchwald's Secretary

WASHINGTON — MEMO —
To: Ellie Cobey, secretary
From: The Boss
Subject: Increase in postal rates

BECAUSE OF THE RECENT increase in postal rates, we shall have to take some extreme measures in regard to answering mail.

In the future we shall not be able to respond to any students asking us to write their term papers for them. While this may cause many of them to flunk their English, government and journalism courses, we can no longer assume the responsibility of answering their queries on the World Bank, the Social Security System, the NATO alliance and whether President Nixon sleeps in a nightshirt.

We also must eliminate all questionnaires submitted to us by foundations and professors who are trying to find out how fair the press is in Washington. And furthermore, we can no longer answer magazine writers who are doing surveys on the state of the nation for which they are getting large fees which they refuse to share with us.

Anyone disagreeing with us, no matter how literate their letters, can no longer expect a response. Also, we can no longer explain the column to those who misread it. If they don't get it right the first time, it is no longer our problem.

AS YOU ARE AWARE, one of the major sources of our mail is people who have ideas or manuscrips that they are willing to give us free of charge. In the past we have returned the contributions with a nice note saying they should submit them to Russ Baker at the New York Times who always likes to hear from strangers. But now, with the 2-cent rate hike in surface mail, we will be unable to even do that. Baker will be mad at us, but we have to be tough.

I also feel we can no longer answer people who are praying for my soul. As you know, we get 20 to 30 letters each week from people who believe that I'm on my way to hell, if I'm not there already. In the past, we've thanked people who were praying for me on the chance that it might do some good. But now I'd rather have the postage instead.

You have always insisted on answering letters from Women's Liberation readers who feel the tenor of my pieces are filled with male chauvinist remarks. Let's forget about apologizing to them. If we make an exception for Women's Lib, we will also have to answer letters from the National Rifle Association, the Daughters of the American Revolution, the junk mail lobbyists and the American Petroleum Institute. If they are willing to continue to write to us after the postal hikes, I say great. But they must understand our budget can no longer guarantee a response.

ALL REQUESTS for political fund-raising drives are to be ignored, as well as invitations to attend foreign diplomatic receptions for ministers of finance and agriculture.

As a further economy, we will no longer respond to people who want to know how they can break into the newspaper business, preferably to write a column such as mine.

In spite of these harsh restrictions, I am happy to tell you we will still continue to answer letters praising us for our fine work, and those citing particular articles that they have enjoyed. Any letter that is considered the least bit favorable must be given a reply, in the hopes that the writer will send another one. In spite of the extra two cents, I consider this a worthwhile investment.

One more thing. Any passionate love letters should not be replied to unless they have an enclosed self-addressed, stamped envelope.

CAPITOL QUIPS

The White House policy is to hand the House Judiciary Committee all papers and tapes that are not marked Secret, Confidential or Embarrassing.

Nixon can't resign or be impeached. If he owes all those back taxes, the country needs him to keep on earning a good income.

Some people still say the oil companies are making too much money. One complainer swears the tiger in his tank is wearing a mink coat.

President Hopes To Find New Trump Card In Moscow

WASHINGTON — Whatever anyone else may think about his tenure in the White House, President Nixon is going ahead with plans for the months to come as though normalcy were the order of the day. He is giving serious thought to details of his visit to the Soviet Union for a return summit with Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev in mid-June or perhaps late May.

Brezhnev has told the president he wants to show him parts of the Soviet Union he has never seen before. On three previous trips, Mr. Nixon has seen many areas of the vast Soviet empire.

The first occasion was in 1959 when as vice president he engaged in the kitchen debate with then-Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The exchange occurred in the course of a tour of an American model house then on display in Moscow.

The headlines out of that encounter portrayed Nixon as the champion of American standards triumphing over the tough lot of the Russian consumer.

THE SECOND VISIT was in 1967 in the course of a world tour. Since the Kremlin hierarchy gave him the cold shoulder, Nixon could turn tourist. He pointed out recently that he had stopped at Novosibirsk and had seen something of the great industrial development of Siberia.

The third time was the celebration of what the White House has hailed as the foremost achievement of the Nixon foreign policy. With the American flag flying over the Kremlin in May, 1972, the president and Brezhnev signed an agreement banning defensive ballistic missiles and setting a five-year limit on the development of offensive missiles. From Moscow the president and his party flew to Kiev, where he had never been before.

The missile agreements came under sharp attack with the charge that the United States had agreed to superiority for the Soviet Union. In the end they were approved by the Senate. Against that background the president's planned summit in Moscow, returning the Brezhnev visit to Washington last June, takes on special significance.

INFORMATION FROM the White House is that a new Moscow summit will produce a new missile agreement. But the SALT II talks resumed in February are stalled. When they were suspended last year, American negotiators privately expressed their concern at what they felt was the impossible proposal put forward by the Russian side.

How an agreement acceptable to the Senate could possibly be reached in the three months before the president's projected visit to Moscow, it is impossible to see. It would seem to call for the intervention of that Merlin of diplomats, Henry Kissinger, who was the president's security affairs adviser and is now secretary of state.

Kissinger and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin worked out the outline of the SALT I agreement. To the resentment of American negotiators, who had spent many months in the toughest and most complex bargaining, it was pushed through on the eve of the president's visit to the Kremlin.

THAT THIS COULD be hailed as the first step toward peace in our time in an election year escaped the attention of hardly anyone.

Nor can it escape attention that the projected new summit for late May or mid-June may coincide with a vote in the House of Representatives on the impeachment of the president. Headlines out of Moscow reflecting a chief executive carrying out his obligations would compete with the storm over the impeachment process.

The detente with the Soviet Union, regarded by the administration as the cornerstone of the Nixon policy of negotiations as opposed to confrontation, is in trouble. An amendment to the trade bill denying favored nation status to the Soviet Union and, even more important, Export-Import Bank credits, would diminish the gains the Russians hope to get out of detente.

Andrei A. Grechko, the Soviet minister of defense, makes loud noises about imperialism and increased U.S. arms spending requiring Moscow to match the American buildup. On the other hand, Brezhnev granted the new U.S. ambassador, Walter Stoessel Jr., a long audience only a day after he had formally presented his credentials.

Whatever the outcome, it is a card the president intends to play. The impact of that card cannot be discounted.

Wilson Will Walk Quietly To Consolidate Labor Gains

LONDON — Harold Wilson's strategy for hanging on to the British prime ministership comes through loud and clear from the queen's ceremonial speech from the throne. It is to do boldly everything that is essentially non-controversial, but refrain quietly from anything which could force Conservatives and Liberals together on a non-confidence vote.

He has already frozen rents for the rest of the year, which is politically harmless. He announced in the royal speech that he will repeal the Industrial Relations Act, which would have happened if any other party had done best in the election. He promises quick action to improve pensions, which have been outdated by inflation. And he will subsidize the price of bread.

The Conservatives would never dream of forcing another election on any of these issues.

THERE ARE THREE ISSUES on which Conservatives and Liberals would pounce but the royal speech — written for the queen by the prime minister — tripped lightly around two and omitted the third altogether.

Wilson's left wing wants him to take Britain out of the European Common Market and wants him to nationalize the new North Sea oil fields. It is also official Labor party policy to nationalize another 25 of the most profitable of British industries.

Industrial nationalization is omitted from the speech. North Sea oil is to be encouraged and there will be a review of licensing and taxation policy towards the oil companies. But that is all. Not a word about possible nationalization of the new oil fields which could convert Britain into an energy exporter by 1980.

As for the Common Market, Wilson's new government "will seek a fundamental renegotiation of the terms of entry," which, of course, can mean anything or nothing.

WILSON'S NEW government can go on doing only popular and non-controversial things for many months. The Conservatives are in no hurry for another election. Most of them expected to win with an improved majority of seats in Parliament. They lost seats and power. They are out of office in bewilderment and disarray. Their confidence in their leadership is shaken. Many here assume that they will avoid a showdown with Wilson's government until they have both a new leader and at least one promising issue. That could mean months or even years.

Harold Wilson is in fact in a remarkably safe situation. He has rewarded his own left wing with many plums of office — except for the important ones. They have ministerial salaries, limousines and chauffeurs. The rewards of being in office are pleasant to the taste. Those who have them become prudent about risking their loss. Wilson's left is not likely to rush him into an avoidable election.

Only the Liberals have an urgent reason to try to force an early election. But with 14 seats in the Commons they are almost powerless to force it.

The prospect emerging from this is for moderate, non-controversial management of Britain's affairs which can easily last through 1974 and conceivably well into 1975.

AND THE CHECKS FLOW — An employee of the Internal Revenue Services watches checks being processed for taxpayers who are due returns. Presently the IRS still depends largely upon taxpayers' honesty since only a small percentage of returns are audited. (Christian Science Monitor photo)

IRS Depends Upon Honest Taxpayer

By LUCIA MOUAT
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

WASHINGTON — "I'm just like President Nixon — I'll take every deduction I can get," vows one Washington taxpayer.

Such comments — running fast and frequent in these busy income tax filing days — have the U.S. Internal Revenue Service (IRS) duly concerned.

A thorough search for all possible legal deductions is one thing. Failure to disclose one's full income, or taking deductions that do not exist, as some say they will, is quite another.

Despite an intricate system of checks and balances, the U.S. tax system for individuals leans heavily on the taxpayer's honest volunteering of information.

If many taxpayers should actually cut corners on their tax declarations, the IRS would be hard put to cope with the increase.

Only two of every 100 returns now are audited. Selection is largely by IRS computers in 10 service centers around the country which score returns according to their audit potential. The formula used takes into account unusual variations in income and deductions according to the taxpayer's family size, and salary. Since it is the high scores that generally go on to be audited, much depends on how honest taxpayers are.

Secondly, the IRS, which has added price-watching duties in the last year, is frank to admit it could use more manpower.

Officially, the IRS stance in the face of stepped-up publicity about those who may cheat on their returns is positive.

"We expect the taxpayer to do the same good job he's always done," insists an IRS spokesman. He insists that if the publicity about wealthy tax-dodgers does have an effect, "there'd be no way to measure it — I don't know how you'd ever know . . .

"The IRS acknowledges the problem, but there's almost nothing it can do about it except to rattle the saber and say 'We're going to do our job more carefully,' " observices Jim Byrne of Tax Analysts and Advocates, a public-interest law firm here.

In some ways, the IRS is better equipped to cope with tax cheaters than ever before.

For one thing, computerized screening of returns in recent years has made it possible both to audit more and to select those in greatest need of a check.

The IRS is proud of the fact that its "no change" rate — returns audited that need no adjustment and thus waste IRS time — went down to 26 per cent last year.

Also, last year, for the first time in nine years, there was an upswing to 2 per cent in returns audited. In all, 73,000 more returns than the year before were reviewed by IRS auditors and agents. An additional $5.1 billion was brought in from a total of 1.8 million IRS audits.

Although error potential is especially high on returns of those in the higher income brackets with more varied sources of income, the computer formula used to screen all returns can as easily slap a high score on a small taxpayer as a big one.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander publicly has set his sights on a 5 per cent audit goal someday. It has been that high before, but that was long ago.

The manpower situation can be expected to improve as the IRS economic stabilization duties taper off. Currently the agency is hiring and training 1,000 new employees to work just in the energy area. These are being paid for by the Federal Energy Office (FEO) budget and will be transferred to its jurisdiction in July.

If the IRS manages to get congressional approval of new tax personnel positions in the new budget, it will have almost 20,000 revenue agents and auditors to check up on unorthodox taxpayers of any variety.

VARIOUS INDUCEMENTS

Kremlin's Pitch To Settlers

By PAUL WOHL
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

Like the czars, the Kremlin continues to offer inducements for citizens to settle underpopulated regions.

Thinly populated Siberia always has been a problem, but inducements also are keyed to the international political climate and the mood of the Soviet citizenry.

Not only have there been incentives for people to move to the far north, but to Kamchatka, Sakhalin, and eastern Siberia, where China and Japan loom across the borders.

Inducements vary according to the situation. They include higher wages, outright grants, long vacations, and building loans. Occasionally they have been as stark as choice between a prison sentence and forced resettlement or exile.

Recently inducements have been reshuffled. It comes as a surprise that Kaliningrad Province, where the Soviets presently are negotiating with a group of West German firms about the building of four giant nuclear power plants, is among the regions for which especially high incentives are offered.

Kaliningrad oblast, which covers the eastern part of the former German province of East Prussia, is hemmed in between the Baltic Sea, the Lithuanian Soviet Republic and Poland. Although the westernmost territory of the Soviet Union, today it is one of its least known areas. Western tourists are not admitted.

There are no Germans left in the now-Soviet parts of East Prussia. The fleeing Nazis evacuated the population. Only a few Lithuanians and Mazuric Slavs have remained.

Resettlement of Kaliningrad Province is still not completed. There are fewer inhabitants than before the war, even though the Soviets try hard to attract prospective settlers. The climate is good, the soil fertile and inducements offered until recently were only a little lower than for inhospitable Kamchatka and Sakhalin.

But Soviet settlers apparently still do not feel at home in Kaliningrad Province. "Too many generations of Germans are buried there," a recent emigre from the Soviet Union remarked. Although gravestones have been removed and cemeteries plowed up, people fear that in another war the Germans might try to come back.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai's retort to a European visitor, "I do not know a Kaliningrad; I only know Koenigsberg; (the ancient German name of the province's capital) has made the rounds in Eastern Europe, showing that some East Europeans as well as the Chinese are concerned about potential Soviet expansionism.

There also has been an increase in bonuses for settlers willing to make their homes in territories near the Chinese border. This applies especially to a long strip of land extending from Altai Province, which borders on Outer Mongolia to the Kirgiz Soviet Republic. None of the 18 districts of East Kazakhstan for which inducement for settlers have been increased is farther than 120 miles from the Chinese border.

Officially the special inducements for resettlement in remote areas are motivated by the desire to attract labor to territories with a shortage of workers and to prevent the outflow of workers from areas with harsh climates to the more densely populated and culturally advanced European territories.

The latest decrees show that resettlement benefits have been increased not so much in areas with a strong demand for farm workers as in border regions.

This Week In The World

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

First the Arab oil ministers decided to meet in Cairo, but hardline Libya, Algeria and Syria failed to send representatives.

Then the meeting was postponed three days and its site changed to Tripoli, Libya.

Now, five months after it was imposed as a powerful ace in the hole, the Arab oil embargo against the United States appears to be drawing to a close.

Sources said Arab oil ministers, whose countries cut off exports to the United States during the height of the October Middle East war because of Washington's support of Israel, were expected to announce a two-month trial lifting of the embargo when they meet in Vienna tomorrow.

The sources warned there could be some variation on this theme — Libya and Syria were reported to have opposed any relaxation during the meeting in Tripoli — but said they believed the embargo would be eased or lifted in one form or another.

In Washington, federal energy officials said there would be no dramatic drop in gasoline or other petroleum product prices even if the embargo was lifted, although gas pump supplies might increase fairly soon through the release of stockpiled fuel reserves.

They also said oil companies might be permitted to tap reserve gasoline stockpiles to increase consumer supplies while awaiting the flow of Arab oil to reach the United States.

Around the World, Around the Clock

WASHINGTON — Faced with choosing between their loyalty to President Nixon and the House, Republican congressmen appeared to be siding with the House in the face of the White House's refusal to provide 42 tapes to the House Judiciary Committee considering Nixon's impeachment.

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted 54-33 to restore the death penalty for treason, espionage and a set of specific crimes where death occurs.

SAN FRANCISCO — Two accused Symbionese Liberation Army assassins said they want to answer the murder charges against them in a trial instead of being released in exchange for kidnaped Patricia Hearst.

BISHOP, Calif. — A chartered airliner carrying a film crew from the ABC-TV series "Primal Man" crashed into a mountain ridge and exploded, killing all 36 persons aboard.

NAHA, Okinawa — A young man was arrested after he hijacked a Japanese Airlines jumbo jet flying from Tokyo with 429 persons aboard, the most ever involved in a hijack. None of the passengers or crew was injured.

LONDON — Britain's 269,000 coal miners returned to work after a four-month strike and slowdown that plunged the country into its worst industrial crisis and toppled the Conservative government.

JERUSALEM — Prime Minister Golda Meir began a new four-year term as Israel's leader after her Labor party coalition received a vote of confidence in parliament.

WASHINGTON — Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said yesterday former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew still has a staff paid from tax money, but there is nothing illegal about it. Staats did not say how much Agnew's staff is costing the federal treasury, but he was reported to have six or seven former members of his vice presidential staff working for him in the government-owned townhouses across from the White House.

Compulsory PE Flayed By Students

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — High School students yesterday asked the State Board of Education to seek legislation ending compulsory physical education in the 11th and 12th grades.

They received support from state schools chief Wilson Riles who said that if gym classes were made elective, "then the people coaches and PE teachers would get off the dime and make the program attractive."

The California Association of Student Councils, through its student advisory board, presented the board of education with a resolution asking for a two-year trial for noncompulsory PE in the two high school grades.

Student Ken Lockhart, of Los Altos High School in Santa Clara County, said that currently every high school student has to attend a minimum of 400 minutes of physical education every 10 days in school.

The compulsory aspect of physical education is turning students off to the program," Lockhart said, "and this could turn them off to a lifelong program of physical fitness."

The board took no action on the student resolution.

Riles told a newsman later that a legislative move to end compulsory gym classes did not seem likely.

He said coaches, both at the high school and college level, form a powerful lobby which exercizes against the discontinuation of mandatory PE.

Riles said he was not in favor of doing away with gym but said it needs "creative" change with more alternatives.

Arrest Follows Petaluma Knifing

Petaluma police arrested Frank William Haring, 18, of Santa Rosa yesterday on suspicion of assault after a knifing at about 5:30 p.m. at 338 English Street.

Lou Owen Molles, 18, of 1313 McGregor Avenue, Petaluma, was stabbed twice with a six-inch knife, according to police, and was taken to Hillcrest Hospital, where he refused treatment.

Police said the stabbing apparently took place after an argument.

ALMANAC

By U.P. International

Today is Saturday, March 16, the 75th day of 1974 with 290 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter. The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

James Madison, fourth president of the United States, was born March 16, 1751.

On this day in history:

In 1802, establishment of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., was authorized by Congress.

In 1830, only 31 shares were traded on the New York Stock Exchange, its slowest trading day in history.

In 1966, American Astronauts Neil Armstrong and David Scott docked their Gemini 8 space vehicle with an agena craft, the first in orbital history.

In 1971, Tom Dewey, New York politician who twice was an unsuccessful Republican presidential candidate, died at the age of 68.

A thought for the day: American statesman Charles Sumner said, "There is the national flag. He must be cold, indeed, who can look upon its folds rippling in the breeze without pride of country."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

When Setting Trap Be Wary You're Not One Who's Caught

Some suits are booby-trapped. Whoever touches them first gets a few scars to show to his grandchildren. Part of the art of playing bridge successfully is to make the opponents touch such suits first.

In this case diamonds is the suit with the built-in booby-trap.

If declarer tackles diamonds first, he can take the ace and king but must then give up a diamond trick to one defender or the other. If a defender leads the first diamond, his side doesn't get a diamond trick.

For example, suppose West leads a low diamond. Declarer plays low from dummy and East must put up the jack. South wins with the ace and then finesses with dummy's ten.

It works much the same way if East leads the first diamond. This time South plays low, and West must play the queen. Dummy wins with the king, and now dummy leads another diamond to let South finesse with the nine.

When you set a trap you must get out of the way to avoid getting caught yourself. In this case you take the ace of hearts, ruff a heart, and draw trumps with the ace and jack. This puts you in position to ruff dummy's last heart.

Now you get out of the way by leading a club.

The defenders can safely take their three club tricks, but then they are in trouble. If they lead a fourth club or a fourth heart, dummy can ruff while South discards a low diamond. If, instead, they lead a diamond, they set off the booby-trap.

Remember this position: three to the ace opposite three to the king, with both the ten and the nine. Make the opponents tackle such a suit first.

DAILY QUESTION

With both sides vulnerable, partner bids one heart and the next player doubles.

You hold:
♥ - 9 8 4 2
♦ - J 8 3 2
♣ - K Q J 8.

What do you say?

ANSWER:

Bid four hearts. This promises four or more trumps, a singleton or void suit, and not more than 9 points in high cards.

ON THE WAY TO BEING PRIME MINISTER

Shirley Bonbright, foreground, directs four of the principal players in "The Mystery of the Worn Out Shoes," which the Masque Unit of the Junior Theater of Marin will present twice on Tuesday. The musical, based on Grimm's "Twelve Dancing Princesses," will be staged at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. at the Veteran's Memorial Building. It is the tale of a youth who becomes prime minister of mythical Runciland by finding out why the princesses' shoes are worn out each morning. Players, left to right are: princess, Charleen Fisher; queen, Faye Hanger; Jonathon, Hope Braghetta, and his dog, Corky, Grace Albritton.

Song Story Program Scheduled

Charles Lampkin, baritone and Gwendolyn Lockwood, mezzo-soprano, will give a program entitled "Sounds and Wonders of My America" at 7:30 p.m., March 24 in Angelico Hall at Dominican College.

Lampkin is now artist-in-residence at Santa Clara University. He is a composer, lecturer and pianist who has appeared on the stage, television and movies.

Miss Lockwood has appeared in concert at the University of Redlands and at Foothill College. She was soloist at Beckworth Auditorium at California Institute of Technology during Negro History Week 1968.

The program will consist of blues, spirituals, work songs and shouts which tell the story of American black people and their contribution to the growth and culture of the country.

Honor Musicians To Perform Wednesday

More than 450 student musicians will perform in an honor orchestra, band and choir Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Redwood High School gymnasium.

The annual concert will include students from the Larkspur, Kentfield, Reed and Ross school districts as well as Redwood High School.

The honor orchestra will perform works by Bach and Schubert. Carole Stokes, music instructor in the Reed District, and Sidney Y. Gordon of Redwood High School will direct the orchestra.

Sacred and secular works will be sung by the honor chorus under the direction of Barbara Flynn, music instructor in the Ross School, Alva Retta Murray, choral director of the Larkspur district, Joyce Niboli, vocal director of the Kentfield district, Dr. Hyman Krongard, teacher at Del Mar School, and J.D. Nichols of Redwood High School.

The honor band will perform works by R. Vaughn Williams and Kabalevsky and will be directed by Harold Settlemeier, Reed district music instructor, and Gordon.

Admission is free.

Meyer Coffees

Coffees for Marin County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer, candidate for county clerk, will be held at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the San Rafael home of Homer M. Dalbey, 33, Dominican Drive, and 8 p.m. Wednesday at the San Rafael home of Richard H. Breiner, 43 St. Francis Lane.

DRAMA REVIEW

'The Boy Friend' Offers A Release From Troubles

By GERALD GENESE

Is inflation eating away at your dollar? Are gas station lines eroding your patience? Does the price of milk make you cry? Watergate make you weep?

Cheer up. Something is working, the College of Marin's production of Sandy Wilson's musical, "The Boy Friend," directed by H.J. Susser.

As in the college's first production of the season, "The Good Woman of Setzuan," Susser has combined his talents with those of the brilliant set designer, Ronald Krempetz, and a star-studded staff of creative technical personnel.

Krempetz has designed a set that, in the hands of someone less skillful, would have been too busy.

He uses glass, plexiglass, flashing lights, op art, an aluminum foil sun and all the colors in the spectrum. But everything is in such delicate balance that it blends exquisitely with the beautiful costumes by Pat Lusk, the imaginative lighting of Edward K. Schoon, the crisp choreography of Lou Nardi, the intelligent direction of Susser and the excellent musical accompaniment of Scott Merrick.

"The Boy Friend," is riding the crest of the nostalgia wave. Back to a time when black was black and white was white, and boys chased girls until the girls caught them.

The setting is Madame Dubonnet's Finishing School on the French Riviera in the 1920's. It must be spring because the sap is high and the girl's dresses are short.

Onto the stage burst those giggly girls of the Finishing School dancing and singing "Perfect Young Ladies".

"THE BOY FRIEND" — A musical in two acts by Sandy Wilson. Presented by The College of Marin. Directed by H.J. Susser. Musical direction by Scott Merrick; choreography by Lou Nardi; set design by Ronald Krempetz; costumes by Pat Lusk; lighting by Edward K. Schoon. The cast: Hortense, Cathy Cahn; Maisie, Patti Colombo; Dulcie, Diane Schaal; Fay, Kendell Jackson; Nancy, Pamela J. Contos; Gloria, Sandra Lynn Tanner; Jane, Renee Losk; Mavis, Christiane McKenna; Carlotta, Judy Rae Morgenstern; Betty, Kathryn Stockfleth; Gwen, Laurel Graver; Polly Browne, Karyn Nikas; Madame Dubonnet, Betty Besuner; Bobby Van Heusen, David Silverman; Percival Browne, John McDill; Tony, Steve Whiteman; Pierre, L.C. Owen; Alphonse, Scott Gallagher; Marcel, Dana K. Sweeney; Gaston, Zachary Spoon; Rene, Bruce B. Biada; Georges, Christopher Hammond; Jen-Luc, Jeffery Josephson; Alfredo, Charles O. Price III; Roger, James Young; Lord Brockhurst, Mark Schwartz; Lady Brickhurst, Jan Stratton; gendarme — waiter, Scott Kaplan; Pepe, Bruce B. Biada; Lolita, Judy Rae Morgenstern.

Last night Miss Nikas and Whiteman were a bit overshadowed by the excellent dancing and singing of Patti Colombo as Maisie and David Silverman as Bobby Van Heusen, A rich young American. Their number, "Won't you Charleston With Me," brought thunderous applause from the audience.

Silverman tap dances with the relaxed style and grace of a young Fred Astaire and gives an excellent portrayal of a very likeable and engaging young man.

Miss Colombo is a dynamite performer who can kick up her heels and sing with gusto.

Betty Besuner, as Madame Dubonnet, gives a solid and believable performance as the slightly kookie and fun loving headmistress of the girls school.

John McDill as Polly's father, Percival, and Mark Schwartz, Tony's sire, Lord Brockhurst, are masterful in their comedic portrayals of the uptight Englishman who quivers with delight when tickled by Madame Dubonnet, and the lecherous millionaire, who is more bark than bite.

The opening night audience responded with show stopping applause on a number of occasions. One got the feeling that it was a nice place to be, away from the woes of the outside world — Watergate, milk prices, and the ever present gas lines.

"The Boy Friend," will be repeated today and tomorrow at 8:00 P.M. at the College's Theatre Arts building. Further performances are scheduled for March 21 through 24, and March 27 thru 31.

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorata charge based on mileage used.

Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in materials and workmanship only.

Proper tire and suspension system maintenance are vital to obtaining maximum tire mileage. Montgomery Ward will therefore rotate your tires and inspect your suspension system free of charge every 5,000 miles, for the entire guaranteed mileage, at any of its retail or catalog branches having tire installation facilities. Wheel alignment and balance service available, at regular charge.

Carriage And Cars Offer Bob Gateley Satisfying Hobby

By DON KEOWN

Nearing the end of the first half of a 16,000 mile vacation trip in their motor home last summer that had first taken them to Vancouver, B.C., and then the breadth of Canada, Bob and Thelma Gateley were driving through the Nova Scotia countryside near the small community of Ballantyne's Cove when driver Gateley suddenly applied the brakes.

What he had sighted, abandoned in a pasture, was an old carriage.

Carriages and buggies in the yards and fields of eastern Canada are not all that uncommon a sight. But to the experienced and appreciative eyes of Gateley, long interested in antiques and already involved with the restoration of two old cars, this particular carriage, a one-horse runabout, sitting though it was in the pasture near a barn, surrounded by weeds and appearing neglected and forgotten, was in an unusually good condition.

"I just couldn't resist it," he said.

"What I would really like to do is restore old wagons and buggies for their owners," says Bob Gateley, who has already returned his own one-horse runabout to its original fresh-from-the-factory condition, and who is also engaged in refurbishing two venerable automobiles.

THE UPSHOT OF it all was that the Gateleys visited the farmhouse and Bob went into negotiations with the carriage's owner. "She turned out to be the Mrs. Ballantyne, the matriarch of the family for whom Ballantyne's Cove had been named."

Gateley made the purchase.

"I won't say what I paid for it," he says, "but wagons and carriages are much more common there than they are in this part of the continent, and they seem to go for from $85 to $150 in a restorable condition."

But he adds: "I didn't see any other wagons that caught my eyes like this one. They weren't in that kind of condition."

RIGHT THEN and there in the field Gateley disassembled the old carriage, put it in pieces atop the motor home, and there it rode for the remaining 10,000 miles of the four-nad-a-half-month vacation trip.

The carriage, itself, was responsible for some of that mileage.

Its nameplate announces that it was produced by William Gray and Sons Ltd. of Chatham, Canada.

So Bob and Thelma Gateley went out of their way to visit Chatham.

"THERE," SAYS Bob, "I found a 94-year-old gentleman living in al old folks home who had worked at the Gray factory. He identified my new acquisition as a single-horse runabout made sometime between 1885 and 1892, dating it from the nameplate, the woods used in the wagon, the type of hubcaps and spindles, etc."

Gateley learned, too, something of the history of the manufacturer.

William Gray and Sons Ltd. became the Gray Carriage Co. around the turn of the century, and then went into the production of heavier delivery wagons. Like Studebaker in the United States, it went from carriages and wagons into automobile production, turning out the Gray-Dort automobile for eastern Canadians from about 1916 to approximately 1919.

BUT, MOST important to Gateley, the keen-minded 94-year-old was able to give him detailed and accurate instructions for the authentic restoration of the runabout to return it to factory condition.

"When I left him, I had all the particulars," Gateley says.

So back home, at 449 Alameda de la Loma, Novato, Gateley went to work at that restoration.

"I had to take it completely apart, and I even had to make some of the metal parts for it," he says. "And to re-do the seats, I had to buy a whole cowhide to get the top-grained leather that I needed. I ordered it locally. And it's beautiful leather."

THE PRINCIPAL woods in the carriage, he adds, are oak and ash.

The single-horse runabout, he says, was "an ordinary transportation carriage, extremely practical and much used. It was a sort of Ford or Chevvy of its time and place."

And he continues: "The only thing really fancy or deluxe about it is the red striping on the black frame and body. The wheels, caps, whippletree and box are all striped."

The restoration project is complete now, and Bob and Thelma Gateley have themselves a carriage virtually identical with the one that left the Gray factory at Chatham 80 to 90 years ago.

AND YOU'LL have ample opportunity to see it during San Rafael's centennial celebration, when that observance reaches its climax in May. The carriage has been assigned a "role" in the centennial's musical pageant, and will also be driven in the centennial parade.

Furthermore, arrangements have been made for its display in the rotunda of the Marin Civic Center at the height of the celebration.

The carriage may be Canadian in its origin, but Gateley feels its participation in the San Rafael celebration is quite proper.

"It is remarkably similar," he says, "to the doctor's shay that played such a prominent part in Marin County's early history. It even has a lift-up seat over a lattice-work covered depository for papers that corresponds to the space provided for the doctor's kit in the shay.

BOB GATELEY was born in Denver, and grew up in a family business that was ecclesiastical decorating.

"In learning that business, you had to become a jack-of-all-trades," he says. "You had to paint, and you had to design church furniture. You had to do marble installation, and you had to work with stained glass. You had to sew draperies. You just had to be involved in all kinds of reconstruction and refurbishing in churches."

That kind of background of working with his hands was to stay with Gateley all his life and to serve him in good stead in later restoring cars and the carriage.

BOB'S MOTHER, Belda Buys Gateley, now deceased, was an internationally known muralist. Thus her son attended seven art schools, painted and held one-man shows.

There followed a military career, as with the clouds of World War II gathering, he entered the Army and remained for 26 years. The last 17 of those years were spent in the investigative field for the military.

"And when I found a need for some

Barry Kaufman: The Doctor Who Has Gone Back To School To Study Nutrition

When the average American encounters nutritional difficulties or is confronted with a diet problem, he is likely to go to his physician for help.

Unfortunately, Dr. Barry Kaufman says, he may be consulting a person who has had no special training in the field. And for a very good reason. Few medical schools, Dr. Kaufman notes, offer specific courses in nutrition.

Generally, the Marin doctor says, what seems to be little more than perfunctory attention is paid to nutrition and diet in the midst of the medical student's demanding studies.

THERE THEN EXISTS the possibility, Dr. Kaufman notes, that the patient who finds his personal physician unable to provide him with expert assistance will turn in desperation to fad diets and their advocates.

It is a gap in the American health system that Dr. Kaufman says he finds particularly worrisome. Thus, he says, he has "enlisted" as one of a still relatively small but growing number of doctors who are actively seeking to fill that void.

Thirteen years after he earned his medical degree at the George Washington University School of Medicine in Washington, D.C., after an internship at the University of Illinois and advanced training in psychiatry and neurology, and following private practice as a neurologist and participation in a pioneering research program on a new drug, Barry Kaufman has gone back to school.

THIS TIME HE has enrolled at the University of California in Berkeley, aiming at an advanced degree in the nutritional sciences.

And he has switched his own field of practice from neurology to specialized work with people with nutritional problems. For that purpose, he maintains an office four days a week at the Northgate Medical Dental Center on Las Gallinas Avenue in San Rafael's Terra Linda section.

Barry Kaufman was born Jan. 16, 1937, in New York City, the son of a certified public accountant.

HE SAYS HE decided to go into medicine when he was 9 and was undergoing the ordeal of an extended illness with rheumatic fever, the decision coming from the young boy's admiration for the doctors who were helping him.

There followed graduation from New York's Bronx High School of Scinece, and his bachelor of arts degree from the University of Wisconsin. Then medical school in Washington, D.C., internship in Illinois and some difficulty in choosing between psychiatry and neurology as his future field, resulting in additional training in both specialties, the latter coming in New York's Mount Sinai Hospital.

"Doctors are supposed to be like gods and know everything," Dr. Barry Kaufman says. "But they don't. And they realize this. The field of nutrition has been one of the more neglected subjects in the medical curriculum."

Neurology won out, and young Dr. Kaufman went into private practice in the New York metropolitan area.

A YEAR, 1969-70, found him also working at Brookhaven National Laboratories at research on the new drug, L-Dopa, for the treatment of Parkinson's Disease, and the publishing of a paper on it. The drug is now in common use in the treatment of the disease.

Kaufman came West and to Marin County in 1972, going to work with the Ross Valley Medical Clinic as a neurologist.

It was at that time, he says, that he began to become interested in nutrition — "a subject I hadn't been particularly aware of before, and which, like most doctors, I had not studied in medical school."

Says Dr. Kaufman: "I began to realize that I and most of my colleagues knew very little about nutrition. And here was the public, coming to us as physicians, looking for advice about their eating, and with all kinds of questions about what constitutes good nutrition, how important are the vitamins, are organic foods really worth the cost, how should weight be lost, and such."

THE RESULT IS that he decided to change abruptly the direction of his medical practice.

His enrollment at Berkeley and his

Joe Huffaker — A Man Who Builds And Repairs Winning Cars With A Remarkable Consistency

By LEW CODDINGTON

The firm is called Huffaker Engineering, and it is located in an industrial park of low-slung, modernistic buildings in Terra Linda.

Pass through the doorway of this particular building and you enter the office, with its carpet, its wood paneling, its slanted engineer's table.

Joe Huffaker will greet you.

Tall and mild-mannered, with gray infiltrating his hair, he looks like a lawyer about to step out for an afternoon of golf.

Somehow, taken as a whole, the scene just doesn't remind you of Gasoline Alley. Yet Joe Huffaker is a successful man and an intense competitor in the smoke-belching, grease-stained, wind-whipped world of auto racing — a man who builds winners, or repairs them, with extraordinary regularity.

LOOK CLOSER at the walls. On them are plaques and citations, proclaiming victory in this or that race, testifying to a championship on one circuit or another.

Take last year, as an example.

Huffaker unleashed two British Jensen-Healeys on an unsuspecting sports car world — and ended up with a national championship in its first year of production.

"A good car — it makes me really happy," Joe says. "It gets super mileage, 26 to a gallon, and it has such an efficient combustion chamber that it will pass 1975 specs (national air pollution specifications) right now."

THERE IS MORE to tell about the cars, but Huffaker's conversation eventually drifts into that flood of numbers and initials and slang which comprises an auto racer's second language.

And understandably so. For if he wasn't born in the shadow of the "Old Brickyard" at Indianapolis, he was at least born close enough — in Terre Haute, Ind. — to see a lot of auto racing in his youth.

"I was involved with cars all the time since I was 16," he saus. "I used to race them myself at that time, though I haven't driven in 10 or 15 years."

HUFFAKER CAME to Marin in 1945, at the age of 18. He attended College of Marin for awhile, but simultaneously became the manager of an appliance repair business in Berkeley and San Rafael.

All the while, he was racing, but it wasn't a big money-maker for him.

"I supported racing by working," he admits — not the other way around. Nonetheless, the track continued to lure him.

About that time, he met Kjell Qvale, owner of British Motors in San Francisco, who convinced him that if he was going to repair anything, it should be engines. At 26, Huffaker became the head of Qvale's competition division in 1957.

"HE HAD NICE cars, and it gave me a chance for advancement," Huffaker says now. They remain fast friends, even though Huffaker left nine years ago to start his own enterprise, which existed for five years in a garage on Duffy Street in San Rafael before moving to the new Terra Linda quarters.

Huffaker Engineering employs six people, including its owner, who is indeed very much a worker. There is one parts man, one bookkeeper, three mechanics-machinists, and Huffaker, who does "the same work they do."

"The work is half the fun," he says. "I don't like the managerial part as much as I like the actual work. I handle the negotiations, figure out the contracts and so on, but I also do machine work, assembly, testing."

DESPITE THE respect which his enterprise has earned, he has no intention to expand it beyond possibly adding one more man.

"We've had it up to 14 at one point, and it works out better with what we have now," he says.

Huffaker has taken a fling at Indianapolis-type racing, with it glamor and publicity, and found it wanting.

"The people are friendlier in road racing," he says, "more interested in you and what you're doing. Indy is impersonal — guys are beating each other to death."

HIS INDIANAPOLIS foray in the early 1960s netted him several design trophies and an 11th place finish by driver Walt Hansen in 1964.

"We did reasonably well, but to win there, we would have had to devote almost our whole operation to it," he said.

So Huffaker stuck to the sports car circuit. This year he will race four cars — two Jensens, one MGB and one MG midget, the last subject to change.

The Jensens are provided by Qvale, who also owns Jensen Motors, Ltd. The MGs are provided by British Leyland Motors.

His drivers are "semi-amateur" — Huffaker takes care of their expenses, but doesn't pay them salaries. The arrangement is attractive enough to lure and keep drivers like Jon Woodner, an MG midget national champion.

MUCH OF Huffaker's money comes from development work for major producers, like Goodyear Tire and Rubber, Champion sparkplugs, and so on. A company will pay Huffaker to run a new product and report back on its performance.

And, of course, individuals pay for the work done on their engines and parts. "Our customers are professionals," Huffaker says. "Eighty five per cent of our business comes from outside California."

"We beat 'em at the races, and it's pretty good advertising" in his matter-of-fact explanation.

HE MENTIONED one customer who decided to repair his engine himself, and bought some $7,000 in parts from Huffaker before changing his mind and buying an engine from Huffaker. "The engine ran for a season and a half, and he's been a loyal customer ever since."

Huffaker's shop, in the back of his office, is well equipped with a large work area accommodating several machines and four cars in various stages of dismemberment; a "so-called soundproof room" containing some $100,000 worth of engine testing equipment; and a smaller "clean room" for other work requiring less space. A parts area is upstairs.

The whole enterprise bespeaks of a basic philogosphy of modest success — of keeping within carefully defined limits, but excelling within those boundaries.

YET HUFFAKER has a few unusual projects going. He's involved in the work on a prototype engine for a Jensen Interceptor — "sort of a sporty Rolls-Royce" — priced at a decidedly sporty $20,000.

But his favorite is his super-mileage vehicle, designed to get 60 or 70 miles a gallon with a 750-pound payload.

"Several people are interested, but not enough to put up the money," he says. Some revisions of state vehicle safety codes would be required before it could be manufactured, but that step is far away — all Huffaker wants to do now is build a successful prototype.

"We're trying to diversify the business in case we run into problems with the fuel crisis," he says.

HUFFAKER LIVES in Novato with his wife, Jean, and three children — Sue, 20, Joe, 18, and Lynn, 17. None is a racer "though Joe is sort of interested."

Water skiing is a big family interest instead.

Appliance repair is not. That has been left behind — long ago.

REPAIR WORK IS done by Joe Huffaker and his Huffaker Engineering crew of three mechanics in the well-equipped shop behind his office in Terra Linda. And for Huffaker, the shop work, rather than the administrative end of his duties, is what brings the greatest satisfaction. Here he uses a micrometer to explore the inside dimensions of an aluminum engine in the "clean room," an area used for small and intricate jobs with engines.

TROPHIES AND PHOTOGRAPHS line the walls of the Huffaker Engineering office in Terra Linda, and indicative of owner Joe Huffaker's involvement with cars and automobile racing. The 46-year-old Huffaker and his associates have compiled an impressive record of sports car victories and championships since the Novato resident left the applicance repair business and abandoned a brief fling with the Indianapolis-size racing cars to throw himself wholeheartedly into the sports excitement of car competition.

The Huffaker Sports Cars Are Winners

A HUGE DIESEL TRUCK hauls the Huffaker Engineering sports cars to the races, with the names of the sponsors emblazoned on its sides. The truck can accommodate four cars and has a spare parts bin and repair area in the front of the trailer. With Joe Huffaker in the photo is Jim Coen, right, a technical adviser for British Leyland Motors, for whom Huffaker and his crew race the two MGBs shown in the foreground of photograph.

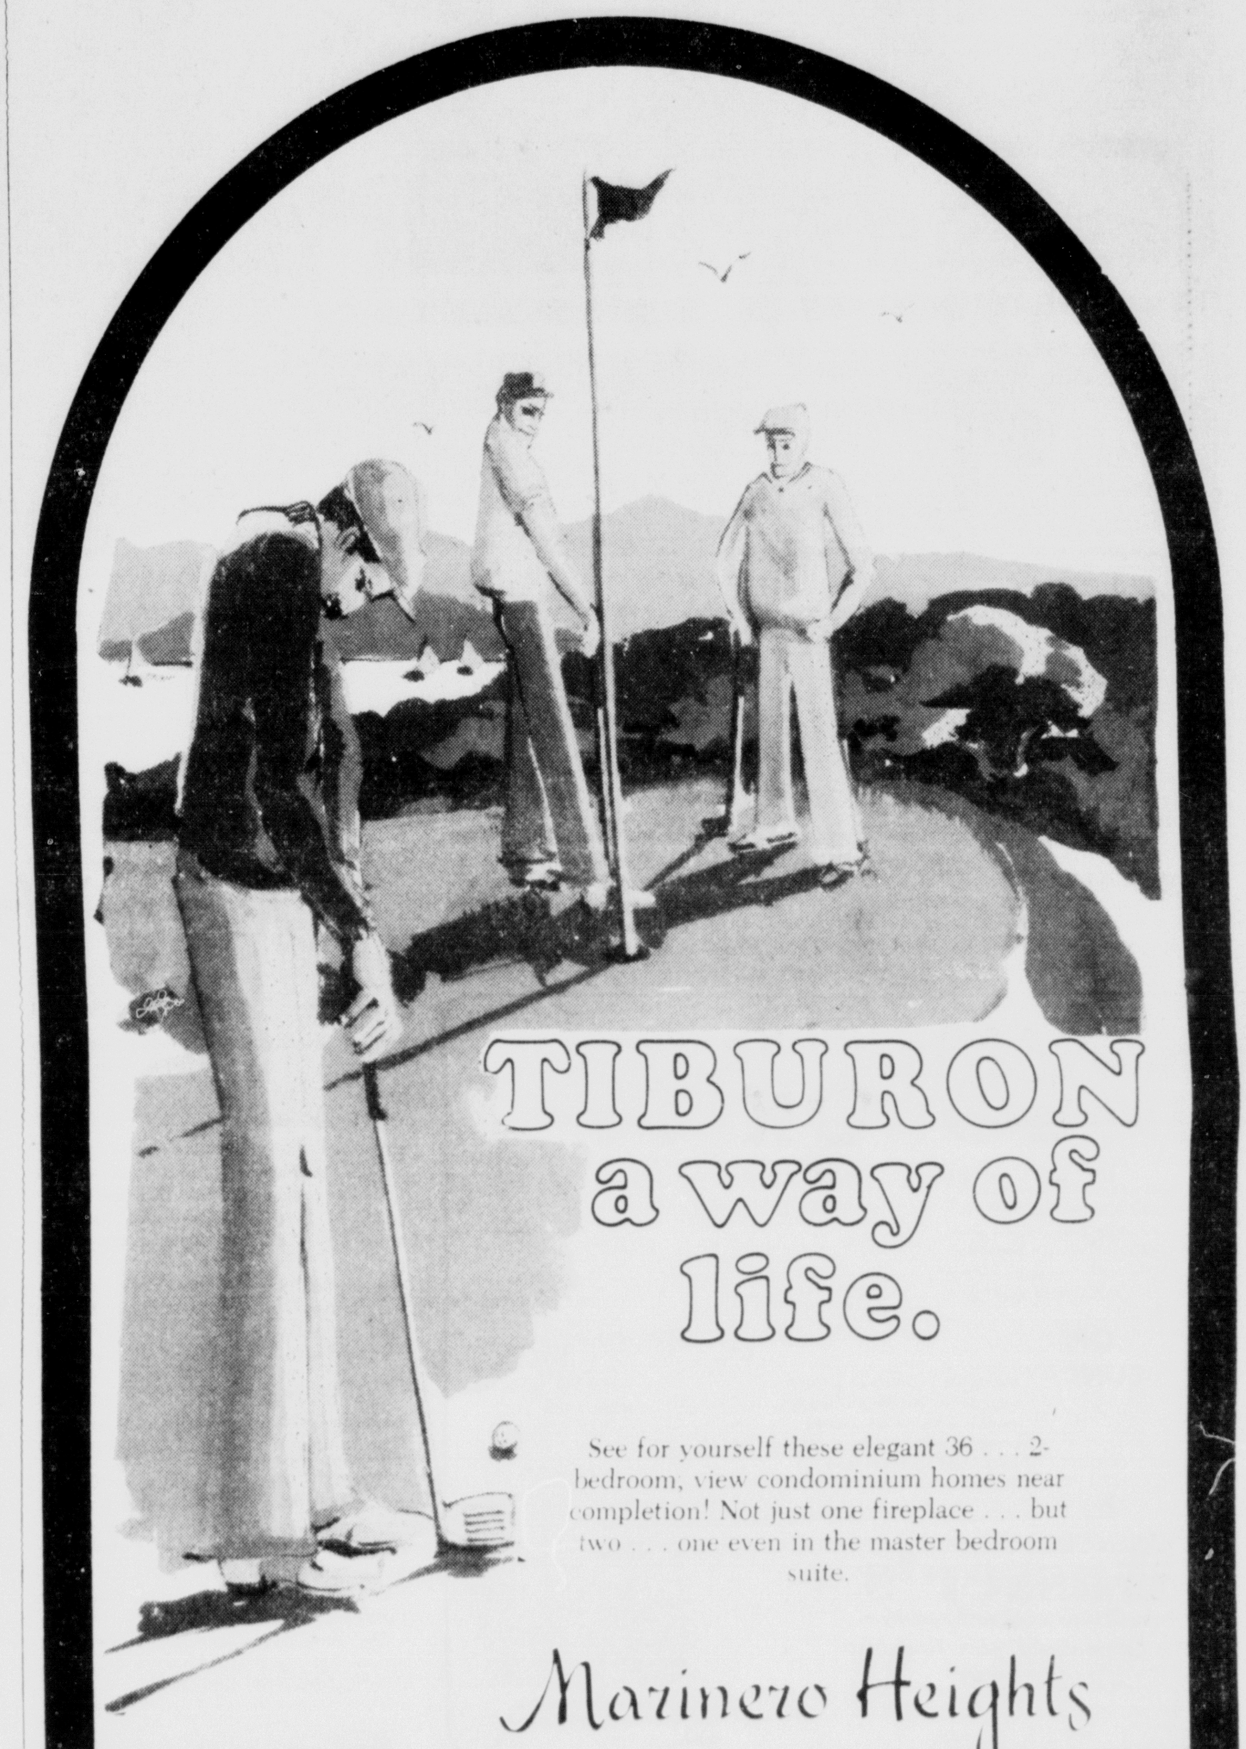

JENSEN-HEALEY CARS entered by Joe Huffaker and his Huffaker Engineering won six of seven national championship races last year, an amazing achievement, and also won at Sears Point Raceway in close-to-home Sonoma County where this photograph was taken. Jensen Motors Ltd. is owned by Kjell Qvale of San Francisco, sportsman and a long-time friend of Huffaker.

TAKING THE LEAD in a national championship race in Atlanta, Ga., last October was Lee Mueller driving a Huffaker car, the Jensen-Healey that regularly carries No. 43, but which for this particular race had been designated No. 42. Both the Huffaker Jensens were entered in the Atlanta race. One result was the only loss the other car, No. 44, sustained all year as the other Huffaker Jensen crossed the finish line first.

A Deak INVESTMENT PROJECT

HIS RESTORATION OF the carriage he purchased in Canada last summer has limited the time that Bob Gateley has been able to spend upon the two fine old automobiles he also owns. But with the buggy as good as new, Gateley can resume his work on the 1927 two-door sedan Whippet, left, and the 1940 Packard sedan, right, that are his other prime hobby interests. Here the Whippet receives his attention. The cars, like the carriage, will participate in San Rafael's centennial parade in May.

A Man, His Cars And His Carriage —

kind of investigative equipment that we didn't have. I would make it myself," he says.

ONE OF THESE inventions was patented and is in production.

When Gateley left military service in 1965, he joined the Pac Manufacturing Corp. of San Francisco, producers of metal and plastic products, as an executive.

And when he found those duties did not fully occupy his time, he also got into the field of insurance claims adjuster, spending five and a half years at that until 1971.

Now he is semi-retired, but still does freelance private investigative work from time to time, working out of his home.

"WHAT I WOULD really like to do is restore old wagons and buggies for their owners," he confesses.

To prove his qualifications, Gateley can point in addition to his carriage to two automobiles that he owns and has been restoring.

The first is a 1927 Whippet two-door sedan that his first wife, now deceased, inherited from her family.

"The Whippet was running fairly well, but the motor, body work and interior all needed rebuilding," he says. "As a matter of act, I still work on it from time to time."

HE DESCRIBES the Whippet as "an off-beat automobile, not a classic car. Just a special interest car. There must be bout a thousand of them around."

After the Whippet, he acquired a 1940 Packard sedan, and he is presently in the process of restoring it.

"It had been sitting since 1965 in storage with only 50,000 miles on its speedometer," Gateley says. "It was in beautiful running shpae, with a perfect motor. But it does require a little painting, a little body work and a new interior. Now that the carriage restoration is completed, I will be able to turn my attention back to the Packard."

SINCE GATELEY also owns or has owned a station wagon and his wife a Chevrolet, in addition to the motor home, a boat and trailer, the two old cars and the carriage ("and," says Gateley, "I used to have a motorbike"), parking presented a problem. Gateley solved it by paving 3,000 squire feet in his backyard for the vehicles.

MARIN LIVING

But he does his work in his garage.

"We use the Packard for driving to church on Sunday," he says. "It's our Sunday car."

Gateley is an enthusiastic member of the Antique Automobile Club of America, Golden Gate Region. He and Mrs. Gateley, a teacher at the Coleman School in San Rafael, attend club meetings and functions regularly.

"AND I HAVE learned a lot from them," he says.

He and Mrs. Gateley attend club functions regularly. And on their trip last summer, they stopped off in Topeka, Kans., to attend an Antique Automobile Club of America rally, "and almost immediately, it was just like being among old friends. They accept you at once."

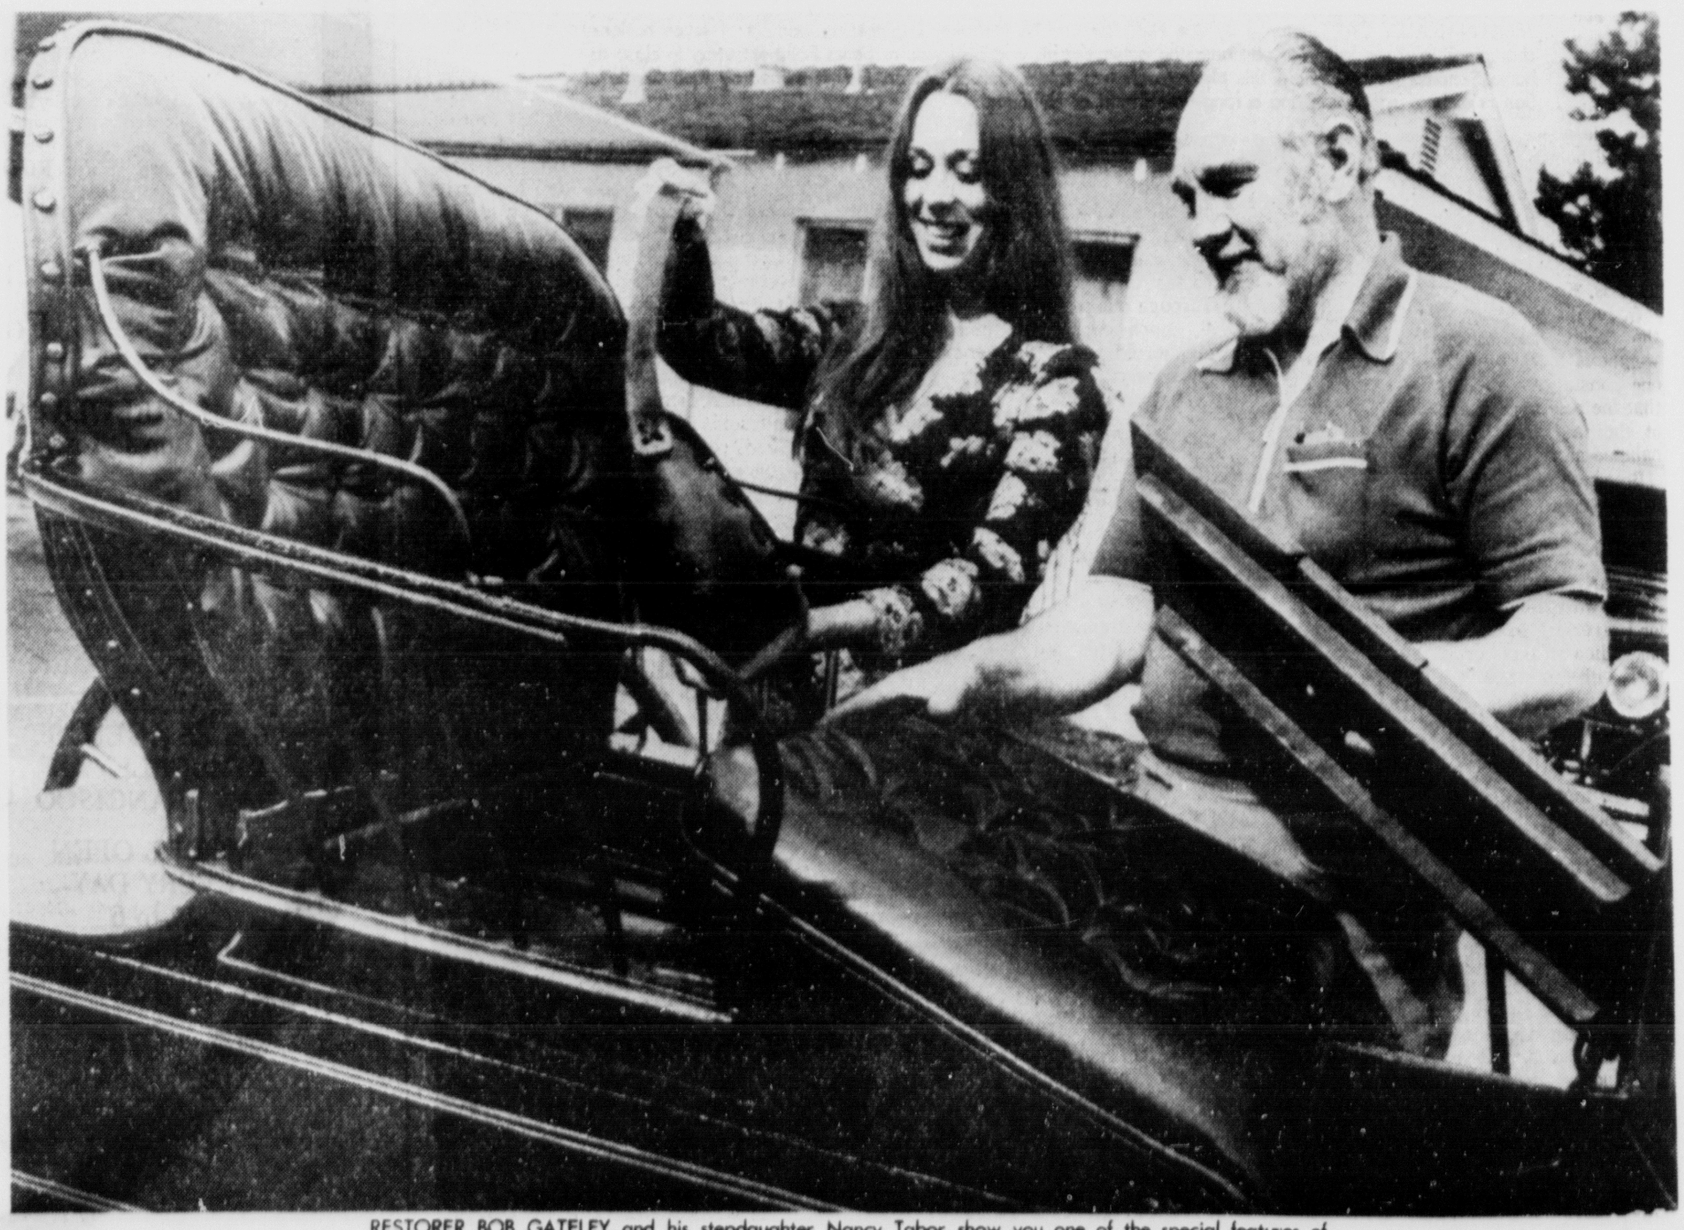

There are two Gateley children, a grown son, now married, and with two children of his own, and a 19-year-old daughter attending Diablo Valley College.

MRS. GATELEY was guardian of Job's Daughters Bethel 48, and is now deputy grand guardian for the state Job's Daughters organization, with three Marin bethels in her jurisdiction.

Thelma Gateley, her husband says, shares fully in his interest in and enthusiasm for his cars and carriage, and has assisted him in their restoration.

The two cars, as well as the carriage, will be in San Rafael's centennial parade.

"That," says Bob Gateley, "is a good part of the enjoyment of old cars and carriages — sharing them with others. I'm sure they will bring back some memories for many of those watching the parade. And for those too young to remember the horse-and-buggy era, or even the Whippet automobile, they'll serve as a reminder that times past had their good things, too — substantial things that served their parents or their grandparents or their great-grandparents very well."

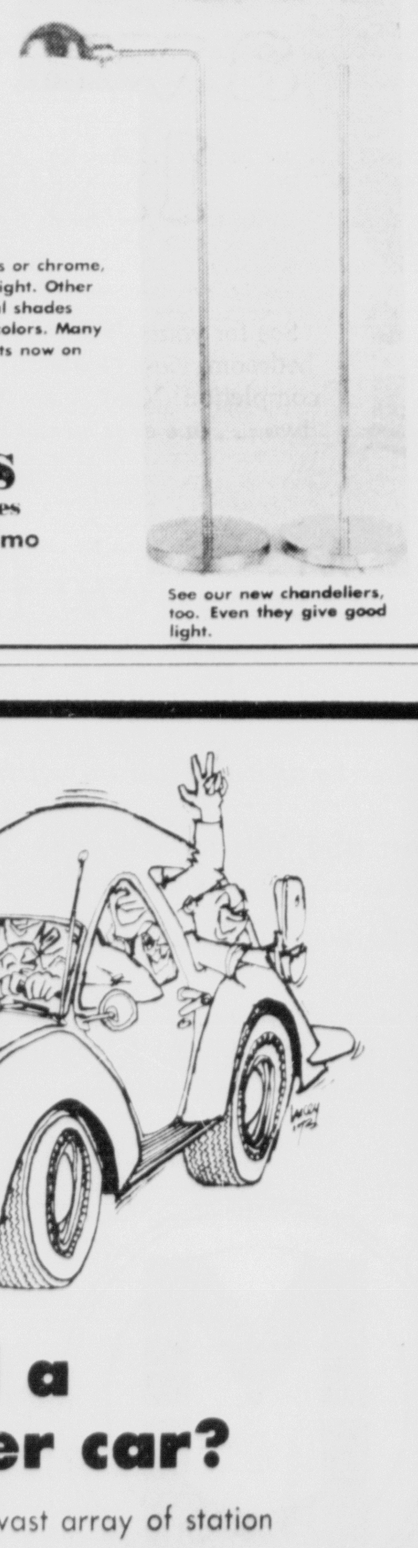

RESTORER BOB GATELEY and his stepdaughter Nancy Tabor show you one of the special features of Gateley's William Gray and Sons Ltd.-built carriage. The leatherseat lifts up to reveal a lattice-covered despoitory for papers or other items that Gateley says is remarkably similar to the storage space provided in the old doctor's shay much used in early Marin County for the physician's kit. Gateley bought a whole cowhide for the leather to recover the seat and backrest.

A Doctor Delves Deeper Into Diet

opening of the Terra Linda office with its unusual focus followed.

Dr. Kaufman, a divroced man with one child living in New England, now resides in Berkeley. But he regards that as temporary, and plans to return to Marin County and closer proximity to his office when he completes his studies. He is a member of the Marin Medical Society.

Barry Kaufman feels he is part of a new awareness within the medical profession, rising slowly but steadily, that nutrition represents a key portion of its responsibilities.

THE OVERWHELMING nutritional problem brought to his Terra Linda office by Marinites, he says, is that of overweight.

In dealing with it, he says, he tries to apply something of the behavior modification techniques that have been used in such other problem areas as smoking and drinking.

"My philosophy is that anyone can lose weight," says the doctor. "The key to success is keeping that weight off. That is the real problem. My objective is to teach the patient how to eat properly, not just temporarily, but as a lifetime practice."

THIS IS NO simple matter, he admits, describing obesity as "a multi-headed monster —part physiological, part psychological, part sociological."

Says Dr. Kaufman: "I hear over and over again the sad stories of people who lose weight through various diets or programs, only to put it right back on again.They go up and down like a yo-yo. And they become discouraged."

A key part of his own approach, he says, is the follow-up.

"I will want my patients to remain in contact with me for months, possibly for years, even if they just come in to be weighed." he says. "Some will need frequent encouragement to continue their new eating habits. Others will require coaxing and cajoling. Some even a bit of bullying. Every patient is an individual, and has his or her own distinct needs and problems.

"BUT THEY ALL benefit from knowing there is someone interested in what they are accomplishing."

"Besides," he adds, "it is much easier to renew the fight if you catch it when only three pounds have been regained — not 30."

Any kind of severe diet should be attempted only under the supervision and with the approval of a doctor, Kaufman firmly believes. And preferably a doctor with some study and/or experience in nutrition and nutrition-related diseases.

That is why, Barry Kaufman says, he is placing a major emphasis upon efforts to interest his fellow Marin physicians in nutrition and its study.

"DOCTORS ARE supposed to be like gods, and know everything," he says. "But they don't. And they realize this. The field of nutrition has been one of the more neglected subjects in the medical curriculum."

This new stress on nutrition and diet is a controversial issue with some physicians, Dr. Kaufman admits, some of whom feel there is a tendency by advocates to carry it to extremes and to overplay the part that what we eat plays in our health. "Moderation," agrees Kaufman, "is a wise course in everything."

An obese person can be placed upon a diet as low as 500 calories a day, supplemented, by nutrients, the doctor says, but such drastic diets should be undertaken only at a physician's direction. He is the one who can evaluate the overall health impact of the diet upon the patient, and not just the weight-loss factor.

UNDER SUCH SUPERVISION even fasts are feasible for some for limited periods, Kaufman says.

Generally speaking, says Dr. Kaufman, the thesis that the only way to lose weight is to take in fewer calories than one consumes for energy is correct and that the best approach is smaller portions at the table while maintaining a good balance as to kinds of food.

But, he adds, science is only beginning to realize just how really complicated the disease of obesity — "and it is a disease" — can be.

AS AN EXAMPLE, Dr. Kaufman cites recent work by Jules Hirsh at Rockefeller University and by other scientists that has indicated that certain individuals are born with more than the average number of fat cells, thus creating a genetic predisposition toward overweight. That the only time effective action can be taken to reduce these fat cells numerically is in the first few months of life. And that once this critical period has passed, the individual faces a doubly difficult struggle throughout his or her lifetime against obesity, plagued not only by the size of the fat cells but by their excessive numbers as well.

One of the most effective tests to determine obesity that Dr. Kaufman employs is the simple skin fold one.

It can, he says, be more accurate than the scales, "for what you are on the alert for is not so much weight as fat. Weight can be misleading. The scales can lie. The pounds may be mostly water, and one can easily get rid of that. Fat is something else."

AND, SAYS DR. Kaufman, there is no miracle substance to melt that fat away, although some of the newer non-amphetimine compounds on the market can be used with some effectiveness to reduce the appetite. But this, he stresses, should be done only for short periods of time, and only under a physician's care.

MORE ACCURATE THAN the scales in determining whether a person needs to reduce or not, says Dr. Barry Kaufman, is the simple skin-fold test. "What you are actually on the alert for is not so much weight as fat," he explains. "The scales can lie. The pounds may be mostly water. Fat is something else." Here he conducts a skin-fold test on the arm of a patient.

Education, he feels, is the most promising weapon of the war against obesity.

Education of the people as to what is fact and fancy, what is wise and foolish, in their eating habits and beliefs, and the passing along of that new knowledge to the next generation so that our children will grow up a bit healthier than we are.

AND EDUCATION of physicians, first in the importance of nutrition, and then in the technicalities of the subject, so that when their patients turn to them, as they should, for advice about their diet, they will be ready to prescribe confidently and expertly.

Along with diet, Dr. Kaufman acknowledges, exercise has an important role in weight control.

Unfortunately, he adds, our mode of living keeps many of us out of the gymnasium and off the playing field, so that we don't have the time or opportunity for the kind of vigorous exercise that contributes most to weight control.

SO, SAYS THE doctor, as a practical matter, reduction of the caloric intake offers more promise than the burning up of more calories as a means of keeping the body trim and lean.

"Which is not to say it isn't a good idea to go to the gym or to exercise elsewhere if and when you can," he adds. "It is a very good idea. And a combination of diet and exercise is the best method yet for reducing — again under a doctor's supervision if the weight loss must be a considerable one, or if your body is unaccustomed to such discipline."

Although obesity is by far the major problem brought to him by his patients, Dr. Kaufman has a second "clientele" consisting of people, usually the women in the home, who come to him for an evaluation of their family's eating patterns and habits.

GENERALLY, HE says, his personal experience has been that with these particular Marinites, their nutritional status is adequate.

"I have not found significant deficiencies in essential nutrients among the ones I have seen," he says.

One method he employs in making that determination is the relatively new technique of snipping a specimen of hair from the head of the patient, taken from close to the scalp (unwashed for a week), and then sent off to a laboratory for analysis.

Through this technique, "more economical, much easier and more accurate than the old tests," deficiencies of such vital trace minerals as zinc and iron can be determined.

DR. KAUFMAN stresses his own personal experience with his patients in finding few deficiencies in nutrition other than obesity should not be taken as a general finding for the nation.

In the first place, Marin County, with its affluence, is hardly typical of the country. Most of Kaufman's patients have come from the upper middle class, normally better fed than the poorer classes.

"Even in Marin," he says, "I suspect that a study of the lower economic classes might reveal significant deficiencies in their diets."

Contrary to popular belief, he adds, even in the matter of obesity, studies have shown that the problem is still greater with the lower than with the upper economic classes.

"THIS, NO DOUBT," he says, "is because the upper middle class has the money to purchase the better, leaner foods, and also greater access to nutritional education. The families lower on the pay scale often do not have this information, and also feel forced to spend their food budgets on the cheaper starchier and fattier foods."

Dr. Kaufman admits it bothers him that the patients who are coming to him generally are from the group with the least serious nutritional problems.

"That is why I place such importance upon education among doctors in nutrition and diet," he says. "Most of these people do see doctors. It is a matter of seeing that their doctors are aware of the importance of nutrition, and prepared to detect and to help them to overcome deficiencies."

INDICATIVE OF the generally keen interest in nutrition that Barry Kaufman has found among his Marin patients is the high readership he has discovered for the books of Adelle Davis, Carleton Fredericks, Gaylord Hauser and other writers of popular works for laymen in the field of foods and supplements.

In his Terra Linda office, Kaufman keeps a considerable library of these books for himself, along with his more technical and classical texts.

"I have discovered that I have to be able to talk to my patients about this or that Adelle Davis or Leland Kordel theory when they come into my office," he says. "They are well versed in these books. So I must be prepared."

HIS POSSESSION of the books, he adds, does not mean that he endorses fully the opinions and theses they contain.

Speaking specifically of Miss Davis, he says: "Generally, I do agree with a good deal of what she says. Much of it is commonsense, based on sound nutritional principles. But a few of the things she says are subject to great controversy and dispute. There just isn't the proven fact to support them."

The "prescription" of specific foods, vitamins or minerals for specific diseases or ailments is particularly questionable, he feels, although he is in full agreement that "the general good health to which sound nutrition contributes serves as a bulwark against all diseases."

People have turned to non-physicians who sometimes carry theory to an exaggerated extreme because the physicians themselves have not equipped themselves to advise with confidence on nutritional subjects, Kaufman believes.

BUT WHAT Barry Kaufman is most concerned about are not the readers of Adelle Davis or Gaylord Hauser, but the adopters of extremist fad and crash diets that seriously upset the nutritional balance of their food intake.

Some other opinions from Barry Kaufman, who stresses that "I do not consider myself the great expert on nutrition; it's a very complicated field, and I am still studying," but who does feel he is in the process of equipping himself for his self-imposed tasks not only of helping his patients with their diet problems and questions, but also of interesting his fellow physicians in the field:

"Refined carbohydrates —things like refined sugar and white flour — are particularly suspect as causes of overweight and such other ailments as arteriosclerosis. The refining process has removed many of the nutrients from processed foods. Some of these vitamins and minerals are then replaced. But some of the things taken out are never put back in.

"GENERALLY THE refined carbohydrates are foods that may contribute energy and calories, but little else to our bodies. From table sugar, for instance, you just get energy with no essential nutrients. And there is some evidence to show that high sugar consumption is related not only to obesity but also to diseases concomitant to overweight such as hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure."

On the other hand, Barry Kaufman says his personal experience would indicate that the prevalence of low blood sugar in the American population has been exaggerated by some writers and lecturers in the field of nutrition.

"You read things like '90 per cent of the American population has low blood sugar.' But my own experience has been that this just isn't true. It isn't all that common. Most individuals don't walk around with low blood sugar. It exists, of course. But, from my experience, it isn't that frequent."

REGARDING massive doses of Vitamin C to ward off the common cold: "At Berkeley, the thinking is that there is as yet no proven scientific studies that demonstrate that taking ascorbic acid or Vitamin C in excess of the recommended daily allowance prevents the occurrence of the common cold."

Dr. Kaufman adds: "I don't categorically state that Vitamin C in heavy doses doesn't prevent colds. I'm just saying that none of the studies cited so far meet the strict criteria for true controlled scientific research."

"And it should be noted," he adds, "that there is another theory — and it, too, is just a theory — that taking very large doses of Vitamin C daily may cause the body to put into operation its mechanism of detoxification; and that once it starts this system to going it cannot shut it off, so that the person could wind up deficient in Vitamin C."

THERE IS, the doctor states, no difference in the so-called synthetic and natural vitamins. "A vitamin is a vitamin is a vitamin."

The public's battle to assure itself sound nutrition and diet is made much more difficult, Dr. Kaufman notes, because society is inundated with psychologically clever advertising and propaganda on television and radio, in newspapers and magazines, on signboards, pushing the refined carbohydrate and other less nutritious foods.

"Only rarely," he says, "do we see advertisements or signs on behalf of the better foods —or that tell the people how to eat right."

SO, HE SAYS, even the person or family given sound guidance by a physician finds upon leaving the office and going out into the world that he or she is subjected to all kinds of pressures and temptations to stray from the doctor's advice.

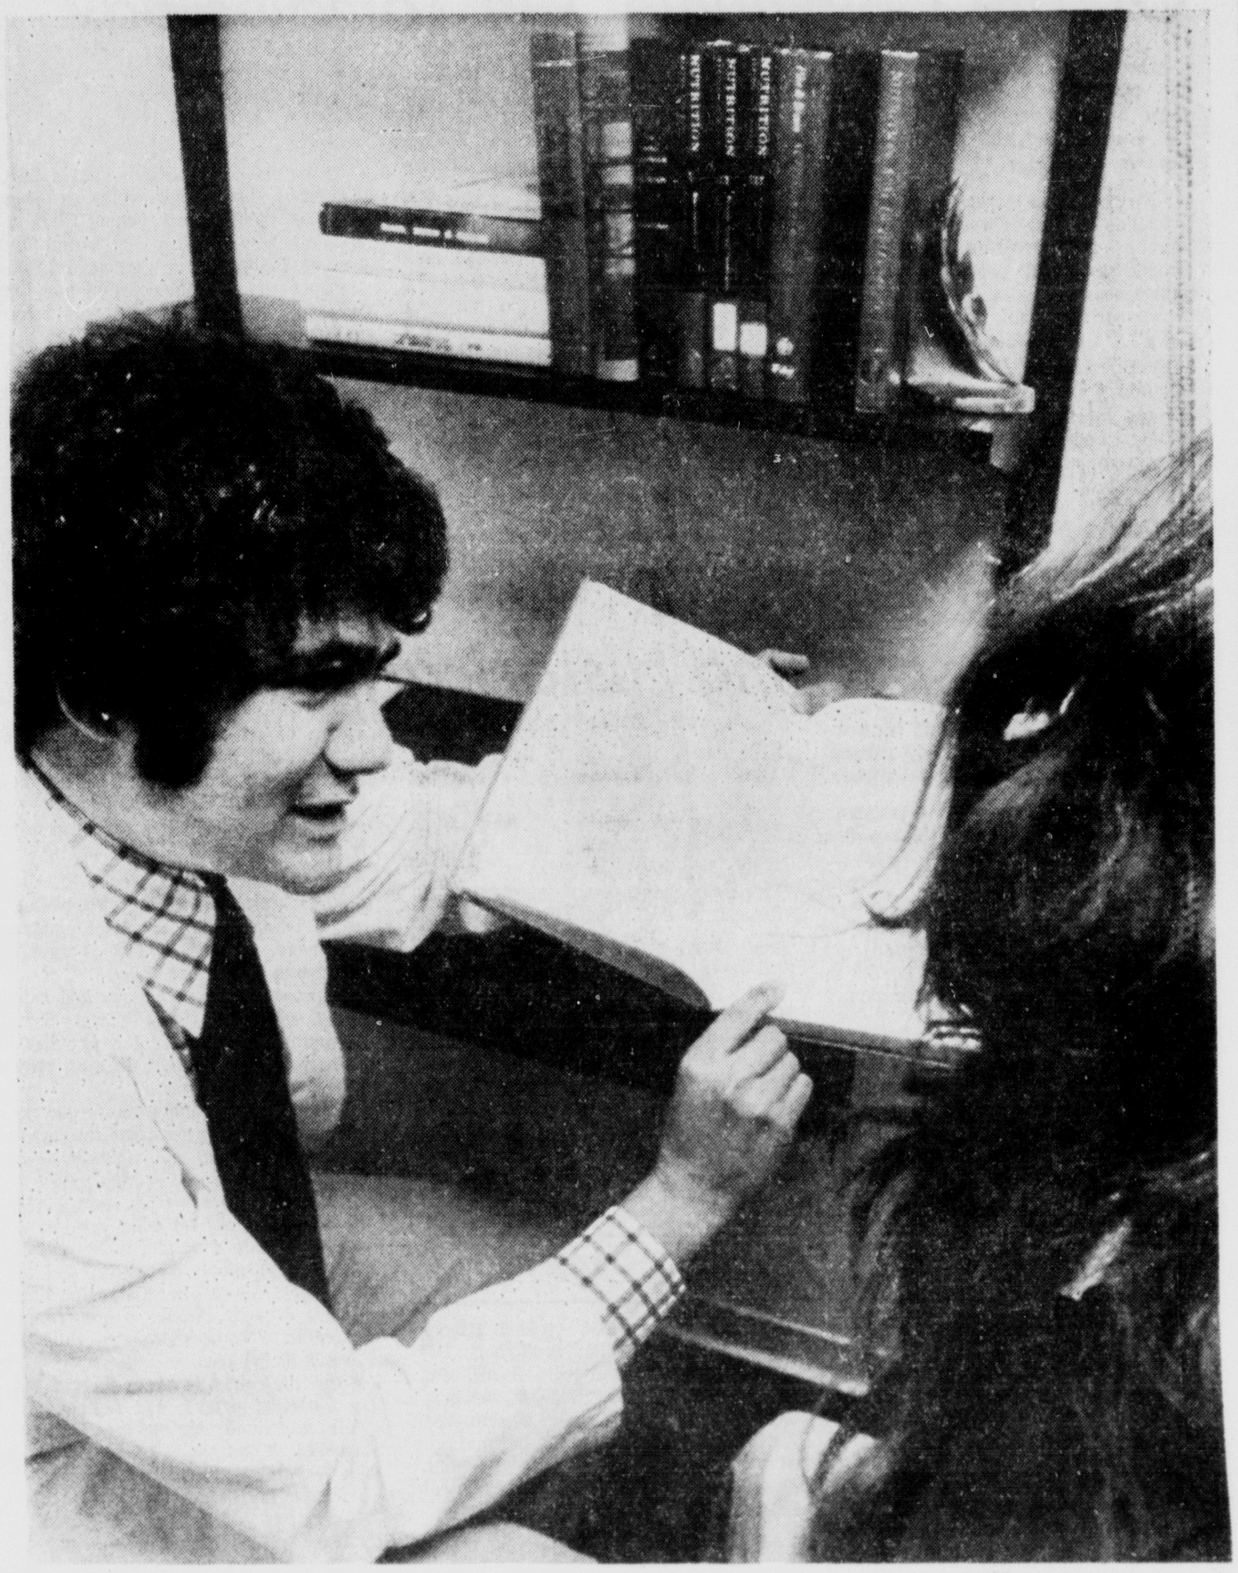

On the other hand, some of those lured into fad diets and the "organic food culture" may find themselves in nutritional difficulties caused by an unbalanced diet, and also out the extra money that sometimes goes with buying the so-called organic or exotic foods.

"There is no real way for the consumer of knowing for certain that produce or other food marked and priced as organic has actually been grown without chemical fertilizers or sprays, as the term has come to indicate," Dr. Kaufman says.

BUT HE ADDS: "Fresh vegetables and fruits, by and large, are tastier than the canned or frozen. And when properly prepared to retain their nutrients, they are better for us than vegetables or fruit that have gone through the canning or freezing processes. So if you have a choice, I would say that it is better to buy fresh foods, rather than the canned or frozen. Canning can be particularly destructive to the food value.

"When food is frozen quite rapidly, there is a markedly smaller loss of nutrients than is experienced in canning."

Various nutrients, particularly the water soluble vitamins such as the Bs and C, can be lost in various other ways in addition to canning, he says. Rough handling, other trauma, heat, cold, boiling and sometimes sunlight can all lessen Vitamin C content.

THE BOOKS ON diet and nutrition that Dr. Barry Kaufman keeps in his Terra Linda office include both texts for professionals and popular works for the general public. He must, he says, keep up on the writings of Adelle Davis, Gaylord Hauser, et al, because he has found his Marin patients are well versed in their books and theories. Here in one of the more technical works he points out a pertinent passage to a patient.

"THAT IS WHY it wasn't a good idea to leave milk in the old glass bottles exposed to the sun."

There are, says Dr. Kaufman, certain critical periods for nutrition in the life cycle:

Paranatal period; all of growth and development including especially the adolescent spurt of growth during which Americans traditionally do some of their worst eating; pregnancy and lactation for women (when they are actually eating for two bodies); and old age ("when those who live alone, even those who can afford to eat properly, very often don't bother to acquire the proper nutrients.")

BACK TO THE number one nutritional disease of Marinites, obesity, Dr. Kaufman says: "The problem is that most people in our society want to lose weight too quickly, thus resorting to so-called fad and quick-weight-loss diets."

He repeats: "Such radical diets shouldn't be attempted, except with a doctor's supervision."

As a general pattern for balance, a diet should consist of 20 per cent proteins, 40 per cent carbohydrates and 40 per cent fats, the doctor says.

FOR THE DIETER, in addition to overall reduction in portions, it is suggested that the protein proportion might be increased slightly at the expense of the carbohydrate percentage.

A sharp reduction in fats can create problems for the eater, Dr. Kaufman says, because they have a high appetite satiety value that is of assistance in the reduction of the total caloric intake.

Motivation, he says, is essential to the success of a campaign against obesity.

"One has to recognize just what overweight means to him."

ONE KAUFMAN suggestion for achieving this realization: "Go to the supermarket, pick up an extra 10 or 15 pound sack of sugar at the outset of your shopping, and carry it around with you while you pick up your groceries. Then keep in mind that when this weight is inside you as fat, you not only have to carry it, but you must nourish it, with a constant supply of blood supplied by your heart and oxygen furnished by your lungs. I think you'll get the point."

"The education of the public to the merits of a balanced diet and to the dangers of over-eating and obesity is one of the most important things the physician can do," says Kaufman.

The American Medical Association, he notes unhappily, doesn't recognize nutrition as a certifiable specialty for physicians.

BUT STILL, he adds, things are beginning to stir. Some doctors, and they are growing in number, are beginning to pay the greater attention to nutrition that Barry Kaufman believes is due the subject.

The real happy day for Dr. Kaufman will come, however, when all or most medical schools boast departments of nutritional science with organized and extensive curricula.

Right now, he feels, their numbers are all too few.

A Marin Historian's Affectionate Story Of The Community On Tomales Bay

SUMMER TOWN— THE HISTORY OF INVERNESS, CALIFORNIA by Jack Mason; North Shore Books, 79 pages, $4.25. Reviewed by Dorothy Gardiner.

For those who reside or holiday in Inverness and enjoy roaming its sandy beaches and strolling its tree-lined streets, stopping to peer at shingled and gabled houses peeking from behind overgrown gardens, Jack Mason's "Summer Town" is a long awaited treat.

Mason, former news editor for the Oakland Tribune, Marin historian and lifelong Inverness resident, writes with nostalgia and affection of the town where his grandmother, Barbara Mason, purchased property in 1899.

"Inverness was the creature of James McMillan Shafter's debts," Mason writes. After the West Marin land baron lost a fortune in the North Pacific Coast Railroad, he hired a civil engineer to subdivide 640 acres of his Tomales Bay frontage into lots.

The lots went on the market in 1889 and three years later, in the summer of 1892, "a thousand people, most of them Presbyterians, camped under the Alders in First Valley and on the beach."

A few lots were finally sold — one going to Alexander (Capt. Billy) Bailey, a San Francisco widower who the next year bought an additional 100 acres in a probate sale for $1,500. This land became known as "Bailey's Tract."

A short time later the town of Inverness was off to a flying start when "Capt. Billy" built the town's first "substantial house," The Gables.

Mason laces his text with marvelous anecdotes including ones on his own boyhood . . . "In the evenings, Inverness made its own fun. . .A game called Murder brought us all together in one of the town's great houses. Or we walked to Second Valley to join the Boy Scouts singing 'K-K-K-Katty' around the campfire. . ."

There are descriptions of the damage caused by the 1906 earthquake, the beginnings of the Inverness Yacht Club, the town's popularity with vacationing families of University of California professors, the effects of the depression and the recent struggle to maintain public access to Chicken Ranch Beach.

But possibly the book's most poignant passages concern James Shafter's daughter, Julia Shafter Hamilton, who "had tried bravely since 1892 to clean up her father's debts, only to be defeated by depression, earthquake, world war and husband trouble."

The book is illustrated with a collection of old-time photographs of Inverness and its people.

Intense, Exciting Historical Narrative

ELIZABETH & CATHERINE by Robert Coughlan; Putnam, 347 pages, $10. Reviewed by Patricia Latimer.

"Elizabeth & Catherine" is a poignant, powerful, deeply-moving dramatization of two remarkable 18th century women.

After the death of Peter the Great, Elizabeth, his "feminine replica" in both physique and temperament, takes it upon herself to compete for, maintain and influence the proper line of ascendancy to the Russian throne and the restoration of her father's Kievan Russia.

Robert Coughlan writes, ". . . and on two matters at least she was entirely consistent and left no doubt about the depth of her sentiments. She was devoted to the memory of Peter and Catherine and her sister, Anna. And she loved Russia."

In November, 1741, after 10 years in exile during the reign of the now dead Anna, Elizabeth re-emerges strong and confident, winning the loyalties of the Preobrazhensky barracks, then stages and leads a histrionic midnight coup. Within two hours she becomes Elizabeth Petrovna, Empress and Autocrat of All Russias. So begins her 23-year rule.

Although most historical accounts of Elizabeth are controversial and often contradictory, Coughlan concerns himself foremost with her role as "importer and discoverer, surrogate mother-in-law, terrifying and revered model and somewhat inadvertent benefactress of the girl who becomes one of the most distinguished rulers who ever lived known in history as Catherine the Great."

In her own life, Elizabeth is constant victim of an "inescapable logic." Her father's well intended political alliances result in the sudden death of her new found husband. This is followed by a series of tragedies, coronations and family deaths.

To alleviate her unhappiness, Elizabeth amuses herself with many alleged suitors, since matrimony is unlikely, and one compulsive passion, to find a bride for the chosen heir, Peter Charles.

Elizabeth, always cautious and calculating, selects the young Princess Sophia Augusta Fredricka, later christened Catherine, of the minor German principality, Anhalt Zerbst.

This very naive and ordinary girl rises from mediocrity to greatness through the inflicted sufferings, manipulations and finally self-revelations of Elizabeth.

Although Elizabeth truly loves Catherine, when she and her child husband fail to consummate a painful eight years of marriage Elizabeth imprisons and tortures them. Even after Catherine bears an heir of sorts through a prearranged love affair, Elizabeth steals the child and raises it as her own.

Catherine comes to power through major historical events, her famous love affairs and finally the death of Empress Elizabeth. When she does, she does so with the utmost of grandeur and learned wisdoms of her predecessor.

During her reign she brings Russia to its finest period of enlightenment. She follows the reforms of her idol, Peter the Great insisting on legislative reforms, defining expressions of freedom, amassing collections of art and literature and finally restoring the great Kievan Russia.

Wars, hardships, triumphs and even personal disasters cause Catherine's libertarian principles to curdle. In three short years, the country is turned about. She moves "from having been the most famously liberal monarch in Europe . . . to the most vehemently reactionary."

Coughlan has done an excellent job in giving exceptional life and dynamic perspective to two very real and dominant women. He is clever and conscientious in chronicling the events of history. The reading for the most part is fast and lively, but drags toward the end. This is a terribly intense and exciting historical narrative. I think you will find it worth reading.

THE BROWSING BOOKMAN

The avocado, it seems, is a much more versatile fruit than most of us suspected.

Helen Rosenbaum makes that point in her clever and interesting book, "Don't Swallow the Avocado Pit — and What to Do with the Rest of It," published by Paul S. Eriksson Inc. at $6.95.

Miss Rosenbaum, a young New York writer and author of other cookbooks and beauty books, covers the entire spectrum of this once exotic, now commonplace in the supermarket, edible. She tells you how to grow avocado trees (including as a container plant), how to harvest the crop, and how to put it to use, as food and as a beauty aid. A good deal of the book is given over to recipes from guacamole to avocado pie, and including an avocado margarita for your frefreshment. Not to be overlooked are the avocado ice creams. And even avocado soups.

Then, in keeping with the current interest in beauty aids made from natural products, there are shampoos, creams and hair conditioners.

And quite a lot of just plain general information about the avocado and why you ought to grow, use or eat it.

It's a clever book. But more than that, a useful one.

AND IF THAT doesn't satisfy your hunger for information about the avocado, there's "The Fresh Avocado Beauty Book" compiled by Beulah Roth for the California Avocado Advisory Board, 4533 MacArthur Boulevard, Suite B, Newport Beach, Calif., 92624. It's a softcover booklet with instructions for the making of such cosmetics as Envy Green Masque, Avocado Foot Softener and Avocado Salt Rub.

OURS IS NOT the first era to be preoccupied with the occult, claims Multimedia-Biograf, 100 South Western Highway, Blauvelt, N.Y., pointing to the literature of Victorian England by way of example and also as an introduction to its newest batch of paperback reprints.

Including are Marie Corelli's "A Romance of Two Worlds," originally published in 1886, and Sir Bulwer Lytton's "Vril," one of the first science fiction stories when it was written by the statesman Rosecrucian a century ago. Also by Lytton: "Zanoni: A Rosicrucian Tale."

But the gem of the collection is Dr. Joseph A. Seiss' "The Great Pyramid: A Miracle in Stone," first published in 1877 but long out of print, and regarded as a classic upon a subject that still intrigues and challenges hundreds of thousands today.

A Sacrifice Of Youth To The Cause

GONE THE RAINBOW, GONE THE DOVE by Joan Bagnel; Trident Press, 444 pages, $8.95. Reviewed by Mary Lou Jacobson.

The time is 1915 and the Irish Republican Army has risen to strike for Irish freedom. Jamie Daley watches as his father is hung by British soldiers for harboring a guerilla leader. Already devoted to the secret army hidden in the hills, Jamies Daley vows revenge on the informer who caused his father's capture.

And Jamie Daley becomes the fightingest Irishman in all of County Waterford, Ireland.

A war story and a mystery with a love interest, the book is woven around the intrigues and atrocities of an early chapter in this century's Irish war of independence.

Jamie and Jerry Noonan sacrifice their late teen years in the struggle for independence as they work and fight for the outlawed Irish army. They become men too soon as they fight the English in hit-run fashion.

They have no real time for the love they share for their Margaret, nor for their families nor friends. Ireland comes first, above all else.

All and all, "Gone the Rainbow, Gone the Dove" is an engrossing novel of a little known piece of history.

MEN WHO WORK WITH LANGUAGE

WORDS AND THEIR MASTERS by Israel Shenker; Doubleday, 368 pages, $12.50. Reviewed by Don Keown.

It is ironic that television and the print media that relay a mass of verbiage from the mouths of motion picture and television stars, sports celebrities and assorted oddballs, who have virtually nothing of importance to impart to us, ignore almost totally one of the rare founts of true wisdom.

We speak of the literary giants. Not the fly-by-nights who have come up with a gimmicky idea or experienced some grand adventure or the hacks who have struck upon a formula and built from it a book. But the masters of language — the serious novelists, the great biographers, the philosophers.

Along with this ability to craft language with style and artistry there seems to run an accompanying bent for a better understanding of life and the human condition that is awarded to most of us.

Yet, except when a Solzenytsin crashes the headlines with a political and moral stand, or a Mailer or Vidal bursts into the media through sheer flamboyance, these figures generally are neglected, their special powers of intuition and reason untapped.

Generally, we say, because there are exceptions. One remembers the old "Wisdom" television series fondly, when the likes of Sean O'Casey and Pearl Buck were visited and quietly conversed with, along with Pablo Casals, Frank Lloyd Wright, et al.

Another such exception is the work of Israel Shenker, a New York Times reporter who has made something of a specialty of interviewing the literary stylists.

Shenker, in fact, has two specialties — the interviews of the writers and other literary figures, and reports upon movements, institutions and works that also deal with language and its proper use.

"Words and Their Masters" is a handsomely printed compilation of Shenker's better pieces, and a discovered treasure for the reader who cares abour rhetoric and the craftsmen who work with it.

Interview subjects include the likes of Jorge Luis Borges, Mark Van Doren, Janet Flanner, John Cheever, Vladimir Nabokov, Gore Vidal, Eugene Ionescu, Issac Bashevis Singer, Saul Bellow, Bernard Malamud, Georges Simenon, Katherine Ann Porter, Lillian Hellman, Kurt Vonnegut and Noam Chomsky, among others.

Journalism is represented by the inimitable I.F. Stone, by three top cartoonists and by others.

And S. J. Perelman, obviously a Shenker favorite, appears, not once, but thrice.

For most of the "masters" interviewed, there are Jill Krementz photographs that are a treat in themselves.

Interspersed among the interviews are Shenker pieces on such related-to-literature subjects as the compilation of the Oxford English Dictionary, a work on "the English of England" as opposed to its adaptations in the "colonies," drum communication in the Congo, provergs, Yiddish, the American Heritage Dictionary, the stammer, trademarks, women's liberation and language, and jargon.

As "fillers" for his book, Shenker gives us small nuggets of wisdom and sometimes "unwisdom" from the pens and mouths of a diversity of literary names.

For this reader, the interviews were easily the best parts of a superb book. Shenker has the good sense not to intrude himself too much into the conversations, and yet the knack of encouraging his subjects to unwind and to unleash what are often times dazzlingly brilliant monologues. Usually the central topic is writing or something related to it — but not always. The subject matter is broad. And there are a few "duds." But for the most part the pieces come off splendidly. After all, the reader of the book has the advantage of the best "pickings" from Shenker's newspaper work.

The results are such slices of sagacity as these samples:

Saul Bellow: "I look to our Administration and see they're New England small tradesmen or military hardware buyers, and I find it sad that American society should be led by people of such negligible quality. They don't speak to our hearts and souls ever; they're ignorant, crafty, make petty imaginatively to the challenge of history."

Brigid Brophy: "I spent some of the autumn of 1968 in New York. . . I was delighted by its slow, old world pace and the insight it gave me into 19th Century industrial capitalism. Its physical ugliness, decrepitness and discomfort helped me understand the world of Joseph Chamberlain. But one cannot always be dilettanteing about, and now I must get on with modern living."

Groucho Marx: "I sympathize with the parents. . . Kids today are detestable, and thank God mine are grown up."

Katherine Anne Porter: "I was never afraid of growing old, and in fact I didn't think I was going to. . . At this point of life you do think. . . that things are very iffy. But I'm not afraid of life; death's the bore. . . But if you can live till 80, you can live till 81 without making a fuss about it."

John Cheever: "A woman I met explained that her fiction arrived in her mind impetuously, the way a bird sings. And I read a book of hers, which could have been written by a canary."

Isaac Bashevis Singer: "Publishers should be concerned with only one thing: publishing good books. If they can't get good fiction, let them publish science. It's not the duty of a publisher to print bad authors, or of people to read them. We are not enhancing literature by making people read empty books.

"If a book was boring, we used to throw it away. Now it is considered that a book must be boring to be good."

Best of Shenker's non-interview studies is his delightful piece on the Oxford English Dictionary and the Dickensian people who produce it. The dictionary, it develops, is prepared totally in handwriting. "The only person here who types is my secretary, and she works only in the morning," says Robert W. Burchfield, editor. Chimes in staff member Anthony J. Augarde: "Her typewriter is in poor repair, and there are evil noises coming from it."

Most of the pieces in the book, Shenker tells us in his foreword, were written for the New York Times during the past five years, but some date back 25 years and to his tenure with Time Magazine. He has edited them to eliminate now dated references. But it would have been better, perhaps, if he had left them as they were, and told us the year of the interview. As it is, there is some confusion as to what point in time his subjects are speaking.

But that is a very small quibble about a most estimable work.

SLEUTHS & SUSPENSE

YOU WON'T LET ME FINNISH by Joan Fleming; Putnam's, 183 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Mary Craig.

"In southern Finland the midnight sun is dazzling, ghostly and of unearthly delicacy." On such a night the South American ambassador, Joris Toda, finds an amnesiac Englishman in extremis on the Helsinki Embassy's front steps.

The identification of Hector Irlam fails to explain why he was beaten and his ear sliced off, or the source of the fortune in his portfolio.

But those who do know of the money are various and determined. Dolly Darling, the apple of her New Hampshire daddy's eye, flees from the knife-wielding Lapp who wants that money back. Gravy-stained Uncle Vanya drags his somnolent nephew through the labyrinthine paths of city and harbor after anybody's money, any way.

But the star of this lively novel is the ambassador who, without missing an engagement on his diplomatic calendar, attempts to untangle the violent riddle with a motive that, like the Helsinki night, is "dazzling and of unearthly delicacy."

SARSEN PLACE by Gwendoline Butler; Coward, McCann and Geoghegan, 220 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

For the connoissour of Gothic suspense, this novel represents a feast. It has just about everything the genre could offer.

Begin with a colorful and intriguing setting — Victorian Oxford, when that city was as well known for its underworld as for its university. Add a varied and fascinating cast, everyone from prostitutes to governess, from chestnut vender to gentleman-dandy. Top off with an involved but acceptable plot in which everything from art to drugs to kidnaping to women's rights plays a part. And you have the kind of story that English critics have already praised as "splendidly wicked and suspenseful," as "full of tiny delights" and "terrifying."

One big plus is that our heroine, Mary Lamont, is far more sensible and spunkier than many of the clinging vines of foolish maids one encounters in the genre. When she discovers that her small charge, Alice, for whom she is the governess in the luxurious Sarsen Place mansion, has good reason for her fits of terror, she meets the menace head-on with determination and courage.

Her efforts take her into strange places and bring her into contact with the kind of people, some good, some bad, some mysteriously both or neither, that are dear to the hearts of Gothic fans. So well-done is "Sarsen Place" that one senses a distinct Dickensian flavor in its pages.

The Scots Pay Tribute To Their Hero

1974 is a great year for Scotland. It's the 700th anniversary of King Robert the Bruce.

Scotland's greatest hero was born on July 11, 1274. A warrior king who freed the land from English domination, he will be remembered and idolized in colorful festivities all over the country.

The first pageant is planned at Stirling in the valley of the River Forth June 27. Here Bruce won the famous Battle of Bannockburn in 1314. He routed an English army of 20,000 with only 6,000 Scots fighters.

Today the field of Bannockburn is marked by a tall flagstaff and a simple cairn where Bruce planted his standard in the "Borestone."

A RECENTLY completed audio-visual exhibition gives visitors a dramatic description of each phase of the battle. A great statue of the hero, on horseback, stands above the battlefield. American contributions helped in the casting years ago.

The year 1974 is the 660th anniversary of that battle of June 24, 1314. Overconfidence produced only disaster for Edward II, indecisive son of the formidable Edward I.

He came to the Burn of Bannock certain that his knights and heavy cavalry would make mince-meat of the poorly armed Scots.

But that day the English cavalry fell into prepared spiked pits, camouflaged with turf. The Scottish spearmen were deadly. Late in the afternoon a group of Scottish "small folk" came into view on the hill west of the battle, and the English, thinking they were reinforcements, fled in a rout.

STIRLING IS dominated by its impressive castle, perched on a 250-foot rock. It is nearly equal distance from Glasgow and Edinburgh.

The post office is issuing a special stamp for Bruce this year. Appropriately, 1974 is also the centenary of another great freedom fighter, Sir Winston Churchill.

The actual birthplace of Bruce has long been hotly disputed. The honor is claimed both by Lochmaben in Dumfrieshire — and by Turnberry on the Ayrshire coast.

Hunted to Ireland, Bruce returned to Scotland by storming Brodick Castle on the hilly western Isle of Arran. There took place the famous story of his gaining inspiration from watching a spider's repeated efforts to spin a web. Then he sailed east across the Firth of Clyde to land at Turnberry. Supporters met him, led by James Douglas, a darling of Scottish history.

THE RUINS OF Turnberry Castle are still there. So is a great hotel by the same name with its golf course.

Glen Trool Forest Park in nearby Galloway makes a wild and imposing setting for the Bruce Stone. This commemmorates Bruce's unexpected victory over a strong English force. A few miles north is Loch Doon Castle near Dalmellington, which for three years successfully repelled an English siege while Bruce gathered allies from the clans throughout Scotland.

At Dumfries on the Nith River, a plaque on Castle Street marks another turning point in Bruce's career. Here in 1306 he stabbed his arch rival, John the Red Comyn, during a quarrel before the altar of the Grayfriars Monastery. A few days later Bruce raised the royal standard and claimed the throne of Scotland.

King Robert lived to see the independence of Scotland ratified by the English Parliament and in 1329 died of leprosy in the little village of Cardross near Dumbarton, surrounded by his young second wife, "his lion," his falcon, and his fool."

BRUCE'S LAST command to his old companion, Sir James Douglas, was to carry his heart to the Holy Land.

Douglas died in Spain and the king's heart was returned and buried in Melrose Abbey, in the border country near Sir Walter Scott's Abbotsford. The heart lies buried under the finely carved east window. The king's body lies in Dunfermline Abbey by the Firth of Forth.

In 1818, when this Norman Abbey was being restored, workmen found a vault containing a massive stone coffin. Inside was the skeleton of Bruce, breastbone sawed away so that Douglas could remove the king's heart.

In Loch Lomond's Inch Lonaig, or "yew island", still grow the yew trees for the bows used by Bruce's archers.

THE ROBERT THE BRUCE statue at Bannockburn Battlefield near Stirling and Edinburgh will be a pilgrimage site this year — the 700th anniversary of Scotland's hero king. The statue was cast in 1960 by Edinburgh sculptor C. Pilkington Jackson. Much of the cast of the casting was contributed by American Scots.

STIRLING CASTLE HAS been overlooking Bannockburn Battlefield for more than 700 years, and it has stories to tell this year of the 700th anniversary of the birth of Robert the Bruce. When Edward I's English army was defeated by Bruce at Bannockburn, it was making for Stirling Castle to relieve an English commander besieged there.

Trans-Pacific Passenger Conference reports there are 128 sailings with 42,000 berths available this summer for those who want to cruise to Alaska, easily topping last year's 100 sailings, and with the 1974 cruises beginning in late May.

TREASURE ISLE OFF CANADA

More than two million dollars have been spent over the years in search for treasure believed to have been buried on Oak Island by Captain Kidd.

The 145-acre island, located 45 miles southwest of Halifax, Novo Scotia, was flooded with tourists during the summer who watched explorers attempt to find the loot.

Pago Pago Retains The Color That Charmed The Visiting Maugham

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa — Somerset Maugham made this exotic Polynesian port famous with his story of Sadie Thompson's seduction of Mr. Davidson, the fire and brimstone missionary who wanted to save her soul.

Was there a real Sadie Thompson?

A freighter's 1916 manifest reveals that a Miss Sadie Thompson did indeed sail to Pago Pago (pronounced Pango-Pango). Also aboard was a Mr. Somerset Maugham, who described his first glimpse of this narrow 25-mile long volcanic island with:

"THERE WAS A thin strip of silver beach rising quickly to hills covered to the top with luxuriant vegetation. The coconut trees, thick and green, came nearly to the water's edge and among them you saw the grass huts of the Samoans, and here and there, gleaming white, a little church.

"There came a crowd of eager, noisy, good humored natives . . . to bargain with the travelers . . . they brought pineapples, huge bunches of bananas, tapa cloths, necklaces of shells and sharks teeth, kava bowls and models of war canoes."

Pago Pago has not changed a great deal since Maugham first visited here.

MEN WEAR THE skirted lava-lavas without self consciousness. Trader Horn's hotel, the two-story building with a store on the ground floor and rental rooms above, is about the same as when Sadie stayed there. Today it's Max Heleck's Store Number 3, but there are no rooms for rent.

The place to stay today is the harborside Hotel Inter-Continental in the shadow of Mt. Pioa — the Rainmaker, a handsome complex of main buildings and cottages modeled after the thatched roof fales of a Samoan village. It offers all the amenities — air conditioning, sandy beach, free style swimming pool, tennis, horseback riding, dancing under the stars.

WHILE THE islanders have adopted some modern modes, they all cling to many of the old ways. Women still wear the colorful two-piece puletasis, and continue to "bargain with the travelers" as Maugham described. But their wares now are displayed and sold at the new covered market on the malae, a sort of village green.

Farther down the road is the handicraft village, a cluster of fales where Samoan artisans can be seen whittling toy outrigger canoes ($3), stringing shell necklaces ($1), weaving straw bags and baskets ($4).

To see the real Samoa you should go out on the island where there is a heady scent of white ginger and scenes of women pounding their wash clean on the rocky shore, cooking pulusami over hot stones and children singing a siren song to attract the legendary giant shark and turtle.

TAXIS ARE inexpensive and the best way to explore the countryside.

But not to be missed is a ride on the vintage buses painted in combinations of violent red, yellow, green, blue. A bus trip to the end of the road on the eastern side of the island and back to town takes about two hours and costs $1.

If you also want to explore the northern shore, take the government operated air-conditioned boat which leaves the dock by the Customs Building at 9 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and returns in the mid-afternoon.

Special arrangements can be made at the hotel desk or with local sightseeing companies for deepsea fishing and scuba diving trips, sea-plane sightseeing flights around the island and tours to Western Samoa — an independent state consisting of two main and many small islands.

EDUCATIONAL TV has come to the island, and children in remote villages learn their lessons via the video screen. The aerial tramway which was built as a means of transporting workers and television equipment to the transmitter atop Mt. Alava also offers sightseeing rides to tourists.

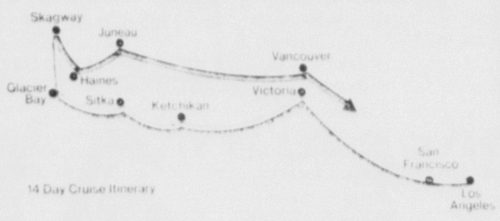

The glassed-in gondola makes the more than mile-long ascent in six minutes ($1.50 round trip), and the view from the summit is seemingly forever. Turquoise bays scallop the shoreline of lush volcanic peaks; in the distance the islands of Western Samoa rise out of the sea; below fishing boats sail into port with catches of tuna for the canneries; distant villages can be seen tucked into the hills.

And when a cruise ship sails out of port, the gondola halts over it and passengers help release a shower of flowers over its decks as an "aloha."

AMERICAN SAMOA is a group of seven islands which lie about halfway between Hawaii and Australia. It is an unincorporated territory of the United States. Pago Pago is on Tutuila, the largest of the islands, and is served by American Airlines jets from Honolulu.

It is one of three places in the world U.S. travelers can bring back $200 worth of duty-free merchandise. The other two are the American Virgin Islands and Guam.

Here too you are permitted to purchase one gallon of duty-free spirits.

Good Workbench Will Help Organize Your Handy Work Around The House

Before tackling a home remodeling project, one sure way to make this and other handyman jobs easier is to build a sturdy workbench in the basement or along a garage wall.

Choosing the best location is the first step, and for fullest use it's important to design the bench so it can handle material up to 10 feet long, with at least one end open for moving work around.

Even in limited space, a workbench provides central storage for tools and supplies, as well as a solid work area that's always ready for use, avoiding a runaround to get a project under way.

A STURDY WORKBENCH is a valuable addition to the basement or garage. This one has legs of four-by-four-inch fir or larch posts and two-by-four stringers that support a work surface of three two-by-six or two-by-eight planks. Wall cabinets and pegboard hold tools and supplies.

BUILDING A workbench begins with a sturdy framework of four-by-four-inch posts of western wood for legs, linked with fir or pine two-by-fours. These posts and stringers may be nailed together, but lag screws or bolts will give more rigidity.

The work surface of the bench is made of three two-by-six or two-by-eight-inch planks, depending on space available. A one-by-eight-inch board facing along front and sides gives the bench a neater appearance.

A narrow shelf added along the wall at the back of the bench holds jars of bolts, screws and other odds and ends. A plug strip under the shelf makes it easy to use electric hand tools the length of the bench.

TWO WALL-HUNG cabinets at the ends of the bench hold paint, sandpaper and other supplies. If the bench is in the garage, these cabinets can be fitted with locks for storage of expensive tools.

Pegboard mounted on the wall on one-by-two-inch furring strips provides a versatile rack for hanging tools. Keeping the bench uncluttered and the tools in sight. Good lighting should be installed over the work area.

A shelf added near the floor at the bottom of the work-bench, on stringers of two-by-fours, provides storage for lengths of lumber and boards.

Practice Safety In Your Workshop By Taking These Simple Precautions

Do-it-yourself workshops are more popular than ever due to the rising costs of home improvements and home furnishings.

Do-it-yourselfers should realize that the workshop is probably the most hazardous area in the home, so take special care when working there. For your protection, Underwriters Laboratories Inc., an independent, not-for-profit organization testing for public safety, suggests you keep the following safety rules in mind when working in your home workshop.

Never wear jewelry or loose clothing while working.

Keep the work area clean, and never work in a cluttered area.

Never allow children near the work area.

Never leave tools lying around when not in use.

Wear safety glasses when required.

Use a vice, not your hands, to hold an item on which you are working.

Store combustible fluids in a cool, well ventilated area. Also, avoid accumulating greasy waste materials, rags, newspapers, and other refuse which could serve as an ignition source for fire.

For additional protection against fire, keep a fully charged UL-listed fire extinguisher in the work area. A multi-purpose dry chemical extinguisher offers the best all purpose protection.

Keep the safety guards in place. They are installed for your protection.

Keep your hands away from moving saw blades, drill bits, router cutters, and other moving parts. Use a stick to push work pieces the last few inches past the blades of a bench or overhead saw.

If the power cord of an electric tool is equipped with a three-prong plug, use a three-hole receptacle. If a two-hole receptacle is all that is available, use an adapter, and attach the adapter wire to the screw in the faceplate of the receptacle.

Look for the UL-Label on an electrically operated tool. The design of such equipment has been tested, and found to meet recognized safety standards.

THE MAKING OF A SEWING CENTER

FOR THE PRACTICAL GAL, not diamonds, but a sewing machine is her best friend. With its help she can turn out clothing for herself and items for the home that help to trim the cost of living. And, since the man of the house will benefit directly from her thrift, he should be more than happy to make his contribution. He can do so by crafting for his little seamstress the three pieces of furniture being shown above by actress Elizabeth Baur — a large cabinet to hold the portable sewing machine and such supplies as scissors, patterns and fabrics; a smaller fold-out cabinet that opens on both sides and stores additional sewing materials, and the small, comfortable chair. All are made from the same plywood, light or dark. And all are built from Steve Ellingson patterns. For your patterns write Steve Ellingson, Independent-Journal pattern department, Post Office Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif., 91409, enclosing $1 for Pattern 272, the portable sewing machine cabinet; another $1 for Pattern 253, the folding sewing cabinet, and 50 cents for Pattern 347, the princess chair. The patterns come full-size, so that all you need to od is trace them onto wood, saw them out and assemble. The larger cabinet, incidentally, makes a dandy writing desk.

When You Remodel Your House, Beware Of The Fly-By-Night Operator

By ANDY LANG

The remodeling of old houses moves along at an increasing pace while the construction of new houses slows down.

It is not the first time that these two businesses have run contrary to each other. Many families contemplating the purchases of new houses have decided, because of various negative economic factors, to remodel instead.

Fortunate indeed is the family that can undertake most or all of the remodeling itself, labor costs being what they are.

BUT WHAT OF the family that has neither the skills nor the time to make the necessary changes around the house? Is it really possible to hire a reputable contractor who will turn out a good job and not charge what he thinks he can get rather than what will enable him to make a reasonable profit?

Yes, you have a good chance of making a satisfactory arrangement if you remember the cautions that have been repeated and repeated about the selection of a contractor.

It would seem unnecessary to remind home owners not to do business with fly-by-night operators or marginal contractors, considering how many millions of words have been said and written about the subject. Yet year after year, without fail, thousands of people are "taken" in their dealings with remodeling contractors.

Since the majority of contractors are reputable and want to satisfy you so that their business can expand by word-of-mouth, what causes the seeming gullibility of so many home owners?

THE ANSWER IS "price." The public is in so great a rush to get a bargain — rightfully so, in most cases — that it can't wait to make a deal with a contractor whose price is a lot lower than others. And that's one of the keys to the whole situation.

If you get estimates, let us say, from three contractors, which you should do, and two of them quote $2,000 for the job, while the third makes a bid of $600 — beware!

Maybe, just maybe, he is perfectly honest and has found some way of doing a good job at less than half the price of other contractors. But the chances are that he will be cutting so many corners that you will wind up with inferior materials and inferior workmanship.

It's the old story that law enforcement agencies know so well. Most persons who are swindled were trying to get something for nothing or almost so.

IF SOMEBODY tried to sell you a mink coat for $50 or a new car for $500, you'd suspect that all wasn't well. Yet thousands of persons buy such things all the time and then find they bought coats that weren't worth $25 and autos that weren't worth $200.

If you find you have been cheated, head for the Better Business Bureau, or a law enforcement agency. But it is far preferable not to get swindled in the first place.

To get a reliable contractor, remember the yardsticks — someone in business in the neighborhood for some time, someone who has a place of business and not just a phone number or a post office box, someone who can give a bank for a reference, someone whose customers can tell you how satisfied they were, and someone known to you through regular newspaper advertising.

Home handymen will find Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," of invaluable assistance around the house. To get a copy, send $1 to Andy Lang at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J., 07666.

About Carpets

by Doug Emerson

CARPET TERMS are second nature to us, so it's natural for us to talk about Olefin fibers, about cut pile and backing and broadloom, shags and plushes, without giving a second's thought to the meaning of what we're saying, since these terms are as familiar to us as a carpenter's tools are to him.

But they may be a mystery to many of you, so let's look at a few of them. You've all heard the term broadloom, for instance, but how many know that this doesn't mean a type of yarn or fabric, but any carpet woven or tufted on a broad or wide loom, at least six feet wide, and often twelve or fifteen feet wide?

Fibers are the basic "thread" of the carpet yarn, many fibers being combined to make a single yarn. These fibers may be natural, like wool, or man-made, such as the popular nylons, polyesters and acrylics.

Pile simply refers to the exposed or top surface of the fibers. When these are cut, the result is a cut pile, or plush. When looped, they create a loop pile. These can be combined in sculptured effects. Shags are loosely tufted long pile carpets, the pile being an inch or inch-and-a-half long, or longer.

But words tell only part of the carpet story. Seeing for yourself is convincing when you look over our great collection. If words fail you, the carpets won't. And you can buy on convenient "terms." Come in . . . to your carpet headquarters!

HERE'S YOUR ANSWER

By ANDY LANG

Q. — I need a new roof on my house and the roofer is trying to sell me on the idea of getting what he calls "heavyweight" shingles. Could you tell me how they differ from the regular shingles and what advantages they offer?

A. — Heavyweight asphalt shingles range from 290 pounds to 380 pounds per square or 100 square feet or roof area, whereas the regular shingles are rated at about 240 pounds. Heavyweight shingles have a three-dimensional effect with wood grain texture and extra deep shadow lines. They are approved by Underwriters' Laboratories. Some have a fiberglass-based mat and are rated class A in fire resistance, the highest rating given by UL. Standard shingles are excellent for most roofs. Heavyweights are designed to last up to 25 years, about 10 years longer than the standards. Therefore, in deciding whether you want them, compare the prices and then divide them by their life expectancy. This will give you the approximate cost per year.

Q. — What's all this staff about one-coat exterior paints! I painted my house about a year ago with a well-advertised one-coat paint. The surface was wood shingles that had never been painted or stained. The shingles were in good condition. Now, the wood part is starting to show through in several places. How can they advertise one-coat paint when one coat isn't enough?

A. — Your mistake was in assuming that a previously unpainted surface is the same as one with a paint already on it. Uncoated wood soaks up the first coat. If you still have one of the cans of the paint you used, look at the label and see if it doesn't recommend two coats for unpainted wood.

Entirely aside from that, there are other factors involved in the success of a so-called one-coat paint. One is that an oil paint of good quality generally covers better than a latex coat. Another is that a professional painter knows the exact technique of covering with a single coat. It involves getting on enough paint to cover sufficiently and yet not putting on so much paint that it later will wrinkle. And still another, although it doesn't apply in your case, is the condition and color of the previous coat. It's easier to cover in one coat if the old paint still adheres solidly, isn't soiled too much and is the same or lighter in color than the new paint.

Q. — I want to put loose fill insulation in one of the walls of our house. How can I tell where the pieces of horizontal wood are that fit between the studs?

A. — You've given yourself a real job. Usually it is best done by professionals. Since you seem committed to the task, the way to determine whether there are any obstructions between the studs is to drop a plumb line into each hole made as high as possible on the outside wall. You'll hear a clunking sound and won't be able to drop the line any farther when the bob hits something solid.

A Sunny Haven For Family Is Place For All

With changing life styles and exterior pressures adversely affecting the family as the model living unit, it becomes more important to have an area in the home where the family can gather and relax together.

More working mothers, moonlighting fathers, added extra-curricular activities, and children moving out on their own earlier make the few hours a family spends together each day or week more vital.

MOST HOUSES of recent vintage have a family room, although in many cases this may be just an extension of the kitchen and dominated by a table for breakfast and lunch.

One family that wanted more space for activities and entertaining in the dining, kitchen and family room end of their house built a 14-by-18-foot addition opening off the kitchen and small family room.

A sense of space greater than its 250 square feet was created in the room with a window wall along one end and strip skylights the length of two walls.

LONG CUSHIONED benches built in along the two walls under the skylights provide ample room to stretch out for reading or extra seating for guests, and utilize the floor space more efficiently than furniture would.

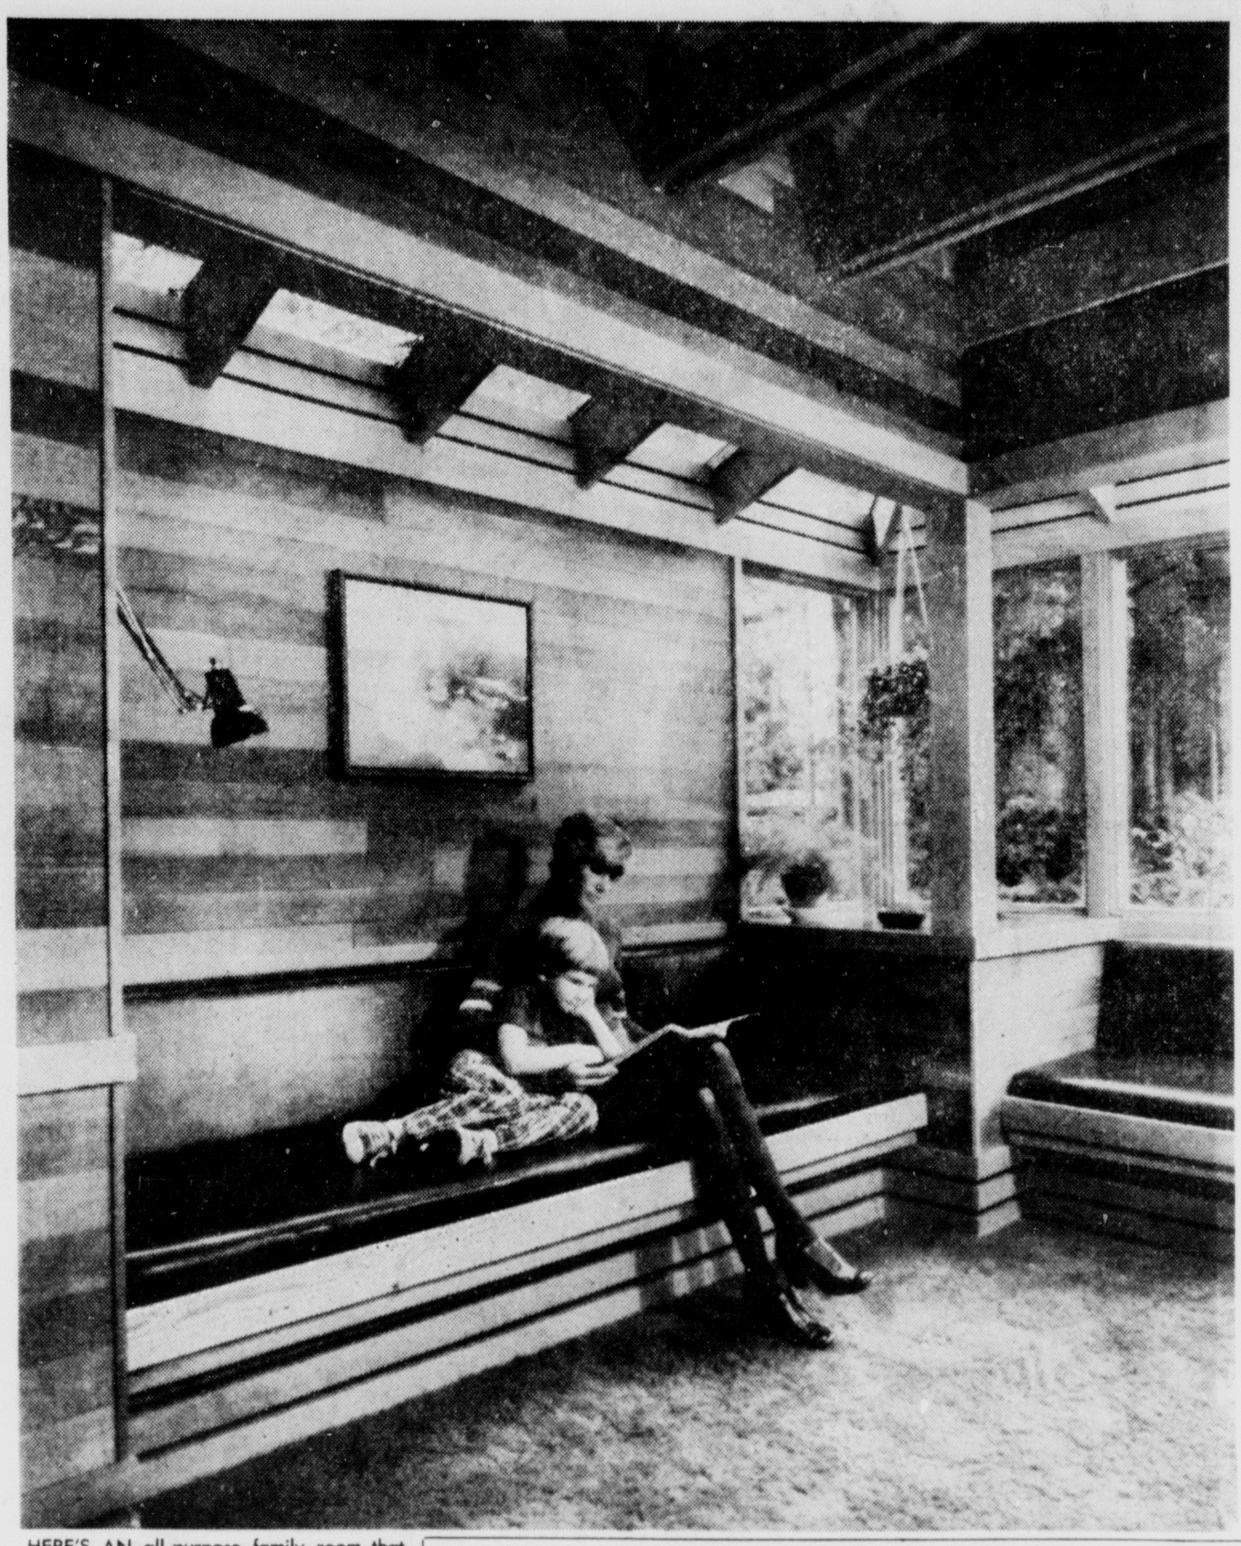

The third wall is devoted to storage, with bookshelves and space for a television set, stereo and records. Cabinets keep craft projects and boxes of games close at hand, yet out of sight.

The benches and storage wall add to the openness of the room, allowing floor space for setting up extra tables for dinner parties and other uses, or for the family to sprawl out for games and crafts.

ADDING A WARM feeling to the room are walls of one-by-four inch western wood paneling, extending up to the shed-roof ceiling. Paired two-by-12-inch Douglas fir beams lend strong design interest.

The result is a family room that is just that in more than name — a place where everyone can get together and share experiences, conversation and hobbies.

Today, too many family rooms are seldom used for the purpose the name would indicate. Indeed, quite often they are not used at all. And what a tragic waste of valuable space!

HERE'S AN all-purpose family room that invites all members of the clan to get together, to relax and to enjoy each other's company.

How To Give The Mattress A Longer Life

The lifetime of a good mattress is about 10 years if you give it the right care, advises the Spring Air Mattress Co. of Chicago.

Here are some tips from the company on how to treat a mattress so that it will give longer and more satisfactory service:

1. During the first six months, turn the mattress over, end for end and side for side, once a month. After that, turning the mattress once or twice a year is sufficient. (If you need to turn a mattress more frequently, to overcome hollow spots and lumps, the mattress is worn out and should be replaced.

2. Always use a pad on the mattress and, if you wish, removable mattress and box spring covers. These help protect the bedding from dust, dirt, and soil, The mattress pad, however, serves another even more important purpose by absorbing the half-pint of moisture a human body produces during a night's sleep.

3. Launder the mattress pad and covers once a month. At the same time, open the windows and air your mattress for an hour or so before you remake the bed.

4. Go over the mattress surface once a month with the upholstery attachment of your vacuum cleaner to remove surface soil and help fluff the mattress "innards." Box springs should be cleaned now and then, too.

5. To clean slightly soiled mattress ticking, use only suds from a rich solution of mild soap or detergent and lukewarm water. Be careful not to get the mattress wet. Rinse with a sponge wrung out of clear water. Let one side dry thoroughly before covering or turning.

There's Right Way To Use Screwdriver

By GEORGE MONTGOMERY

There are three things that can happen when you use the wrong screwdriver for the job at hand or fail to use the right screwdriver properly.

1. The surface of the wood will be marred.

2. The head of the screw will be damaged.

3. Your hand will be injured.

While any of the occurrences may be due to lack of skill in handling the screwdriver, it is more likely that the size of the screwdriver tip is the villain.

The tip should fit snugly into the slot of the screw. If it is wider than the slot, the work surface will be scarred as the head of the screw reaches the surface. If the tip is narrower than the slot, it will slip out of the slot abruptly as you turn the handle. Do this two or three times and the head of the screw will become chewed up, making it impossible to drive the screw any farther.

Even worse, the tip may dig into the wood. And even worse than that, the tip may gouge out a piece of your hand.

Once you have selected the right-size screwdriver you must use it properly to avoid any of the troubles I have mentioned.

Hold the handle in he palm of your right hand (or left, if you are left-handed). Your thumb and forefinger should point downwards. Place the tip of the blade in the screw slot and steady it with your left hand. Turn the handle slowly until the screw is firmly imbedded in the wood. You can then remove the left hand or keep it there if necessary to support the blade while you are renewing your grip on the handle for new turns.

All this while, you should be checking to be sure the screwdriver is perfectly vertical or horizontal as the case may be.

When driving a screw into softwood I usually make a starting hole with an awl. When driving into hardwood I make a starting hole with a drill bit. If the wood is especially hard, I drill the hole in the depth of the screw's shank, making sure it is slightly smaller in diameter than the screw.

INSIDE YOUR HOME: Kitchen Floor

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

The way we read the message for the next two years of home furnishings ideas is: "Revisit Old America."

Hardly anything will escape the influence of the 200th anniversary celebration — furniture, fabrics, floor coverings and so forth.

Actually, this can be a period of learning for all of us. If we learn one thing — that American design doesn't begin and end with clunky, fake colonial period furnishings — we will have then accomplished something of value. I suspect when the old clunk gets lined up alongside some of the fine reproductions of American originals, it will self-destruct in five minutes!

THE FLOOR covering shown here in no way repeats a rug concept from yesterday. Delightful braided rugs and imported Orientals were used by our settling American and Canadian forebears.

However, stitchery of all kinds was created to commemorate a special occasion or decorate the walls.

The young female child was quickly indoctrinated in the multifaceted arts of the needle.

Many a fine sampler of stitchery came from the teaching sessions between mothers and daughters. Some were examples of poetry in thread, others documented the flowers and decorative motifs of the period. They all seem to tell a story or deliver a message about the stitch artist's life.

HOMES PAGE

So, what better way to keep our floor-sitting generation interested? "Why not a sampler for the 20th-Century floor?" asked the makers of Viking carpet. Naturally, they answered with an affirmative "Right! Why not?"

CONSEQUENTLY, they created some striking and charming printed carpeting from Allied Chemical's Anso nylon fiber, engineered it for hard wear and backed it with foam for cushiony comfort. They tucked in some timeless motifs, including flowers, an air balloon, a schooner, geese, windmill and some pastoral scenes.

It is fun to identify the various sections. I think there's even a purry cat in there somewhere.

Available in four color ways, it will retail for about $7.50 a square yard and has a surprising five-year surface wear guarantee — thanks to its Anso nylon fiber content.

That's a new kind of Americana!

HERE IN THIS kitchen floor covering is a delightful blending of early Americana with the Viking culture. Some of the sampler motifs of our early stitchery experts has been translated into patterns with a definite Norse look. The carpet yardage is made of the long-wearing Anso fiber, and carries a five-year surface guarantee.

Make Mantel Focal Point Of Artwork

Wood mantels can provide a distinctive focal point for a room where favorite objects are sure to be noticed. Because they are available in a variety of styles and in stock sizes, mantels are appropriate wall accents for any room decor.

An old print or family portrait and a Colonial, Federal, Georgian or Traditional wood mantel combine a mutual authenticity. The mantels are precision-detailed to duplicate the original designs. Depending on the period, details include moldings, beading, medallions and panels.

Provincial and contemporary style mantels fit well with modern decor. Painted in bold colors or stained to enhance the natural wood grain, these mantels can complement a Picasso, or a drawing your seven-year-old did at school.

Ponderosa pine mantels come ready to assemble and install. They're available at local lumber and building supply stores.

Give The Kids Place To Put Possessions

Acknowledging that youngsters like to surround themselves with a seemingly endless variety of collections or memorabilia may make it easier to accept the overburdened condition of their rooms, especially if an organizing hand is lent.

One wall with built-in study area and shelves and another wall covered with burlap for tacking up pictures and posters is a start. The study-storage wall is built in a series of bays 36 inches wide and 20 inches deep, the number depending on width of the room.

They may be built as modules or built in with common walls of edge-glued boards or plywood between bays. One bay has a fixed, full-depth shelf at desk height, plus two book shelves above of one-by-12-inch western pine boards.

An adjoining bay has adjustable shelving. A lower, full-depth shelf is for record player, radio or small television set. Upper shelves are one-by-six-inch pine or fir for paperback books and one-by-10-inch boards for collectibles or odds and ends.

WEE LEPRECHAUN

One would never know,
If there be Any smaller —
Only an Irishman
Would know;
But 'tis there
Where the personality
Is like
A sparkling diamond,
And the shamrock
Covered with Four-leaf clovers,
And the place
Fragrant
Like the rose!

WE FEAR THE LIVING

We fear the living more than we do
The dying and those already dead;
And avoid those who are greedy and
Too demanding, who are constantly
Attempting to re-define our lives to Suit their own selfish purpose.

Since life is not a chartered trip,
Each must find his own way that
Is least painful in this world of Increasing wars, crime and violence
Against each other, indifferent
That in doing so mankind will Culminate in mass destruction.

ON THE STEREO SCENE

Four Channel Audio Definitely The Thing

By JOHN SUNIER

If you have even glanced at any of the audio advertising lately, you probably know that four-channel reproduction is The Latest Thing.

A storm of confusion surrounds the new "surround stereo" systems. In the broadcast area, no true four-channel system has been approved by the FCC as yet. In the disc format, many competing systems — SQ, QS, Regular Matrix, EV-4 and Discrete — are fighting it out for top position, making the purchase of equipment and recordings somewhat hazardous for all but experimentally-minded listeners.

However, the reel-to-reel Quadraphonic (or Quadrasonic) system of recording four separate and distinct tracks, all going the same direction, on standard audio tape, is a settled matter. It offers all the advantages of tape plus freedom from special decoders or losses of separation most of the other systems entail in trying to get four channels of information on one record groove.

One thing it does require (besides a second stereo amplifier and two more speakers) is a reel tape machine capable of playing back four stacked quarter tracks at the same time. Such units are now available for little more than a good two-channel recorder, and can be used for ordinary two-channel recording and playback without any problems.

So it is on reel-to-reel tape that the best quad sound is presently available. With the four separate simultaneous channels of sound, entirely new effects are possible. These range from the faithful recreation of the actual acoustical environment of a concert hall to wild new effects of special quad arrangements. A whole new area is opening up for imaginative arrangers of pop music.

With concert music, such special effects are not an accurate re-creation of the concert hall in one's living room. Here the rear channels are usually limited to giving a perspective of actually being in the concert hall by reproducing the sounds that reflect off the ceiling and rear walls, the "ambiance" in more technical terms. However, Columbia has been carrying out recording sessions for such selections as "The Rite of Spring" in which the orchestra is practically divided into four quarters and separated as far apart as a huge studio will allow.

Here is a sampling of a variety of musical forms available on four-channel reel tape:

SURROUND STEREO SAMPLER — Vanguard/Ampex VAN J 11: This is the sampler tape that has regaled many in audio show demonstrations and at hi-fi dealers as well. My copy has no notes or even proper identification of the six selections, but fortunately I know the music from the various two-channel releases.

After a test for speaker balancing, there are three rather amazing classical selections. The first is from a Handel oratorio, "Jephtha," and surrounds the listener in the massive choral sounds. Next is the portion in the famous Berlioz' "Requiem" where the four brass choirs placed in the four corners of the concert hall blast out their musical version of the Last Judgment. Now here is music really written for quadraphonic! It's enough to raise the hairs on the back of the neck. The spatial placement is very genuine and certainly does add to the drama of the piece. I can't wait to hear the entire work, which is also available. The performance is by Maurice Abravanel and the Utah Symphony — not quite in the same class as Bernstein and Colin Davis, but very exciting nonetheless.

The third classical excerpt is from Mahler's Third Symphony, again with the Utah group. Here liberties have been taken in the mixing to put the various voices, children's choirs and choruses all around the listener. It works beautifully.

Joan Baez and Buffy St.-Marie each have a selection on this quad tape. Ever wanted to be inside Joan Baez's head? You can do it here. The Buffy piece is a strange one, with all sorts of reverberation and tricks that I'm sure the two-channel version doesn't have.

Final is a show-off thing for the Moog by J. J. Perrey which is terrible music but good quad demonstration.

4 CHANNEL DYNAMITE — Enoch Light and his Orchestra — Ampex/Project 3 PRJJ-15068: This "demo" tape, while it has some very swinging numbers and terrific sound, remains in the same category as the "Persuasive Percussion" LPs of some years ago. Which is to say it's gimmicky. For example, a trombone will be at the left rear loudspeaker, a piano at the right rear and a drum at the right front. And never the twain shall meet. It is often as though the band was divided into four parts and each was sent to an entirely separate studio.

This is four-channel mono rather than four-channel stereo.

Still, since subtlety is lost on many people, especially in just a quick listen to a system, perhaps one would want to have this tape around just to prove to sceptics that there really are four discrete channels of sound operating. Among the tunes the Enoch Light group surveys in this tape are "Jambalaya," "Chicago," "I Feel the Earth Move," and "Oye Como Va." Ten tracks in all.

RANDY NEWMAN'S "Sail Away" — Stereotape/Reprise RSTQ 2064-QF: Now here is one of the finest pop albums of the past couple years, produced for quad with great sensitivity and taste and it comes across as a delightful experience. Newman is a fantastic talent, and nobody sings his own distinctive songs better than himself. His arrangements are lovely on the title tune and "Last Night I Had a Dream," as well as the nostalgic "Dayton Ohio - 1903." The sound is natural and surrounding, but not overdone. I would heartily recommend this album in any of the other formats if you are not equipped for quad as yet.

COLORS OF THE DAY — "The Best of Judy Collins" — Stereotape/Elektra ESTQ 5030-QF: This is one collection of "best of" that really is just that. Savor "Someday Soon," "Both Sides Now," "Suzanne," "Sunny Goodge Street," "In My Life," and "Amazing Grace," they're all here. It's almost like discovering Judy Collins' and her fine voice all over again. The arrangements are delicately mixed to the quad display opportunities. The feeling aurally is something like you're sitting in with Judy and her group, rather than way out there in the audience. Simply a luscious album.

HIGHWAY ONE — The Mystic Moods Orchestra — Stereotape/Warner Bros. WSTQ 2648-QF: Take Rod McKuen narrative sentiments, lush pop arrangements and nostalgic sound effects, package them all together in sensuous quadraphonic sound, and you have the Mystic Moods series of albums. If you dig this sort of thing, it's great. For myself, there are moments of great beauty and some astonishing audio effects, but the whole schmeer gets to be a bit much after a half hour. This time around there are even some quite lovely arrangements of Bach — from his "Toccata, Adagio and Fugue in C Major." The section with the far-off train whistle sounds is an "ear picture" that will have many of us nostalgic. The arranger and conductor is Don McGinnis.

PAUL HORN AND The Concert Ensemble — Ampex/Ovation OVT J-18293: The wide spectrum of flutist Paul Horn is demonstrated here in a rather different area from his beautiful "Inside" albums recorded in the reverberant Taj Mahal. His little octet is heavy on flutes, with Tim Weisberg playing one of them. There are both acoustic and electric guitars, electric and acoustic pianos and harpsichord.

The music is described as art music for contemporavy audiences. There are some of the finest arrangements (read "jazzing up" of classic themes I have heard — Debussy's "Golliwogg's Cake Walk," some Bach themes, and a movement of Castlenuovo-Tedesco's Guitar Concerto. There are also classical-type versions of pop hits such as "Alone Together," and "Light My Fire." This may sound crass to music lovers, but believe me, good taste is uppermost. With people like Oliver Nelson, Dick Schory and Horn himself involved in the arrangements, it's not going to be schlock. This is one of the best examples of what I like to call "wide music."

If you are part of the majority that hasn't gone quad tape yet, let me recommend the Ovation quad LP, which is compatible with standard two-channel stereo playback. I also had the LP, and A-B compared it with the discrete quad tape. (The LP was fed through an SQ-type decoder.) The two versions did sound different, with a more subtle rear channel effect on the disc, but by no means less exciting, especially if you don't have the tape to compare with it. The tape definitely has much more localized sound at the four speakers, with a flute actually coming from the left rear of the room rather than being just somewhere in the surrounding ambience of sound. I would be less than honest if I did not also point out that the LP has less noticeable tape hiss than the tape.

It will be a cold day in July before Dolby noise reduction processing is employed on four-channel tapes, because it would mean that unless the listener owned two separate Dolby units, the front channels would be hiss-free while the rear would still have it, sounded very out of balance with the front.

THE MOODY BLUES: "Days of Future Passed" with the London Festival Orchestra conducted by Peter Knight — Ampex/Deram/London DER J-17012. SEVENTH SOJOURN — Ampex/Threshold/London THS J-12407: The Moody Blues — now here is the sort of music that cries out for quad reproduction! The all-enveloping orchestral effects of this rock group, long popular with classical music listeners seemed to surround one before, when played on good stereo equipment. But now you are truly surrounded and caught up in the dynamic and seemingly limitless musical spaces created by their exceptional fusions of pop composition and classical writing.

One reason for the most successful transfer of the original tapes to the quad medium is that producer Tony Clarke was responsible for both of them. The original tapes — probably at least 16-tracks or more — wyre mixed down to four tracks by the Moody Blues' guiding figure who knew exactly what was intended. Clarke is surely as important to the Moody Blues' "sound" as George Martin was to the Beatles.

Oh yes, the music on the tapes: Well, these are the first and the latest Moody Blues albums and are significant milestones in their work. "Days of Future Passed" contains the hit "Nights in White Satin" and cocerns itself with a sound picture of a typical day in the life of a typical man. Some of the orchestral writing may now seem a trifle corny and Mantovani-ish, but the album on the whole is quite a singular experience. "Seventh Sojourn" alternates between heavy spacey stuff like "Lost in a Lost World" and lighter more standard rock fare like "I'm Just A Singer in a Rock and Roll Band." The lyrics are always interesting and committed to some very universal statements.

FROM ONE 'MUM TIP, BILLIONS OF NEW PLANTS

By EARL ARONSON

A single slice of the growing tip (meristem) is capable of producing as many as 900 billion chrysanthemum plants within a year, according to Cornell University researchers growing mum plants in the laboratory by culturing plant cells.

"The potential of this system's rate of plant production is really spectacular," says Prof. Robert W. Langhans, who has produced hundreds of mature plants, all identical to the parent plant.

The method is termed "meristem tissue culture."

THE FLORICULTURIST says the size of a meristem slice with thousands of embryonic cells is as small as a pinhead. These cells develop into small plants, about an inch tall, in three to four months. In two more months, these plants become six inches tall and ready for flower reproduction.

Thus far, the researchers have produced about 1,000 full-grown plants of three varieties. They are reported indistinguishable from ordinary plants.

The flowers and the time it takes for them to bloom also are normal.

The process of producing whole plants from meristem cells has been used successfully in the orchid industry but not for other flower crops.

"We now know this system works well on chrysanthemums, and the same principle should work for many other crops," Langhans said. It will be very useful if it works for crops that are difficult to propagate or have a seasonal production, one researcher related.

WORK IS UNDERWAY at Cornell and elsewhere now to set up procedures for carnations, gladiolus, geraniums and some foliage plants.

It may cut in half the two-year period now needed to make varieties available for the consumer under conventional rooting methods.

The process also saves greenhouse operation costs. Storage of plant material is eliminated since tissue culture material has been kept in the laboratory for more than three and one-half years. It can be put into production at any time.

The method also is disease free, the researchers told the American Society of Horticultural Science.

Lawns, Like Children, Thrive Upon Your Attention

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family News Editor

Lawns, as well as vegetable and flower gardens, are a little like children. They need pretty steady close attention if they are to thrive.

A lawn needs at the minimum to be weeded, fed and aerated in the spring — before cutting begins. Depending on local conditions, the recipe for the feed or nutrients varies. Consult with the neighbor who has a prize lawn. If he's close-mouthed, the county agricultural agent or those trusty types at the garden center or nursery will steer you along the road to a healthy lawn.

The anti-weed chemicals in with the feed usually do a job on such a pest as dandelion. Though it is almost mean to call dandelion a pest these days.

DANDELION, AS interest in natural foods soars, again becomes a food thing — for salads, for making wine.

To aerate the lawn, that is, give it some air down near the root system, you need special equipment. You can rent an aerator — a drum with spikes sticking out all around. You will drum with water and roll (pushing or pulling it) over lawn. Some make their own aerators by making a pounding platform pierced with huge spikes. This is a block of wood attached to a post handle. You pound it on the lawn, moving over entire lawn gradually, aerating as you go.

Jerry Baker, author of "Plants Are Like People" (Pocket Books), has a novel suggestion for aerating. Jog on the lawn in golf shoes!

SPRING IS A good time to seed balding patches. Just scratch soil with a rake's metal teeth, spread on seed, scratch again to mix soil with seed. Water.

Acidity is a prime consideration when planning a good lawn. The degree of acidity in the soil depends on the locality. To learn how much acid your soil has or needs to be balanced, seek help from the County Agricultural Agent or test soil yourself with the aid of a soil testing kit.

Soil can have too little or too much acid. Ask what to add to get it in balance.

The kind of lawn seed used depends on the locality, too. Saint Augustine, Bermuda and zoysia grass seem to sprout best in the South.

Lawns in New England and Northwest are lusher if bent-grass is used. Kentucky bluegrass favors Midwest areas. Other parts of the country such as California need mixtures.

RYE GRASS IS almost fail-safe if you're looking for a fast grower that covers quickly. It isn't prize grass; it grows uneven. But it's almost impossible to fail with the rye if what you're looking for is a lawn suitable for touch football and such.

The best time to cut a lawn is evening. Cutting while sun is high leads to excessive drying. Cutting in the evening gives blades time to recover before the hot sun hits, reducing drying.

Authorities say watering each evening makes for shallow roots. Let grass grow 'til it starts wilting. Then soak it.

UNCLE JOHN'S PUPIL

Half A Lifetime Of Planting Trees

By FRANK J. TAYLOR

Uncle John McLaren, the dour and gruff old Scot who transformed miles of shifting sand dunes into San Francisco's verdant Golden Gate Park, was probably the greatest tree seed planter since Johnny Appleseed.

Uncle John disliked reporters as much as he loved trees. When I drew an assignment to do a story about his tree-growing feats, he greeted me with a fishy eye — until I mentioned casually that I was nursing some little pine seedlings in our vegetable garden. Then I could see him melting.

"Hop in the car," he said. "Let's go visit some trees."

Uncle John was then "a young man," as he put it, just turned 80. He said that no one was old as long as he planted tree seeds. He was still young in spirit and growing little trees at 97 when he departed for the Eternal Forest.

EVER SINCE THAT first encounter with John McLaren, I've had some infant trees sprouting among the vegetables. Some of my earliest pines are now 70 feet tall and one has a trunk two feet in diameter. All that growth in half a lifetime!

A live oak that I started as an acorn has a two-foot trunk and is almost as tall as its close neighbor, a slow-growing Blue Oak that was a sapling when Columbus sailed the ocean blue, so tree men tell me.

"That's one acorn I didn't plant," I admit to inquirers. "Some ancient jay or squirrel planted it and I'm just custodian of the big oak for a few years."

The birds, who are pirates in the family orchard, are my collaborators in the tree-growing game. They've dropped seeds of exotic trees, such as Chinese pistaches, jacarandas, sycamore (not to mention poison oak). But if I plant a bed of seedling pines or cedars or redwoods, the little stinkers consider it a salad bowl.

THE PINES I'VE reared cast hundreds of seeds every year but only one in a thousand survives to make a tree. Birds or field mice nip off the few seedlings that push up. Fungus damps off the few that do escape these enemies. So I have to pull on my ecology hat and help Nature make trees.

Take pines or cedars or redwoods or almost any conifer.

The first step in tree-making is to gather the cones in a heavy paper bag and leave it in the warming oven overnight. To the cones the warm oven is a hot summer day. Come morning, they've opened up and their seeds have popoed out into the bag. Next comes the cold treatment in the freezer compartment of the refrigerator for a few hours. When the seeds emerge to room temperature, they sense that spring has come and they're rearing to germinate.

Okay, I scatter-plant them in the vegetable garden, rake the soil, spread ground leaves or peat moss over the seed bed. Their radar tells them it's time to push down a root and push up a stem, doomed to become a delicious bird or mouse salad unless I cover the seed bed with fine mesh wire netting.

THE ODDS ARE still against them. Most of them will damp off, victims of fungus, unless I douse the seed bed twice a week with Phaltan garden fungicide. But once through infancy and two inches tall, their stems toughen into micro-trunks which shoot up a foot or more during the first summer. They're ready for adolescence in gallon cans while I find homes for them.

A few years later a neighbor laments, "That cute little tree you gave me is pushing the house around."

A few years back a friend brought me a frail little six inch redwood in a small pot.

"Let's see you make a tree of this baby," he challenged.

"Okay," I agreed. "Drop by in five years."

THE FRAGILE midget quickly outgrew first a large pot, then a big planter. I transplanted it in a hole by the toolshed, leaving a basin into which I could run a lot of water every few days. It shot skyward and even grew a satellite trunk. In five years the sapling was 30 feet tall and adding more height to its crown annually.

"There's your tree," I told my challenger. "Next time bring me a seed."

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- As your flowering trees and shrubs come into bloom, shape them to your desire and use the flowered branches as indoor decorations. Tall branches of bloom are dramatic in a low bowl in the entry, or hall. For smaller decorations, try arranging your spring blossom branches with daffodils and primroses.
- Continue to scatter bait to control snails and slugs.
- Keep planting gladiolus bulbs. Successive plantings at two week intervals will result in a succession of bloom — into fall.
- Check nurseries for azaleas in bloom. You'll find a good selection of colors in March.
- Ceanothus and other California natives are in bloom now. These make excellent easy-to-care for shrubs in the garden.
- The vegetable gardener is definitely in step with the times this spring. More Marinites will be growing their own produce, and reaping the financial and culinary rewards.

The Time It Takes

Experts who measure time and effort advise that it takes at least two hours per week to care for a 20 by 50-foot garden. And this does not include harvesting and planting. So don't dig up more than you can tend.

Gardenia's Popularity Is Justified

It's easy to explain the popularity of gardenias.

Some of it can be attributed to the waxy white blossoms which fill the air with fragrance. But mostly, gardenias enjoy continuous popularity because of their adaptability in the home garden and their contributions to the landscape.

Take the Mystery Gardenia for example.

This variety sports great profusions of florist-type blooms. The large evergreen foliage is a deep, rich green, and its upright growth makes it a logical choice for foundation plantings where a medium-tall specimen is needed for effect. A grouping of Mystery Gardenias creates a pleasing hedge effect, as well.

Don't overlook the chance to grow this variety in a tub, as an attractive decoration for the patio or porch — or entryway.

Veitchi Gardenias are low growers, and the blooms are smaller in size than the Mystery Gardenias, but there is no lack of fragrance. This variety has small, soft green leaves. The low, spreading growth characteristic qualifies Veitchi Gardenias for a variety of uses in the landscape: Beneath picture windows, in border situations and in foreground plantings. They go well with other shrubs in the garden.

Another member of the family is Gardenia Radicans. The foliage is a glossy deep green — and the leaves are tiny as are the scented blooms. It stays very low —almost hugging the ground. In fact, where they thrive, this variety makes a spectacular ground cover. They can be used in rock gardens and as accent plants to tuck in at random throughout the landscape and to fill in garden beds.

All gardenias should be planted in a well-drained soil. Working organic material in the soil, or incorporating a nurseryman's planter mix as you set out the plants, will help provide the necessary drainage.

Here in coastal gardens, gardenias will tolerate more sun than in the interior valleys where they want protection from hot, reflected sun.

Bible On Bugs In New Edition

The fourth edition of "The Gardener's Bug Book" (Doubleday) answers many questions.

Among them: Are insects increasing? What poisons can you legally use to kill them? Do you know how many kinds of aphids there are? How many ways can you control the bugs in your garden?

"The Bug Book" has been rewritten by Cynthia Westcott. The first edition appeared nearly 40 years ago. The revision has the latest data on use of chemical and nonchemical methods of controlling garden insects.

The Handbook For Rosarians

The "1974 Handbook for Selecting Roses" of the American Rose Society is now available for rosarians.

Whether you want a stately hybrid tea, a friendly and profuse climber, a miniature — they are all listed. More than 1,000 of the most popular roses, listed by type and again by color, are included, along with a rating as to how well they grow.

These ratings, on a descending scale from 10 (the perfect rose), have been compiled from the reports of thousands of members of the American Rose Society based on their experiences with the roses.

This little booklet fits easily into pocket or purse, making a convenient, ready reference.

Send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the American Rose Society, Department M, 4048 Roselea Place, Columbus, Ohio, 43214. Your copy will be mailed to you immediately.

An Inside Look At Village Fair - Part Two

Judith Kirby

The 'Dear Abby' Of Seamstresses

Sausalito's 'Dear Abby' of sewing, Judy Kirby, gains more friends than customers when she leans through the Dutch door of VILLAGE FAIR FABRICS and serenely cures sewing problems with advice instead of merchandise.

But, that's her style — friendliness — personally imported from Cleveland, Ohio 14 years ago to her Sausalito treasure nook of imaginative sewing accessories.

Contrasts sprinkle the shop's walls. Brilliant ethnic fabrics handloomed by Guatemalan Indians share space with luxuriously patterned material designed by Gloria Vanderbilt. Denim, muslin, and burlap bolts (for clothing people and walls) stare across at richly-needled folk-costume, peasant braiding from Europe (great for edging almost anything). A unique quilting display (calico prints, batting, needles, thread) overlooks racks of Zodiac appliques.

Exclusivity and ingeniousness mingle in every corner. Basic buttons you may have, or choose from buckets of pewter and wood buttons, novelty buttons (frog eyes, mice . . .), and hand-painted ceramic buttons (look like miniature Danish memorial plates). Looking for unusual dress or caftan material? Ogle Judy's strictly unique, tye-dyed satin, and in a wild moment consider sewing on one of her many kinds of Raggedy Ann patches.

Need decorator elastics? How about sew-on jewels or embroidery flosses? You're surrounded by Judy's rainbow collection. Want buckles, clasps, or snaps? If Judy doesn't have them, she'll tell you where to get them — or provide alternative advice (if the generation gap doesn't get in the way. She once advised a young girl to snip off an old girdle snap. "Girdle?" the girl replied. "What's that?").

Women in need of studs ("Call them nail-heads," she warned) will find almost every type for varying applications. Or hair ribbons — she stocks quantities of imported and domestic ribbons in flowers, stripes, polka dots, and authentic Tartan plaids.

Except for sewing machines, there's almost nothing Judy doesn't have to please people with itchy needle fingers. You'll find Judy on Village Fair's second floor between 11 and 5:30 every day. That's VILLAGE FAIR FABRICS - visit or call at 332-1540.

"Chunks Of Glacier By An Artist God"

"Like chunks of glacier ice carved by an artist god," murmured one woman in her awe of handblown, Finnish Iittala glassware glittering in a corner of SKANDIA, Village Fair's strictly Scandinavian shop.

Her reaction captures exactly the Scandinavian essence created at SKANDIA by owner Ray Roy, who personally tours Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden "looking for things designed differently than anywhere else." He has that jeweler's eye for perfection that's apparent throughout SKANDIA's product line - from clothing and kitchenware to jewelry and crystal.

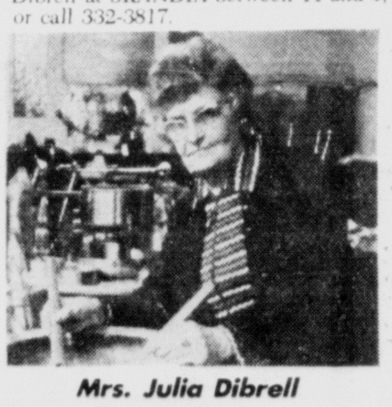

"They (the Scandinavians) have a way of taking everyday items and making them special," Ray explains. Like sweaters from Denmark, his specialty stocked in such styles and sizes that Ray feels SKANDIA's collection "is the best I've seen anywhere, including Copenhagen." On the off-chance that he doesn't have the exact style or size, Ray custom orders to individual taste.

SKANDIA is organized by country. Walking through the shop is like taking a mini-tour of Scandinavia, which allows quick appreciation of the countries' differing craft approaches. Denmark's elusive quality of soft flow is noted in woodenware salad bowls, serving trays, and boggling styles of kitchen implements. There's George Jensen silver - lots of it - famous for ballet-like magic, and orthopedic Impo clogs.

Outstanding among SKANDIA's Finnish selection is a vast number of 100% wool skirts, capes, and shawls. "People who know weaving have fits over the quality of these pieces," Ray says.

Norway contributes flatware and pewter. Finely-loomed tablecloths and runners head the Swedish display, which includes jewelry of pewter, bronze and sterling - even pierced earrings of pewter.

If you can't afford a trip to Scandinavia this year, see Ray or assistant Julia Dibrell at SKANDIA between 11 and 5, or call 332-3817.

She's A One-Woman Committee For Bathroom Revolution!

She dazzles you with her collection of haughty, Gloria Vanderbilt shower curtains, then spins your attention to oak toilet seats. "Elegance!" she points out. "Practicality!" she insists. Mrs. Nina Roy is a one-woman committee for revolution in the bathroom, "the most used and neglected part of the house." Her passion is changing bathrooms from beasts into beauties through VILLAGE FAIR BATH AND BOUTIQUE, top floor of Village Fair in Sausalito.

Bathrooms should first be visually aesthetic, she claims, pointing to a dazzling array of accessories that can turn any bathroom into rustic retreat or Versailles - like showplace. Fantasia flows through her shower curtains. Besides Vanderbilt patterns, she features famous Beardsley prints (by the artistic genius who died at age 25). She specializes in decor supplements like hand-painted tiles, specialty towel lines, iron-stone chamber pots, and other items designed to offset 'chromishness' with a soft look (for the soft feel, try her foam-cushioned, vinyl toilet seats).

Bathrooms should smell - enchanting, neutral, Nina says. The BOUTIQUE air is a sniffer's paradise of bayberry, honey/almond, black cherry, and herbal essences. Scents emanate from vari-colored, handmade soaps, exotic bath oils, creme rinses, and potpourri's of herbs and spices. She even has a garden variety of beauty baths in cucumber, carrot, lettuce, you name it.

Nina's forte is combining unusuality with practicality. For instance, an international soap collection: Finnish Sauna soap, French "picture" bars (with permanent images, and bars from England and Germany. She has genuine 'loota' vegetable and sea sponges, and 'Indispensable Dispensers' of flowered porcelain for toothpaste.

Tired of fumbling forays in the dark — consider her figurine nite-lites with low watt alabaster allure. Fed-up with gook in the soap tray — suspend your bars by magnet (available in a tray-kit at the BOUTIQUE for only a dollar!). Give Nina a call (332-4276), or visit anytime between 11 and 5.

A Sausalito Soul Treat—Candles Of The Painted Desert

Imagine sunset on the painted desert - colors that leap along canyon walls, up mesas, and mingle with the sky. Imagine roses that flame and float, or butterflies that glow from within. Think of dazzle, smell ambrosia, treat your heart and soul to the flickering beauty of CANDLESTICK, Village Fair's wax-craft wonderland.

With Icarus flair, Glenn Johnston and Bob Campbell have created a candle collection in 17 years that excerpts the finest from an art spanning centuries. Their selection of candles and candle holders includes the exotic (Kapiz lotus holders with shell petals), the rare (European-scene candles made from old, original molds), the fine (sparkling brass holders), the tranquil (tapers that flow in spiral ribbons), the modern (dramatic, porcelainized steel hanging holders), the mystic (braised steel centerpiece holders with dark feeling), the unusual (striking, many-hued candles of exact bamboo appearance), and the usual (votives, table tapers, novelties).

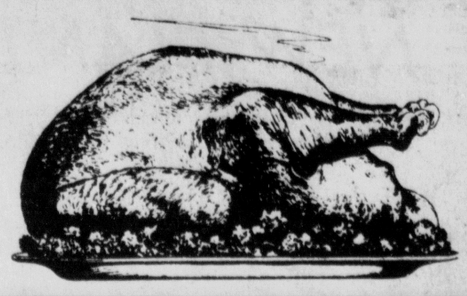

In short, Glenn and Bob stock everything but the mundane. Their shop is subtly scented with bayberry, ambrosia, vetiver and green apple. Their prize candles are those made locally by artists who evoke nature magic with combinations of driftwood, sand and wax, or mixtures of desert inspiration and colored wax chunks (ask to see 'Desert Rock').

Glenn Johnston

With Easter approaching, the pair has compiled a holiday selection of rabbits, bas-relief eggs (when burned showing yolks), and traditionals. They even have planter candles. Most are of beeswax.

CANDLESTICK is constantly illuminated by nearly 100 candles, which graphically display Glenn's and Bob's philosophy of "putting a different light into people's lives." Visit them in Sausalito between 11 and 6, or drop by their companion shop in San Francisco, 249 Grant Ave. Phone for the Sausalito location is 332-2834. For San Francisco, dial 421-4970.

JAMES CAGNEY
"A Lion Is in the Streets"

Hollywood Honors One Of Its Greats

"If we'd been doing this for 25 years, we'd have an easier time of it. Right now it's a real task. In an industry with a heritage that dates back to the days when Thomas Edison lighted the silver screen, picking out one man each year to receive an award for a lifetime of work is a genuine cause for headaches."

George Stevens Jr., director of the American Film Institute, is talking about his organization's yearly chore of presenting an award for a full life of contribution to the American film.

This year, the second Life Achievement Award will be presented to James Cagney on a special program, "The American Film Institute Salute to James Cagney," to be telecast Monday on the CBS Television Network.

HOW DOES the Institute evaluate such a braod category as a whole career?

"With Cagney it was so easy that he won approval for the award by a unanimous vote," says Stevens. "In his case, his elegibility was visible to the naked eye. Cagney is the man who has dominated all his films. The films he made were James Cagney pictures. Other actors, equally famous, were the instruments of the success of a film, but not necessarily the cause of it. With Cagney, we caught the prime mover. He was talented, he worked a lot, and he worked hard.

"Actors are the interpreters in a film. They are the ones who create and leave behind on celluloid a range of memorable characters. For me, one of the most important memories of childhood was a Cagney film. His were the roles that I still remember and admire the most.

"MY FATHER (Director George Stevens) went to New York on his way to the war many years ago when I was a child. In the city, he became sick with pneumonia and spent two weeks in a hotel room. That left me with nothing to do, so I joined the lines to see 'Yankee Doodle Dandy.' I ended up back on that line every day and saw the picture once a day for 10 straight days.

"I just liked it. The movies were the hottest spot in town for a kid. But still today, that story, those great songs — all of it is alive in my mind. It was my first exposure to James Cagney. For years, I thought he was George M. Cohan. I never doubted that portrayal was very real."

The AFI salute marks Cagney's first appearance since he quietly retired from films in 1961.

"NO, WE DIDN'T have any trouble urging him out and onto the airways," says Stevens. "The man is not a recluse by any means. He likes to farm, paint, sail his boat, and he likes being with his wife. That's what he prefers to do now. Clearly he's having a good time. And having a good time is something he's always valued."

"What made the AFI salute special to Cagney was that it was the perfect way for him to re-invest his efforts in his own medium," Stevens continues. "He's letting us honor the past in order to continue into the future. That is very satisfying to him and also to us."

YVES MONTAND plays a pacifist who has been marked for death by a militaristic government, in "Z," the Academy Award-winning motion picture about political assassination that will be the "ABC Monday Night Movie" this coming week at 9 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11.

Marin Homeowner's Notebook

TERMITES INVADING MARIN HOMES NOW.

Every homeowner in Marin County should be on the alert this month for a cloud of winged ant-like insects anywhere around his home. Don't assume that they are ants. It may be a swarm of termites!

In the early spring and fall, all three types of termites found in Marin send out swarms of flying "kings" and "queens" to start new nests. Swarming is heavy and noticeable on a sunny day following rain, but continues to some degree from late February through late October.

Termite colonies send out swarms only after they've been established for three years or more. The flying reproductives can go only a short distance, seldom more than 100 feet unless helped by winds. So if you see a cloud of swarmers or their discarded wings, there's a termite nest nearby.

The swarmers can act as an early-warning system for you. The nest is still fairly small when the first swarms are sent out. If you detect an early swarm, therefore, you've avoided the worst damage. Later, the nests grow to 250,000 termites or more.

The three types of termites in Marin have somewhat different habits for nesting and swarming. But all three types have infested homes in every part of Marin. And contrary to popular belief, they can infest both new and old homes. So every Marin homeowner should be alert this month.

If you see a swarm or discarded wings, call Hinkley & Gordon for a complete Structural Pest Control Inspection. The cost of a Hinkley & Gordon inspection, the most thorough in Marin County, costs just $45 for the average home.

This inspection isn't just a gimmick to sell you a "termite job." It's the best way to avoid one.

TUNING IN ON TV

George Schaefer, long identified in presentation of "Hallmark Hall of Fame" dramas, will be producer-director of six one-hour television specials based on Carl Sandburg's Abraham Lincoln biography that NBC will telecast as an American bicentennial gesture during the 1974-75 and 1975-76 seasons.

Since most of the other desperados of the 1930s have had their day, or days, on television and in the movies, ABC doesn't want Pretty Boy Floyd to be forgotten. Martin Sheen will portray this deadly dandy in a 90-minute drama due on March 23.

A recent Broadway entry, "Crown Matrimonial," now departed the theater, will be a "Hallmark Hall of Fame" offering on NBC April 3. The Royce Ryton drama, about the abdication of Britain's Edward VII, features Peter Barkworth, Anna Cropper, Andrew Ray and Greer Garson, who were not in the stage production.

"Lamp Unto My Feet," one of two notable CBS Sunday religious programs, became 25 years old on Feb. 19. For 15 of those years it has been under the supervision of Pamela Ilott.

Television veteran Roy Huggins and his Public Arts Productions have entered into an exclusive contract with Universal Television to co-produce motion pictures for video and for series and to develop new projects. "Toma" is a current drama series on ABC that is a Huggins product.

"Women of the Year, 1974," second of the series begun in 1973, will be telecast by CBS April 8. American women of achievement in eight categories are honored in the New York program from Lincoln Center. Readers of Ladies' Home Journal magazine select the winners by vote.

'Lotsa Luck' Loafer Enjoys Job Security

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Among television series regulars no actor plays as big a slob or as unsympathetic a character as Wynn Irwin in "Lotsa Luck."

He is the cigar-chewing, bathrobe-encased brother-in-law who sponges his living from Dom DeLuise.

As Arthur Swan he is unemployed, spends his days handicapping the races and complaining about the food he eats, but for which he doesn't pay.

The downbeat character seems to have affected Irwin's own personality.

HE IS DIVORCED and lives in a one-bedroom apartment in one of Hollywood's down-at-the heels neighborhoods. His building has one distinction, however. It once was owned by the late Errol Flynn, which gives Irwin spasmodic fits of laughter.

Irwin doesn't own a bathrobe that resembles the one he wears on the show, and he only lets his whiskers grow on the day the NBC show is filmed for a live audience at the Burbank studio.

In truth, Wynn Irwin dislikes Southern California. He is a native of New York City.

"I would like to go back to New York to get my head straight," he says.

"THERE ARE different values in Hollywood. I find more camaradie back East. I can see old friends and go walking in New York. People don't walk in Hollywood."

Still, Irwin prefers being employed in Hollywood to being unemployed in the East. "The ideal situation would be to see the whole television industry move to New Jersey."

Irwin's ex-wife and his son, Andy, 9, live in Los Angeles. Andy visits his father every other weekend and the two play ball or take in a movie.

During the week the actor's schedule is a fairly comfortable one. He reports to the studio for rehearsals Monday through Thursday at 10 a.m. By 6:30 in the evening he is free. On Fridays the show is taped and rehearsed from noon until 10 p.m.

EVENINGS ARE devoted to memorizing lines. But it's not all work. Irwin has a lady friend who cooks most of his dinners for him. She plays a large part in his life, but matrimony does not figure in his immediate plans.

Irwin is not an outdoorsman. His idea of exercise is going to the race track to bet on the nags. He considers himself a better than average handicapper.

He shows up at the Hollywood YMCA sporadically to work out but his attempts are half-hearted.

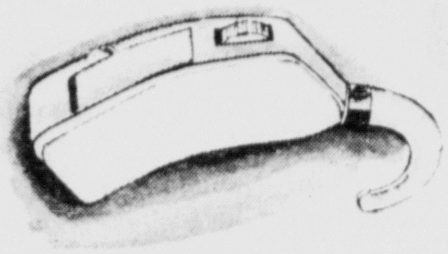

Irwin has made few friends in California although he sometimes joins a group of other actors for poker. He doesn't pal around with other members of the "Lotsa Luck" cast.

WHILE HE IS no fashion plate on the weekly series, neither is Irwin a fancy dan off-camera. He describes his wardrobe as better than Arthur's, but not much. Most of the time he wears blue jeans.

"Only during my depressed days do I look like Arthur," Irwin said, shaking his head at the thought of the character he portrays.

At one time Irwin left show business — during his marriage — to sell greeting cards and stuffed animals in Oakland.

Is TV Keeping Kmorkks Away?

Would you love to entertain a three-headed kmorkk from Aldeberan at your next cocktail party? Or have a tentatacled xprzmygzhl from the suburbs of Saturn in for a friendly game of Go Fish? Or shoot the breeze on the patio with a purple plaploopnik from Pluto?

If you want them, earthling, maybe you'd better get rid of your television set.

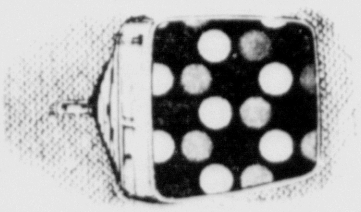

In an ironical interview appearing in the current issue of People Magazine, Carl Sagan, America's leading researcher on interterrestrial life, suggests that outer-spacers could be snubbing us partially because the stuff on our TV has been so NG.

VINNETTE CARROLL, portraying Sojourner Truth, a former slave turned abolitionist and a women's rights advocate, delivers Sojourner's famous "Ain't I a Woman?" speech against inequality on "We the Women," an historical special which studies the women in America, from their pioneer days to the current women's liberation movement. Leading American feminists who lead the dramatic fight for women's rights will also join Mary Tyler Moore in the special presentation, to be shown Sunday at 8 p.m. on Channels 5 and 10.

More people read the I-J every evening than any other newspaper in Marin County.

THE FIRST MEETING between parents John and Candice Farrell and their newborn child is captured by television cameras on "David Hartman: Birth and Babies," an examination of what expectant parents can do to help insure the health of their yet unborn child, the capabilities of modern medicine in childbirth, and what can be accomplished to insure infant survival. The presentation will be shown Wednesday at 11:30 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11.

C. G. GARVIN JR., above, a spokesman for the Exxon oil company, will be among those interviewed by ABC-TV science editor Jules Bergman when the one-hour special, "ABC News Close-Up on Oil," airs Wednesday at 10 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11. The investigative report seeks out the facts of America's oil shortage, and how it developed.

Pat Loud Writes On Love and Divorce, American Style

"What Scares Me Most"—Hollywood Stars Talk Frankly

Take That Stinging Criticism—And Put It to Good Use!

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR CARROLL O'CONNOR

Are you ever conscience-stricken because of the harm and damage you do to American Poles, or is money your only consideration?—T. Wlarorski, Bloomfield, Conn.

● There is not enough money on earth to make me consciously hurt anyone, be it an ethnic, racial or religious group. If you watch the show with an open mind, you will see that Archie never slurs his son-in-law with malice. Archie is a frightened man and has trouble coping with society. He never wins, he is a loser from the word go. The show's foremost purpose is to entertain, and we take great care not to offend anyone. Everyone—from the producer to the writers to the actors to the network censors—checks and double-checks the use of epithets. And we all have one purpose—to look at ourselves with humor and never, never with harm. I send my deepest and sincerest apologies to you and your family, if you feel that I have offended you.

FOR JULIE NIXON EISENHOWER

What will your responsibilities be as an editor for Curtis Publishing?—B. J., Oklahoma City, Okla.

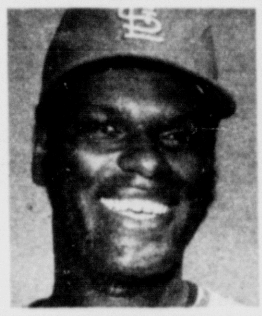

● I'm enjoying trying my hand at writing, in addition to editing material for the revitalized "Saturday Evening Post." I'm also working on a special project: an anthology of the best literature from 50 years of Curtis' publications in the children's field ("Jack and Jill," etc.).

FOR KATHY LENNON of the Lennon Sisters

Have you ever thought of breaking up your act to become singles?—M. N., Pontiac, Mich.

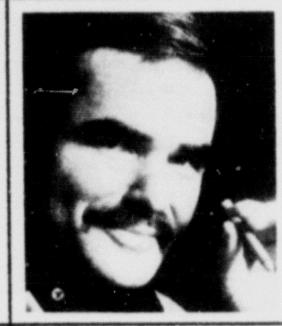

● No. Never. We all feel we need the security of each other. We do solos in the group, but wouldn't care to go out alone. If one of us ever said, "This is too much for me," we'd all quit. We care about each other very deeply.

FOR BOB GIBSON, pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals

You've hit more home runs than any other active major-league pitcher. How would you feel about the designated-hitter rule being used in the National League?—Fred Williamson, Milton, N.C.

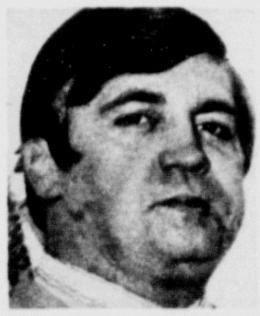

● As a pitcher who enjoys hitting, I don't like the designated-hitter rule. I feel that hitting and defense are parts of my game, just as pitching is.

FOR BURT REYNOLDS

What do you eat to keep your physique so beautiful?—Cindy Anderson, Tulare, Calif.

● I follow a high-protein diet Monday through Friday. I eat pasta or other starches on weekends only, and I never eat candy or sweets.

FOR BUFORD PUSSER, real-life hero of "Walking Tall"

I hear that you've been going around the country promoting the movie based on your career as sheriff of McNairy County, Tenn. How do you react to the scene in which you and your wife are ambushed and she is killed?—J. J. Goodyear, Durham, N.C.

● I turn away from the screen when that scene comes on. Then, when people in the audience start crying, I give in and cry myself.

FOR SUZANNE PLESHETTE

Is your husband in films [Suzanne is married to Thomas Joseph Gallagher III]?—D. H. H., Lorain, Ohio

● No, he's in business—a stock investor. And at first it was quite difficult. He'd ask me, "What time will you be home?" and I'd say, "I don't know, maybe nine or ten." And he would say, "Well, why don't you ask someone?" And I'd try to explain that it doesn't work that way in films. If we're in the middle of a scene, we have to finish it. Now he understands these problems better.

FOR FLORENCE HENDERSON

On "The Brady Bunch" you mother six children and when you go home, you have four of your own. Don't you ever get fed up with kids?—Mrs. D. G. Martin, Tuxedo, N.Y.

● No! I like children. I only get fed up with obnoxious parents who make their children into human beings who obviously don't turn out to be the world's most likable people.

FOR TED KNIGHT of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show"

Is the newscaster you play on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" typical? And how do the men on the network news regard this representation of themselves?—B. V. F., Princeton, N.J.

● Ted Baxter is a composite of several local television newsmen. Everywhere I go people tell me they know who the "real" Ted Baxter is. Network newsmen resented the character at first, but most of them have now come around to where they can see the humor.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Whatever became of Connie Francis? I understand she was booked for a few engagements, but canceled out.—M. Deever, Washington, D.C.

● Connie Francis is alive and well and living quite comfortably. Yes, it's true she canceled several engagements at the last moment; the last one was scheduled a few months ago at the Waldorf's prestigious Empire Room. Her closest associates attribute it to "cold feet," a bit of fear about appearing before a live audience again. But she's safe. She's a millionairess from past record royalties and motion pictures. Also, she has a guaranteed income of $125,000 a year for life from MGM Records. Not bad, huh?

We Asked These Stars, "What Do You Fear Most?"

Compiled by Alan Ebert

Rita Hayworth: "Between the third floor and death"

Here, in their own words, seven stars of our entertainment world reveal the innermost fears that rest, hidden no more, in their hearts.

RITA HAYWORTH

"Several years ago, in Madrid, after dining in the penthouse of a new 23-story apartment house, I entered an elevator with five friends. No sooner did the door close than we plummeted. I can still hear the screams and feel the terror as we plunged downward. And I remember being thrown to the floor as the emergency brakes finally caught and held. We later learned we were dangling somewhere between the third floor and death.

"The worst was not over. For more than an hour, we remained trapped in our cell with no means to force open the door, no air and no way of knowing if we would suddenly fall again.

"I will not belabor the point. Today, I ride escalators or walk, even if that means six or seven flights to a hotel room or a friend's apartment. The doors of an elevator will never close on me again. The very thought produces a cold sweat."

MAUREEN STAPLETON

"That Great Silver Bird in the Sky, the Wrights' Wrongo, the airplane–that's my fear.

"I don't understand the principles of aviation–why the Big Bird doesn't fall down from the sky. So I don't fly – which causes considerable grief to an actress whose work is on both coasts. Only once did I succumb. Many years ago, when in Los Angeles, my agent called to inform me I was signed for a Broadway play. He convinced me to save two days and fly rather than take the train.

"In those days, there were no nonstop jets from California. Planes to New York generally made a tour of the U.S. before falling down on the Manhattan airport. Well, my dears, I am here today by the grace of God. That trip was one long cardiac arrest. They had to carry me off the plane sucking my thumb. I vowed never again. There's no percentage in it. If the plane doesn't crash and kill me, I'll die of heart failure anyway."

GODFREY CAMBRIDGE

"Even the new slim me can't stand small enclosures. In a restaurant, I can't sit facing a wall, only facing front. In an airplane, if I know it's going to be a full flight, I'll buy a second ticket so I can have the space next to me. I get physically ill when I feel closed in.

"The worst experience I ever had was when I decided to commune with nature. I bought a terrific new canvas sleeping bag, put on my Doctor Dentins, and snuggled in for a night under the stars. I couldn't stand it. I felt trapped. And I was! The zipper was stuck and wouldn't open.

"I said to myself: 'Godfrey, you are a reasonable, mature, intelligent, fairly together fellow. Don't panic.' Only Godfrey didn't listen. He was too busy clawing, ripping and biting his way out of that straitjacket!

"Anyone interested in buying a hardly used sleeping bag with a lot of fringe?"

"Before every performance I sit in my dressing room convinced I will lose my voice in the middle of a song; that I'll open my mouth, reach for a note and come up with nothing.

"It happened once in a football stadium before 50,000 people, and Lord knows how many others who were tuned in to the nationwide broadcast. And to make matters even worse, the song was 'The Star-Spangled Banner.'

"I can never forget that helpless feeling of standing there before others, desperately trying to make a sound, and being capable of none. I know exactly what I would do if it happened again. I'd hum loudly, break into the three dance steps I know, add a card trick or two, and then run – all the way back to Claremore, Okla., where I was born."

Maureen Stapleton: "One long cardiac arrest"

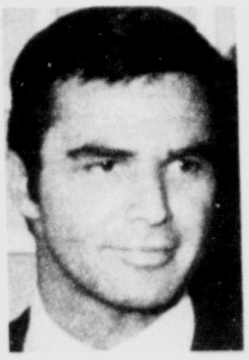

Godfrey Cambridge: Attacked by a wild sleeping bag

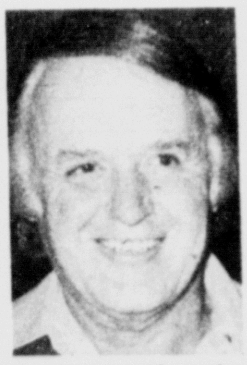

Patti Page: A star-spangled bleep

Dyan Cannon: Pollutants and politics

Burt Reynolds: The double rip-off

Rod Steiger: "I ate the w-h-o-l-e thing"

DYAN CANNON

"I am afraid of the growing insensitivity to others in the world today. I am fearful of the self-involvement of which we are all guilty. I am afraid of pollutants and politics–which almost seem synonymous these days. I am afraid my daughter will never see the true beauty in this world before it's destroyed."

BURT REYNOLDS

"There are two things you must hold on to when you become famous – yourself and your friends. Show business, or 'The Fame Game,' as I call it, can rip off both. And that frightens me. Not all the money or fame in the world can compensate for that kind of aloneness.

"Mine is a crazy business. The more famous you become, the more you are surrounded by people. But they are 'paid' people – managers, agents, aides, and when the 'pay' goes, so do they.

"Luck plays a big part in any career, and when you're down on it, if you haven't kept your friendships, haven't kept a true perspective of yourself, you're in big, deep trouble. I've seen it happen to many. When the money goes, so go the lights, the cameras, the action. As I said, man, it's frightening."

ROD STEIGER

"I am fearful of waking up one day to find I have lived my life without ever having lived it all; without having played every card held in my hand; without having dared to experience all there is to experience.

"This fear results in my playing and working with determination. I must do and be all I can. Sometimes it seems my appetite is insatiable, but I want to leave this life feeling I ate the w-h-o-l-e thing."

TAKE YOUR PICK

12" stereo records OR 8-track cartridges OR tape cassettes OR 7" reel-to-reel tapes

* Selections marked with a star are not available in reel tapes

†Available on records and cartridges only

NOTE: All applications are subject to approval and Columbia House reserves the right to reject any application.

Here's a great new offer from Columbia—an opportunity to get ANY 13 of these records or tapes. All 13 for only $1.97...and you will also receive 400 S&H Green Stamps! And just look at the wide range of recorded entertainment you have to choose from—not only the best and latest from the huge Columbia catalog...but also new releases and old favorites from A&M, Bell, Epic, MCA, Mercury, MGM, Parrot, United Artists, and many, many other labels!

To order your 13 records or tapes just mail the application, together with your check or money order for $1.97 as payment. That's all you pay for your first 13 selections—there are no additional membership dues or fees for joining. (Be sure to indicate whether you want cartridges, cassettes, reel-to-reel tapes or records.) In exchange...

You agree to buy 9 more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming two years. That's right—you'll have two full years in which to buy just nine selections ...so you are not obligated to buy a record or tape every month, or even every other month! And you may cancel your membership at any time after you've purchased your nine selections.

Your own charge account will be opened upon enrollment. The selections you order as a member will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices: cartridges and cassettes, $6.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $4.98 or $5.98—plus processing and postage. (Occasional special selections may be somewhat higher.)

You may accept or reject selections as follows: every four weeks (13 times a year) you will receive a new copy of the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest ...plus hundreds of alternate selections from every field of music. In addition, about six times a year we will offer some special selections (usually at a discount off regular Club prices). A response card will always be enclosed with each magazine.

...if you do not want any selection offered, just mail the response card provided by the date specified

...if you want only the Selection of the Month for your musical interest, you need do nothing—it will be shipped automatically

...if you want any of the other selections offered, just order them on the response card and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make a decision. If for any reason you do not have 10 days in which to decide, you may return the regular selection at our expense and receive full credit for it.

You'll be eligible for our bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement—a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases.

Pat Loud on Love and Divorce: "In Spite of It All, Married Is Better"

By Pat Loud
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

Where are the brides of yesterday? Why are so many of them spitting nails and traveling to the divorce mills of Las Vegas or the Dominican Republic—or just battling it out in hometown divorce courts? Nervous and hollow-eyed, but determined, these are the women who are tearing up their nests the minute the last child graduates from high school. But they are not alone. Many of us who are too timid to go that far talk about divorce a lot when the old man's back is turned or after the second martini has been trotted out to assure a relaxed and congenial Saturday evening.

What's the matter with us, anyway? Why are so many people so dissatisfied with their marriages? Why do the sweet "I do's" of our youth turn into the outraged "I won'ts" of middle age? Most often it's the wife who is more vocal about her dissatisfaction and the husband who retreats into a shell of silence—a "don't-bother-me" attitude that drives her right up the wall. Sometimes he has a lot of other retreats, too. How many of us single and divorced ladies have met a married man who explains that his wife "simply doesn't understand me"? The implication in his complaint is that she is a soulless witch who has ruined the tranquillity of his years and that he stays with her only because of his great spirit of humanity. In an epic loneliness reminiscent of the Flying Dutchman, he now covers every wateringhole inside his limits of time and space, questing for some noble maid who will ease his pain for one brief, erotic encounter.

But then we're all so inept and inanely self-righteous in dealing with our mate's faults. No wonder our household gods seem to have forsaken us. Where did it all start, this inability to cope with the realities of married life? Our bodies sure got older, but our emotions have declined to make the trip. They seem no older or wiser than they were 15, 20 or even 30 years ago.

"How can we believe in not marrying? To do that . . . is to believe that we have become such spiritual grotesqueries that we should bounce off each other in brief collision like the bumper cars in an amusement park."

Eva Rubinstein

"The main thing I miss," says Pat Loud, "is the companionship, a word that covers a whole lot of territory."

We've got more than our solid Victorian heritage to confuse us, you know. We remember things like World War II, in which we triumphed over the forces of evil to make the world safe for democracy. But the world didn't seem to work out quite that way, because, somehow, we have been sending the flower of our manhood off to fight and die on foreign shores ever since. That has confused us a little, too. What is real and what isn't has never really become clearly sorted out in our minds.

Obviously, we had to get away. We had to escape. The Great American Tranquilizer was escapism, and some of that confused us even more. Take our popular music, for instance. Which one of us didn't fantasize that Frank Sinatra was standing beside her nonexistent but magnolia-scented garden gate whispering her name in the moonlight? Or that Lena Horne wandered around in stormy weather, covering the waterfront and had it bad and that ain't good?

And the movies. Who dared to ponder the Vesuvian lust rising in the manly heart of that gentleman/savage Errol Flynn as he gazed into the eyes (totally ignoring the cleavage and heaving bosom) of gentlewoman/savage Maureen O'Hara? And who wondered if their romance would still be warm and prosperous ten years later? Not a soul then, but today I'd be interested in what Captain Blood was like after a few anniversaries. And what about the Captain from Castile? We all believed that noble and hot-blooded Spaniard would be forever faithful to the little barroom slattern he loved. The fact is, we never questioned the Captain's future and just weren't interested. To us, our romantic adventure was the Mount McKinley of life. Marriage and the rest were just the inevitable downhill stroll.

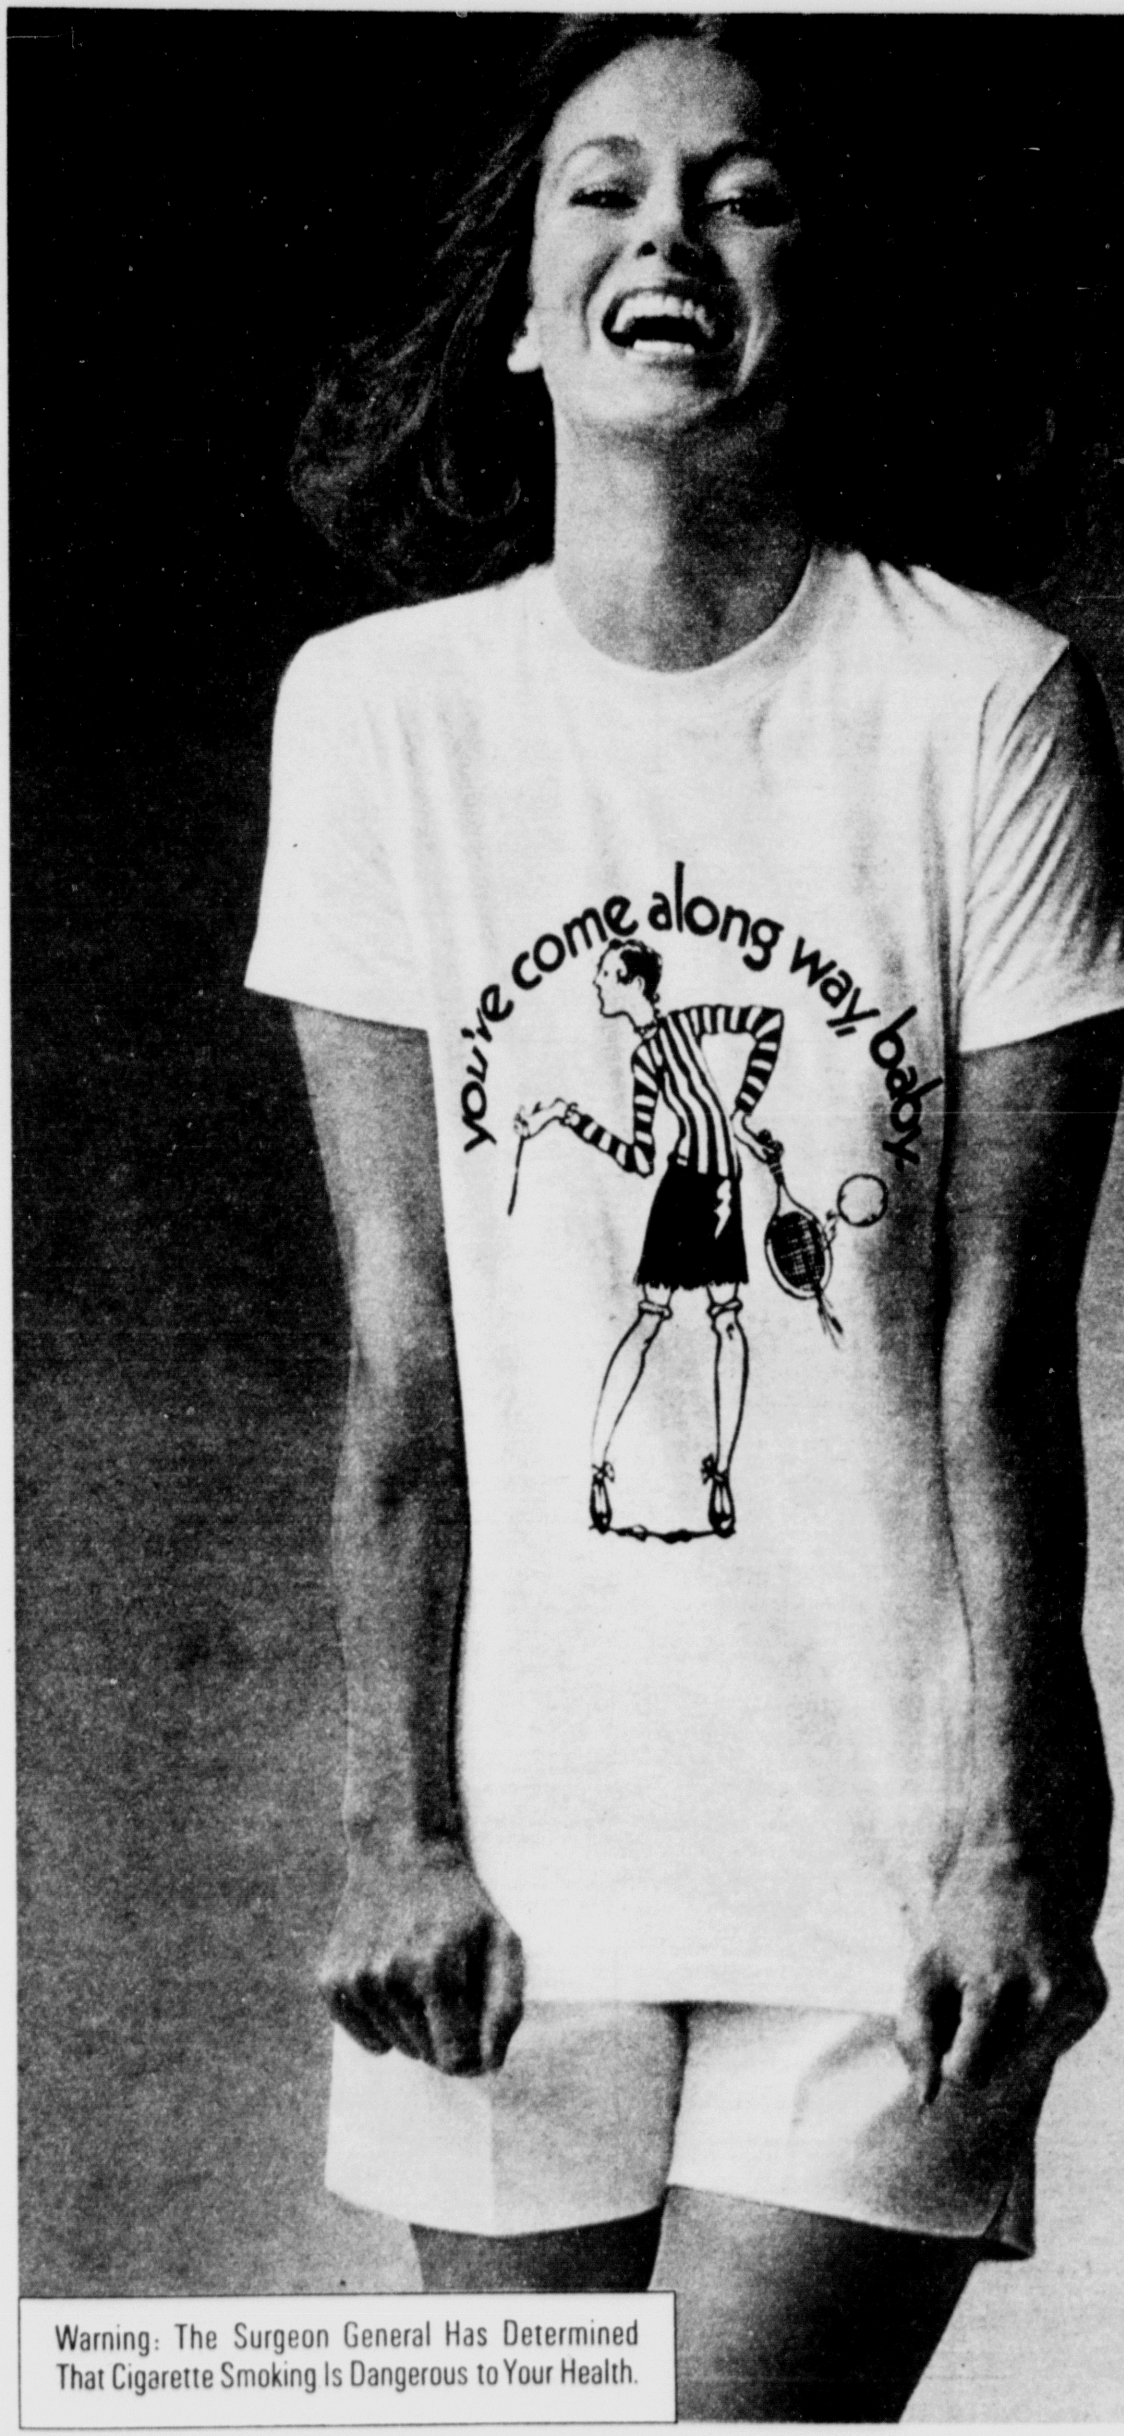

So it doesn't seem so strange, in retrospect, that a lot of us married for the wrong reasons. Many of us did manage to make the painful journey into adulthood. But for others, divorce may have been only the logical unraveling of a flimsy little courtship.

Marriage for today's young people is about as different from what it was in my day as Mick Jagger is different from Dick Haymes. There's romance, sure, but also a lot more realism. (Isn't there?) Most young people don't have the same social pressures to marry—nor do they live in romantic isolation booths separated from reality by mirror images of their parents' perfect marriages.

Modern man has been relieved (hasn't he?) of those simpering, overromantic courtships in which that cute idiosyncrasy of his beloved fiancée became a revolting habit once she was his wife. There is an openness in these new relationships that allows for honesty (real or imagined) and in which frankness and candor exist even as love itself is nurtured. They've solved it, right? Wrong! As wise and logical as they are, it's really a pity that they aren't having any better luck staying married than their parents' generation had.

once you learn how to de-sensitize them, this doctor's ingenious new way...

If You Suffer From A Single One Of These Torturous Symptoms Of Nerves, Tension Or Chronic Anxiety, THEN THE FACTS BELOW MAY BE THE MOST IMPORTANT YOU HAVE EVER READ IN YOUR LIFE!

Because they reveal, for the first time, how your nerves have tricked you into the following mental symptoms:

constant nervousness and over-irritation... indecision... depression ...loss of confidence in yourself and others... feelings of unreality... overwhelming obsession with one or two horrible thoughts...

a hopeless feeling that your entire personality is coming apart... that your identity is dissolving... or that you may be helplessly drifting into a nervous breakdown!

And—equally as bad—how your nerves have tricked you into the following physical symptoms:

chronic fatigue, that starts in the morning, and grows worse as the day goes on...

"missed" heartbeats—"racing" heart—palpitations—or sudden sharp pains under the heart...

sweating hands—or "pins and needles" in either your hands or your legs...

"churning" stomach... nausea... choking feeling in the throat... inability to take a deep breath... tight band of pain around the head..."ready to jump out of your skin"... strange tricks of vision ...weak spells... insomnia, that goes on night after night after night...

hand shaking... panic spasms... knots in your chest... dizziness... difficulty in swallowing... vomiting... and all the other physical tortures that turn your life into one continuous hell!

And Every One Of These Nervous Symptoms Can Be Controlled... And Then Diminished ...And Then Eliminated—OFTEN BY AS LITTLE AS THIS ONE SINGLE INSIGHT INTO THEIR HIDDEN CAUSE!

And that insight is this:

If you suffer from any of the nervous symptoms listed above, then you must understand at once that your nerves are not ill... they have not deteriorated... they have not lost their true physical health in any way! What has happened to them instead is that they have simply become OVER-SENSITIZED..."rubbed raw" by too much outside irritation ...and are now ready to discharge the emotional and physical symptoms of panic at even the slightest thing that goes wrong!

Thus, the depression... indecision... loss of confidence and all the other emotional symptoms you feel are all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves! And the churning stomach... palpitating heart... never-ending headaches and all the other physical nervous-symptoms you feel are—again—all caused by OVER-SENSITIZED nerves!

And therefore the way to treat ALL these symptoms is NOT with drugs... NOT with shock... NOT with medical formulations or hospitalizations at all! The way to treat these nerves is to change the poisonous-thoughts that are rubbing them raw!

And this is done (as proven by this internationally-famed physician on thousands of patients) in four simple steps! The first of which stops nervous symptoms (both physical and emotional) from multiplying from that moment on! The second of which serves to tranqualize and quiet down those over-sensitized nerves far more powerfully (and permanently) than any drug a pharmacist could ever give you!

The third of which lets you stop fighting those symptoms (which only intensifies them in an ever-increasing spiral of sheer torment), and—instead—leave them alone in an ingenious way that lets them start healing themselves!

And the fourth of which—the great reward—brings you slowly-but-surely back to the person you used to be! With a new, enduring feeling of control and confidence that nothing can destroy! So much so that this doctor actually comes right out and states bluntly: "The advice given here will definitely cure you, if you only follow it"!

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

"... helped me so much and released me from the particular hell I have been living in since my breakdown six years ago."

"I think of Dr. Weekes with admiration and deep gratitude, as I am sure thousands of other people are doing."

"I am amazed at the progress I made in such a short time."

"It would be no exaggeration to add that your book saved my life."

"The method you give for cure of nervous conditions is so effective—and so simple—I cannot think why nothing remotely like your system has been suggested to me."

"The great reassurance you give about the distressing physical symptoms of a disturbed nervous system is one of the greatest benefits to be derived from your book."

"You cannot possibly imagine what a relief it is to be able to view life normally again, instead of fear-panic all the while."

"I cannot describe the emotion I felt to find, at last, someone who really understood the problem, and to hear her say the condition can be cured. ..."

"I would like you to know that my nervous condition has so greatly improved through the advice gleaned from your most precious and invaluable book... that all symptoms have now disappeared and I rarely need Librium or sleeping capsules."

"My physician is amazed at my progress and of course I showed him your book which he borrowed and read thoroughly and is now recommending to other patients."

"My wife has made a vast improvement since using your book and now feels for the first time like getting away from the hospital altogether. I'm sure if she had had your treatment in earlier years she would never have had to go into the hospital at all."

WHAT THE PUBLISHER SAYS:

HOPE AND HELP FOR YOUR NERVES has sold over 250,000 copies and has been endorsed by medical and mental-health associations throughout the world. Millions of Americans have heard Dr. Weekes on television and radio shows and have read excerpts from the book which recently appeared in Reader's Digest. If you are one of the many whose nerves are on edge and who sometimes feel panic and don't know why, this remarkable book was written for you.

In Fact, Case History After Case History Proves That Cure May Be So Dramatically Quick That Your Friends And Family Will Beg You To Tell Them Your Secret!

Once again, it doesn't matter what physical or emotional symptoms you are now suffering from... how "deeply entrenched" they are... how long you have been plagued by them... how "old" or "weak" or "out-of-control" you may feel today! Here is specific, step-by-immediate-step advice that will (again to quote directly from the doctor) "banish every unwelcome sensation and regain peace of mind and body"!

For example:

The two-minute self-treatment (you perform one ingenious little action with your chest) that ends sudden panic seizures on the spot—including all their side effects such as dizziness, pins and needles, involuntary stiffening of the joints, inability to breathe, and all the rest.

That "lump in the throat that won't go away"—how to banish it in minutes... and enjoy eating any food you wish to once again!

Physical weakness—perhaps the most dreaded of all symptoms—and (surprisingly) perhaps the fastest of all to banish!

How to deal with the twin monsters of fatigue and guilt! And leave behind emotional exhaustion... morning depression... thoughts that once raced around and around in your mind without cessation! (And leave them all behind—for good!)

Why so many patients who tried these simple techniques actually came out of their nervous sicknesses as far finer and stronger people than they ever were before!

How to recover from chronic tension caused by an insoluable problem! The only sane way to overcome it! How to avoid unnecessary suffering, for both yourself and others! And, perhaps, actually turn your worst defeat into crowning success!

The surest and most permanent way to cure obsessions!

How to tap the forces of Nature, every morning, that are just waiting to cure you!

How to bring happiness back into your everyday life! Not by waiting for some great event or reward... but simply by developing the eyes to see joy in the little things all around you!

And—the final goal: How to develop the kind of nervous control that automatically turns panic off the instant it starts! That frees you forever from "nerve-crutches" such as drugs or alcohol! That lets you pick up your life again from the point where over-sensitized nerves forced you to abandon it, with absolute confidence that you now have the poise and self-possession to accomplish the goals you have always wanted!

Already a best-seller in nine foreign nations, as well as the United States! Read it from cover to cover. We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

VITAL NOTE!

To gain the wonder-working benefits of this book in every area of your life starting within the first five minutes after you pick it up—there is absolutely no need to STUDY this revolutionary new book or even read it from cover to cover, or expend any more "literary" effort on your part other than to browse through it at your leisure for one or two thrilling minutes a day!

This is NOT a textbook! NOT a study manual! There are no lectures—not a single "blue-sky" theory to ponder over anywhere!

Instead, for the first time; here are revolutionary new breakthroughs that HELP YOUR NERVES DE-SENSITIZE THEMSELVES... ACTUALLY DRAIN OUT TORTUROUS MENTAL AND PHYSICAL SYMPTOMS, STARTING THE VERY FIRST DAY—all through a few incredibly-simple techniques that you can put to work for you the very first time you pick it up.

Therefore, we do NOT want you to treat this amazing volume as you would an ordinary book! Instead, we ask you this:

Place it on your bedstand, entirely at our risk, for thirty days! Browse through just a few pages every night before you retire! Skip around if you like! But make absolutely no conscious effort to "study" this book, "work" on it, or even memorize a single one of the thrilling techniques you will find on every one of its pages!

Instead, you'll make this startling discovery in these very first thirty days alone. Instantly—simply by leafing through its pages—your mind will automatically absorb the wonder-working procedures laid out for you in this book! Effortlessly, you will respond to its convention-shattering breakthroughs!

Inevitably—hour after hour—day after day—week after week—you will find your body draining away, almost by itself, the tortures of constant nervousness... overwhelming depression... lack of confidence... chronic fatigue... 'skipping' or 'racing' heart... pins and needles in hands or feet... even nausea, shortness of breath, chest and stomach pains, weak spells, and never-flagging insomnia! And much, much more!

All these—gone! For just a few short moments a day!

Continued

So here we are, young and old alike, with more than one in three of us getting divorced and a lot of the others apparently restless but holding fast—at least so far. [According to the best statistics available to FAMILY WEEKLY, more than 36 percent of U.S. marriages are ending in divorce.]

Remember the old saying, "Love is the answer," to which the rejoinder was, "What is the question?" That was a pretty good rejoinder, it turns out. Love just isn't the answer to everything. I think we have to realize that love is a bust as an all-purpose problem solver. We have foolishly expected love to answer too many of our needs.

Is it just plain impossible for most of us to dedicate our integrity to a lifetime commitment? Must prenuptial bliss so often turn into postnuptial boredom? I don't think so—not if there is enough light, air and freedom in the union, and if both parties work hard to keep it that way. To think of marriage as a ball and chain helps create resentfulness and boredom. Yet incredible numbers of people do just that. After my divorce, my married friends knew I sat up on my hill in Santa Barbara every night in a house full of kids. But many of them still envied me. I was free to do whatever I wanted to and they weren't. Yet they were supposedly happily married people!

But how can we believe in not marrying? To do that is to believe that to truly know each other would be a revolting shock. It is to believe that we have become such spiritual grotesqueries that we should bounce off each other in brief collision like the bumper cars in an amusement park. It is to believe that intimacy assassinates love, which is a word too few of us really understand in the first place. It is to believe that life is a tragic joke in which we, ladies and gentlemen, are all portraying fools.

I remember this: When my marriage was good, it was very, very good. I once believed that it would automatically go on forever, that it was not fragile, but solid and substantial. But my mistake was one of immaturity, not sloth or callousness. I like being married, and I think most people do, too, because in spite of the risk and all the ugly statistics, an awful lot of people are still marrying. Even people involved in what they call "experiments in alternate life-styles" haven't really come up with anything very different from the basic family concept, no matter how hard they try. The basic ingredients are a man and a woman who want to distill a life together. It's a primal urge in practically all of us.

Some say love's opposite is indifference. But I seem morbidly unable to conjure up this indifference toward Bill, even though he and I haven't lived together for two and a half years. And that isn't because I'm one of the classic torchbearers, either. I hadn't thought of him as Captain Marvelous for years before we divorced, and it's pretty obvious that I wasn't the sweetheart of his dreams during those same years. Both of us wanted out. Indeed, we had to get out, or we would have wound up cutting out paper dolls and talking to them. So our divorce was more like telling the frontline troops that the war was over than like a visit from the angel of death. We were free to face each other without rancor for the first time in ages. It was like having bad Mr. Hyde turning into good Dr. Jekyll again, and I can now remember my marriage with pleasure instead of anguish. The gentleness of my divorce is largely responsible for that. Bill and I had emerged from the battle of the sexes and we were still friends.

"Our divorce was more like telling the frontline troops that the war was over than like a visit from the angel of death."

But the price of freedom comes high. Though I don't regret my decision to divorce, I have seen life from both sides now. And for me, at least, married is better. The main thing I miss is the companionship, a word that covers a whole lot of territory. A lot of my unmarried friends use that word to describe what they're missing. I do have a new life and the challenge is exhilarating. I'm not about to retreat from it again, but I like life better and feel more complete when I'm sharing the experience-of-living with a husband. Living alone seems unnatural to me.

My children have to go out, hopefully a lot wiser than Bill and I, and face the challenges of their own lives. They'll have to find their own mates to do that with them. I'm just their launching pad, and that's the way it should be. It's just that I want the same thing for myself, and having had such balance in my life once, I know what's missing now.

The Legend of the Amazing Powers of LA CROIX d'AGADÈS

Once upon a time, in the reign of Askia the Great, Sultan of Songhai, it is told that a poor camel driver, Ahmed, so displeased the powerful ruler that he was cast out of the oasis to die in the desert. As he lay near death, a Bedouin came seeking to rob him. Ahmed, seeing the dagger raised above him, grasped at the thief's throat and broke therefrom a chain bearing a strangely carved silver Cross. Instantly the Bedouin pailed, staggered and fell dead! Praising his luck, Ahmed placed the Cross upon his own throat, whereupon the camel of the Bedouin approached and knelt, and bore him to a cave near Agades. Here Ahmed discovered jewels, spices, and gold, looted from a thousand caravans. And from that day forward he and his descendants—for each of whom Ahmed caused a copy of the Cross to be carved—lived in health, riches, and good fortune for all of their days! In this modern day, such tales are not to be believed. Or are they?

It is a fact that in the Republic of Niger, astride the ancient caravan routes across the Sahara, the oasis of Agades still basks in the sun, little changed from the 16th century, when Askia did indeed control a vast kingdom stretching from the desert to the sea!

It is a fact that, since ancient times certain substances and talismans have been known by millions to have the power to affect the destiny of those who wear them next to their skin — the power to bring wearer

Health, Happiness, Luck, Success!

And while it is not known how, or by whom the original Cross of Agades was first copied and smuggled to Europe, it is a fact that Agades was part of the French African territory in the 18th and 19th centuries! And today it is a fact that thousands of Frenchmen and women wear this identical Cross of Agades (always in contact with the skin)! The modern belief is that the curious carving and design of this beautiful piece of jewelry somehow modifies the human body magnetism—that it makes this magnetism positive, capable of repelling harmful and inauspicious waves, and attracting those beneficial to the wearer. (Certainly you have often been aware of the magnetic attraction of those who succeed—who are lucky and happy and in good health. And we often speak of the "good vibrations" we get from certain people!)

THE GENUINE CROSS

We certify that this is a true, in every detail Cross of Agades described in the legends of the orient. We make no claims for its power to change your destiny or improve your health and happiness. Wear it if you like simply as a distinctively beautiful piece of jewelry—delicately carved and beautifully plated in your choice of silver or gold. But we can make it possible for you to test its power for yourself — without risk! If after 15 days of wearing LA CROIX d'AGADES in direct contact with your skin you are dissatisfied for any reason, simply return it and we'll refund the purchase price! Mail coupon at once!

INTERESTED IN ASTROLOGY?

How Your Horoscope Can Bring You Wealth, Love, Success And Happiness

by Norman P. Kennedy - Reporter, World News Agency of Astrology

Canton, OH (WNAA)-Did you know that you can have your personal natal horoscope cast and analyzed free? You can. The American Astrological Association, the largest known astrological society in the world, is conducting astrological research. They need birth information for this project. If you send them your birth data, they'll cast your horoscope on their computer for research purposes. And if you wish, they'll send you a copy of it.

Your personal natal horoscope will consist of about 9 pages and 3,000 words. It will offer you the best psychological analysis of yourself available today. Your horoscope will analyze your strengths and weaknesses. It will tell you how to take fuller advantage of your talents, and show you how to overcome your weaknesses. Your horoscope will discuss your lovelife, tell you who you should be sexually compatible with, and outline your marriage potentials. It will also cover your marital, family, and child relationships along with your health, your career opportunities, and your finances.

An important point should be made. Your personal computer horoscope will not be the general kind found in paperbacks. Your personal computer horoscope will analyze your sun-sign, moon sign, rising sign, and planets according to your exact time, date, month, year and place of birth. Many people don't understand the importance of their moon sign and rising sign. Your moon sign refers to your subconscious mind relating to your past. It also affects your childhood conditioning, instinctive patterns, feelings, and inner nature. Your rising sign shows you how you project yourself. It is the mask you wear before others.

Your 3,000 word, 9 page natal horoscope will be cast on the Association's gigantic 360-65 I.B.M. computer. The computer was programmed by the Association's staff of top certified astrologers. It contains over 24,000,000 bits of authenticated astrological information. No two horoscopes produced by the computer are ever alike.

I have visited the Association and had my 9 page computer horoscope cast and analyzed. I was awestruck at the accuracy of my horoscope. It described me perfectly. It even pointed out some hidden talents which I wasn't aware of until I really sat down and took an honest look at myself. I'm happy to say, that I've now begun to take advantage of these talents.

Few people realize that the majority of famous people used horoscopes just like the ones produced by the Association to discover and cultivate their talents and thus gain success and riches. Nearly all successful people use astrologers–politicians, movie stars, businessmen, doctors and lawyers. Many famous scientists were astrologers themselves, such as Sir Issac Newton, Carl Jung and Sigmund Freud. Famous business tycoon J. P. Morgan used astrology to achieve his wealth. He did not make a financial move without consulting his astrologer. Astrology helped the allies win World War II by predicting the enemies moves. A horoscope of Adolf Hitler done on January 30, 1933 exactly predicted the course of World War II. See chapter 30 of the RISE AND FALL OF THE THIRD REICH, by William L. Shirer. Astrology was used to find and keep the successful marriage of Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier. Together, they recently had their horoscopes updated by American astrologer, Keith Clayton.

These rich and famous people are no different than you and I, except for one thing. They weren't forced to use the general astrology carried in paperbacks. They could afford to pay a professional astrologer hundreds of dollars to cast their horoscope from their exact time and place of birth. This special research project has changed all that. Now you too can have your personal natal horoscope cast from your exact time and place of birth.

Here's how it works. The A.A.A. will cast and analyze your natal horoscope. They then check to see if your planet placements fit a group that they wish to research. (People who fit this group can receive extra bonuses by filling out a research questionnaire.) Since your horoscope has already been cast and analyzed for research, you may get it for only a $3.00 charge to cover postage, handling, and the cost of making your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process, which could cost $300.00, free.

To get your personal natal horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form below and mail. Include the $3.00 postage, handling, and coping cost for each horoscope or charge your credit card.

If you're not as astounded with the accuracy of your horoscope as I was with mine, return it and you'll receive every penny of your money back. I've been authorized to tell you that your horoscope is covered by a one year - 365 day - full money back guarantee. If you have any questions, call John F. Ford, President of the American Astrological Association, at (216) 478-2171. He'll be happy to talk with you.

WHY PLANT A GROUND COVER?

In many areas and situations, ground covers are more appropriate and more satisfactory than turf. They are able to grow and thrive in sun OR shade, and in poor soil.

On steep slopes where mowing is difficult, ground cover is much more effective and much less laborious to maintain than grass. Ground covers hold the soil as well as turf and the textures are far more interesting.

Small areas of grass are a continual chore to keep mown and trimmed but ground covers require almost no care. They are excellent protection and soil conditioners. They hold the fallen leaves from blowing away, thus helping to add annually to the humus content.

Now to cover those hard-to-fill bare spots with Blazing Color!

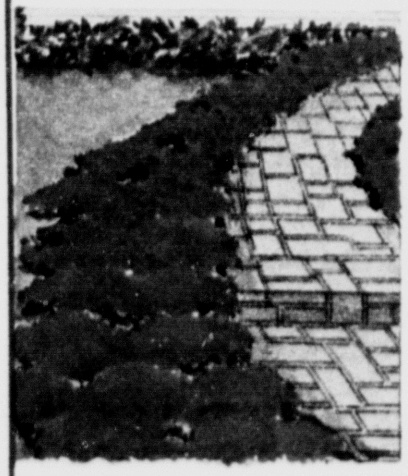

Check these Special Features of the Perfect Ground Cover!

CREEPING RED SEDUM

- Grows in Any Soil
- Thrives in Sun or Partial Shade
- No Special Care Needed
- Extremely Hardy
- Brilliant Color
- Rich, long-lasting Foliage
- Neat, uniform Growth
- Quick, but Disciplined Spreading
- Guaranteed
- Inexpensive

You will receive hardy northern nursery grown plants carefully packaged to arrive in prime condition. An outstanding buy at less than 20¢ per plant in lots of two dozen!

WHY CREEPING RED SEDUM?

One of Sedum's most valuable assets is its full time beauty. Lush foliage begins in early spring, and star-shaped wine red flowers delight the viewer from late June through September. The attractive semi-evergreen foliage lasts well into winter, maintaining its rich green and bronze color nearly all year round.

Besides being one of the loveliest of the ground covers, Sedum also rates high on the other requirements. It is hardy, grows well in sun or partial shade, in sandy soil, clay soil, or good soil.

Its thick foliage and root system hold the soil on slopes or banks. The neat 3-4" cover forms a dense perennial mat to bring green and wine red beauty to slopes, borders, rocky areas, anywhere beauty and durability are needed.

Each plant will easily and quickly spread to fill one sq. ft. Sedum spreads evenly, maintains its uniform smooth beauty at all stages of growth. Unlike some other ground covers, Sedum, also called "Dragon's Blood," stays where you put it — does not straggle out into places where it doesn't belong. Sedum is almost indestructible, enduring and persisting against heavy climatic and nutritional odds.

FULLY GUARANTEED

All items guaranteed to be of high quality, exactly as advertised and to arrive in good healthy condition or purchase price will be refunded. RETURN SHIPPING LABEL ONLY —you may keep the plants. (One year limit).

SEND this Special Offer Coupon TODAY to receive your Red Sedum and Peonies!

Now is a Good Time to Plant RED SEDUM!

Your young Sedum plants will establish themselves and begin to spread a few days after planting. In a month or so they will already be 3-4 inches in diameter. They may lose their foliage as the first winter progresses but will leaf out again in early spring. During a long growing season they may reach 12" in diameter, always maintaining their neat regulated shape.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Do You Dot Your i's?

(It Could Be a Clue to Your Character!)

True or False: The size of your signature tells a lot about how you regard yourself. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Most people talk the way they write.
2. People with illegible handwriting are likely to be accident-prone.
3. People who stay young despite their advancing years write differently from those who get old before their time.
4. The size of your signature tells a lot about how you regard yourself.
5. If you frequently fail to dot your i's, it indicates you're lacking in self-confidence.
6. You can tell from a person's handwriting whether he's an introvert or an extrovert.

ANSWERS

1. True. In studies in which samples of subjects' voice recordings were compared with their handwriting, many similarities were noted. For example, handwriting of people with loud voices tends to be characterized by bold strokes and heavy pressure. Hesitancy in speech may be reflected in "breaks" in the handwriting, with longer spaces between words. People whose speech is forceful, persuasive, and who try to influence the opinions of others, often underline words when they write to add extra emphasis, and so on.

2. True. University studies have shown that people whose penmanship is characterized by indecipherable scrawls and undisciplined flourishes tend to be more prone to accident than others. This was found to be true even in the case of schoolchildren, where "poor penmen were rated as being restless, impatient and lacking in physical coordination."

3. True. A study of more than 500 subjects of various ages and walks of life has shown that people who retain their vigor and zest for life, irrespective of the number of birthdays they have under their belts, write much faster than those who "feel as old as they are."

4. True. As one behavioral scientist has observed: "A man reveals more than his name in his signature. The writing of his name, an action performed over and over throughout his life, can be seen as a repeated test that indicates that man's estimation of himself." Research at Wesleyan University on groups of people of varying status in life—including blue-collar workers, university students and professors—showed that a man's signature tends to grow appreciably larger as his status increases. Similar studies at Brigham Young University resulted in the same finding.

5. False. A team of investigators at Illinois State University made a psychological study of more than 100 men and women students. Each was given a battery of standard personality tests. Then the handwriting characteristics of each person were carefully tabulated. The characteristic that stood out most significantly as an indicator of personality traits was "missing i dots." The personality tests showed that people who frequently skipped dotting their i's tended to display self-confidence, self-sufficiency, non-submissiveness, an outgoing temperament and an interest in and liking for other people.

6. True. In psychological studies that compared handwriting characteristics with the results of personality tests, it was found that the handwriting of introverts and extroverts tended to differ markedly in one particular respect: the size of the handwriting. The extrovert's writing was appreciably larger than the average introvert's. The study showed, however, that the handwriting of both introverts and extroverts is affected by personality conflicts, emotional crises, neuroses, and so forth.

Do you suffer from painful elimination?

First of all, you should know that you are not alone. Thousands of people experience pain from dry, hard stools. The reason is often constipation or hemorrhoids. What's needed is something that will soften intestinal waste for smooth, comfortable relief.

And that's exactly what Serutan does. Serutan is a softening laxative that helps relieve painful elimination. It forms a smooth, mild gel that supplies moisture and bulk to bring effective relief without strain or griping.

Serutan is the same formula as the laxative prescribed by many doctors to give their patients the relief they want with real comfort.

Do you suffer from painful elimination? Try the Serutan way to gentle regularity. Soon you should discover that elimination can be as smooth, easy and comfortable as nature intended.

When People Criticize— How to Come Out Ahead

By Robin Worthington

"I'm only telling you for your own good. . . ." "Now, please don't take this personally, but. . . ."

Instinctively, when we hear those words, most of us cringe. We know what's coming—the put-down.

Yet we don't have to let criticism damage our self-esteem. We can't do much to change our critics, but we can change our own response to criticism. Instead of consenting to let criticism tear us down, we can make criticism work for us.

"The key to coping with criticism is to evaluate it," say the human-behavior experts. Easier said than done? Right, but you can find help as close as your nearest dime store. Carla, an attractive young wife I know, did just that.

"I used to pretend I didn't even hear criticism," she confided. "But by myself, I'd brood. Was I really as bad a housekeeper as my mother-in-law said? Was I really as much of a klutz at the card table as my husband said?

"One day I decided to get firm with myself. I marched down to the dime store and bought a spiral notebook. I started writing down what people criticized me for—the way some people keep track of calories.

"At first I was scared—it seemed such a negative thing to do. Then I discovered I felt very brave writing everything down. I could decide for myself whether my critics were right—or if I cared. For instance, my husband's criticism about my bridge-playing—I decided he was right! I do play badly, and bridge is important to us. So I signed up for bridge lessons, and I'm improving already.

"Buying that notebook changed my life. Now I'm finding out what I think is important instead of getting upset because I can't please everyone."

There are several ways we can improve our ability to cope with criticism. Here are some guidelines:

1. When you're criticized, stall for time. Take a deep breath. When you're under stress, you tend to breathe shallowly and rapidly. If you inhale and exhale deeply, you not only increase your sense of well-being, but you play for time before answering your critic—whether boss, wife or boyfriend.

2. Is the criticism really directed at you? Next time criticism seems misplaced, ask yourself if you're the cause of the other's wrath or merely the object. Maybe your critic is really mad about commuting traffic or inflation or taxes.

As one wife says, "Life got simpler the day my husband admitted he isn't mad at me when he pays the bills—but he doesn't have anyone else to shout at."

3. Evaluate your critic's competence. Your neighbor criticizes your taste in home furnishings, but she wouldn't know a Picasso from a planter box. Don't seethe, just shrug. If your boss criticizes your sales report, listen. If he tells you how to raise your children better, his criticism may be no more valid than that of your maiden aunt Martha.

4. Consider your critic's motives. Some people think they pull themselves up by pulling others down. If you realize that their criticisms often reflect their own fears, it's easier to remain calm. If your co-worker criticizes your skirts as too short, maybe she's worried about her own attractiveness.

5. Your critics could be right. All your critics won't be wrong all the time. If you've heard a certain criticism many times before, it just might be true. And, as marriage counselor Dr. Allan Fromme says, "We are not adults if we cannot face a moment of truth with ourselves."

6. Motivate yourself — the right way. Motivation experts tell us it doesn't help to make vague resolutions like, "I won't let criticism bother me." To make criticism work for you, evaluate the criticism, then write down your action decision in one simple, positive phrase on a 3x5 card. Keep the card where you'll see it during the day—on your mirror or in a desk drawer. Every time you see the card, reaffirm your decision.

Oh, yes—then give yourself a pat on the back each time you follow through on your decision to make criticism work for you.

Sure an' it's a lucky family that'll enjoy this hearty Irish stew and raisin-filled soda bread on St. Patrick's Day!

HONEST AND TRUE IRISH STEW

- 2 lbs. boneless lamb shoulder or shank, cubed*
- 1 qt. cold water
- 2 lbs. medium potatoes, peeled and halved
- 1 lb. white boiling onions, peeled
- 1 lb. carrots, peeled, cut in 2-inch chunks
- 6 ribs celery, cut in 2-inch pieces
- 2 teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
- ½ teaspoon caraway seeds
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

1. Place meat in 8-qt. Dutch oven, add water. Bring to boiling over high heat; skim off surface foam with slotted spoon.
2. Add potatoes, onions, carrots, celery, salt, pepper and caraway seeds. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat and simmer covered 1-1½ hours, or until meat and vegetables are tender.
3. Serve in large, deep soup bowls; sprinkle each serving with parsley.

Makes 6 servings

*For bone-in lamb use 2½-3 lbs. for 6 servings.

IRISH SODA BREAD

- 2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- 1½ teaspoons caraway seeds
- 3 tablespoons shortening or margarine
- 1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
- ⅔ cup raisins, dark or golden, coarsely chopped
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
- ¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon

1. Preheat oven to 375°F. Grease an 8- or 9-inch round layer-cake pan.
2. In medium bowl combine flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and 3 tablespoons sugar. Add caraway seeds.
3. Add shortening, and cut into flour with two knives or a pastry blender until shortening is in fine pieces.
4. Make a well in center of flour mixture; pour in buttermilk and add raisins. Mix lightly.
5. Turn out onto lightly floured board and knead gently a few times. Shape into a 5-inch round and place in prepared pan.
6. Using a sharp knife or scissors, cut dough crosswise into quarters about two-thirds of the way through. Brush top surface with melted butter and sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon sugar mixed with cinnamon.
7. Bake for 35-40 minutes, until golden brown. Serve warm with butter or margarine.

Makes 6-8 servings

Editor's note: For a nutrition bonus, why not stir in 2 tablespoons wheat germ or 2 tablespoons rolled oats with the flour?

To sour milk: To 1 tablespoon vinegar in measuring cup, add milk to make 1 cup liquid.

Lady Plugs In Zoysia Grass Saves Time Work & Money

Amazoy is the Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office for our Meyer Z-52 Zoysia Grass.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTORY OFFER! ORDER NOW AND GET UP TO 200 PLUGS FREE!

By Mike Senkiw
Agronomist

Every year I watch people pour time and money into lawns that fail them just when they want their lawns the most.

I see them reseed, feed, water, weed and mow, mow, mow! When it turns to hay in midsummer, I feel like calling out, "For Heaven's sake, when are you going to stop throwing money away and switch to Zoysia Grass."

In comparison, I'm always happy to get letters from people who have plugged in my Zoysia Grass, because they write to tell me how beautiful their lawns are even in midsummer heat and drought.

IT'S AS HARDY AS BEAUTIFUL!

A typical Zoysia owner, Mrs. Harry Winslowe in the heart of wintry New England tells how she got rid of weeds with Zoysia: "We had a lawn that was a disgrace. My husband used weed killer for every known weed—but next season new weeds sprang up. We dug the lawn up twice and re-seeded before we learned about Zoysia. It does everything you say . . . how pleased we are with our Zoysia lawn."

And from Iowa came word that the State's largest Men's Garden Club picked a Zoysia lawn as the "top lawn—nearly perfect" in the area. Yet this lawn had been watered only once all summer up to August.

Cuts Your Work, Saves You Money

Your deep-rooted, established Amazoy lawn saves you time and money in many ways. It never needs replacement . . . ends re-seeding forever. Fertilizing and watering (water costs money, too) are rarely if ever needed. It ends the need for crabgrass killers permanently. It cuts pushing a noisy mower in the blistering sun by 2/3.

CHOKES OUT CRABGRASS

Thick rich, luxurious Amazoy grows into a carpet of grass that chokes out crabgrass and weeds all summer long. It will NOT winter kill. Goes off its green color after killing frost, regains fresh new beauty every Spring—a true perennial!

FOR SLOPES, PLAY AREAS, BARE SPOTS

If slopes are a problem, just plug in Amazoy. When established, it will end erosion—also plug it into hard-to-cover spots, play-worn areas, etc.

YOUR OWN SUPPLY OF PLUG TRANSPLANTS

Your established turf provides you with Zoysia plugs for other areas as you may desire.

WEAR RESISTANT

Your Amazoy lawn takes such wear as cook-outs, lawn parties, lawn furniture, etc. Grows so thick you could play football on it and not get your feet muddy. Even if children play on it, they won't hurt it—or themselves.

NO SEED, NO SOD!

Do not mistake Amazoy pre-cut plugs for sod or seed of any type of grass. There's no seed that produces winter-hardy Meyer Zoysia. Sod of ordinary grass carries with it the same problems as seed —such as weed, diseases, frequent mowing, burning out, etc.

Order now for Bonus Plugs Free; earliest delivery at planting time in your area. Each order is shipped the same day as taken from the soil, shipping charge collect, via most economical means.

MEYER Z-52 ZOYSIA GRASS WAS PERFECTED BY U.S. GOVT. • APPROVED BY U.S. GOLF ASSOC.

PLUG AMAZOY INTO OLD LAWN, NEW GROUND OR NURSERY AREA

Just set Amazoy plugs into holes in ground like a cork in a bottle. Plant 1 foot apart, checker board style. Every plug 3 sq. inches.

When planted in existing lawn areas plugs will spread to drive out old, unwanted growth, including weeds. Easy planting instructions with order.

No Need To Rip Out Present Grass

Plug my Zoysia into an entire lawn or limited "problem areas." With the same leaf color and appearance as blue grass, it will blend perfectly. Plug it into poor soil, "builder's soil", clay or sandy soils — even salty, beach areas, pool areas and I guarantee it to grow!

Every Plug Guaranteed to Grow In your Soil In your Area

- WON'T WINTER KILL—has survived temperatures 30° below zero!
- WON'T HEAT KILL—When other grasses burn out, Amazoy stays green and lovely!

Every plug must grow within 45 days or we replace it free. Since we're hardly in business for the fun of it—you know we have to be sure of our product.

SAVE ON PATENTED STEP-ON PLUGGER. OR GET IT FREE WITH LARGER ORDERS — 600 PLUGS OR MORE.

A growth-producing 2-way plugger that saves bending, time, work. Cuts away competing growth at same time it digs holes for plugs. Invaluable for transplanting. Rugged yet so light a woman can use it.

Weird New Sonic Lure Caught Fish Like Crazy!

By Lyman Walton, Co-Inventor
As Told to Paul Stag, The Weekend Fisherman

Think of it! My new VIBRATING LURE gives loud, GURGLING, SPLASHING, BUBBLING sounds as you skitter it along the surface of the water! Sends out up to 200 vibrations every minute underneath that water! Looks COMPLETELY UNLIKE ANYTHING THAT ANY FRESH WATER FISH HAS SEEN BEFORE.

And has already used this weird sight and weird sound and weird sonic vibrations — in one of its very first Summer trials — to lure fish into attacking it so savagely that they actually knocked it out of the water. Hauled in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, and pike, even when other lures had caught little or no fish right next to it! Here's why —

CAUGHT! 120 FISH IN ONE HOUR!

Yes! Imagine that YOU were there — at Cattail Lake, Illinois, on August 20, 1961. A hot summer day! A beautiful stream-fed pond — 90 by 60 feet wide! Fishermen trying lures, flies, natural bait! But despite the fact that this is a stocked trout farm with no limit, there is only an occasional strike. It looks like a wasted day!

And then, three die-hard friends decide to try their luck with me! We start to cast from the edge of the water. At the end of our lines is an ENTIRELY DIFFERENT LURE — a weird little metal monster that casts like a bullet, and flutters back through the water like a drowning bat!

EVEN EXPERIENCED FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT!

Almost at once THAT QUIET WATER EXPLODES INTO ACTION! The first strike causes a shout of excitement! And then a second strike! A third, fourth, sixth, seventh, eighth! Beautiful rainbows and browns still shimmering from the water — being pulled in at the rate of more than one every minute!

Now the water is almost exploding with fish striking! Sometimes four and five trout savagely attack one lure at the same time! Fifty — seventy — ninety fish are caught and released! People along the shore stop to watch the spectacle!

Meet Lyman Walton
co-inventor of the amazing VIBRA-BAT LURE.

In one short hour, we have caught and released 120 fish! All WITH the very same weird little lure that can go to work for you next week, without your risking a penny!

WHAT'S THE SECRET? UNDERWATER SONIC VIBRATIONS!

Why did this bat-shaped lure catch fish by the stringer-full — even after ordinary lures, and natural bait have caught little or nothing? For this simple reason —

Because this lure gives off unique GURGLING, BUBBLING, SPLASHING SURFACE NOISES — plus up to 200 sonic vibrations every minute underneath that water — that I believe FISH FIND IRRESISTIBLE!

Yes! I am certain that sonic pulsations are the answer to every fisherman's prayer. I have studied the Navy Fish Biologist reports about the sounds fish make between themselves in the water! I have seen fish follow the propellers of a boat as though they were hypnotized by the sound!

And I have always believed that if I could take those gurgling, bubbling, splashing surface sounds and underwater vibrations — that actually seemed to CALL FISH TO THEM — and build that sound into a "Vibrating Lure" then it could haul in eye-popping catches, even where ordinary lures had caught little or nothing at all! Even in hard-fished waters where the wise old fish run away from ordinary lures!

JUST READ THESE FISH-CATCHING ACHIEVEMENTS! TRY IT AT OUR RISK!

Yes! Research showed me that lures, like fish, create Sonic Vibrations in the water by their movements! So I have designed a lure that I estimate FLUTTERS THROUGH THAT WATER UP TO 200 TIMES A MINUTE! Wing-shaped — bat-like — JERKING AND FLUTTERING MADLY THROUGH THAT WATER — SENDING OUT IRRESISTIBLE SONIC WAVES — GURGLING, SPLASHING, BUBBLING SURFACE SOUNDS THAT TRAVEL THROUGH WATER IN EVERY DIRECTION, AT THE RATE OF 4,760 FEET EVERY SECOND, THE ACTUAL SPEED OF SOUND UNDER WATER!

THIS IS AN ARTIST'S CONCEPTION OF THE VIBRA-BAT LURE AND IT'S SONIC EFFECT UNDER WATER! I believe it to be irresistible to fish! Try it entirely at our risk!

No wonder this "VIBRA-BAT" lure caught a 10 pound 7½ ounce Northern on one of its first tests — only moments after it hit the water — hauled in six bass in sixty minutes in another test, all 2½ pounds or larger — pulled in perch by the dozens in a third test at Belmont Harbor, Illinois, even after live bait and lures had scarcely a strike, and CONTINUED to land so many fish, so quickly, THAT FISHERMEN WATCHED IN AMAZEMENT!

No wonder our tests show this revolutionary new lure hauls in trout, bass, muskie, walleye, pike, salmon and other fresh water fish even in hard fished waters — produces strikes even when other fishermen alongside it are going almost unrewarded!

AMAZING 6-MONTH TRIAL OFFER

You simply cannot believe the fish-catching powers of this amazing lure until you try it yourself, FOR 6 FULL MONTHS ENTIRELY AT OUR RISK! We cannot guarantee, of course, that these amazing VIBRA-BAT SONIC LURES will produce for you in every pond, river or lake everytime you go fishing BUT WE DO GUARANTEE that these VIBRA-BAT LURES will definitely catch MORE fish for you . . . make you agree that this is the greatest little lure you've ever used — OR SIMPLY RETURN THEM ANYTIME WITHIN SIX FULL MONTHS FOR EVERY CENT OF YOUR PURCHASE PRICE BACK!

You and you alone are the only judge! You have nothing to lose! Send in the Six Month Trial Coupon TODAY!

SPECIAL NOTICE

Harrison Industries has told on this page the amazing story of the VIBRA-BAT as related to us by Lyman Walton.

We have received signed statements from Lyman Walton and other fishermen that these facts are correct.

Incidentally — the words "Gurgling — Splashing — Bubbling" are Walton's particular translation of the weird sound. Actually no two fishermen would agree on a description of this sound. But you will agree on its amazing results, or your money back!

J. C. SNEAD:
"My Uncle's Like a Father to Me"

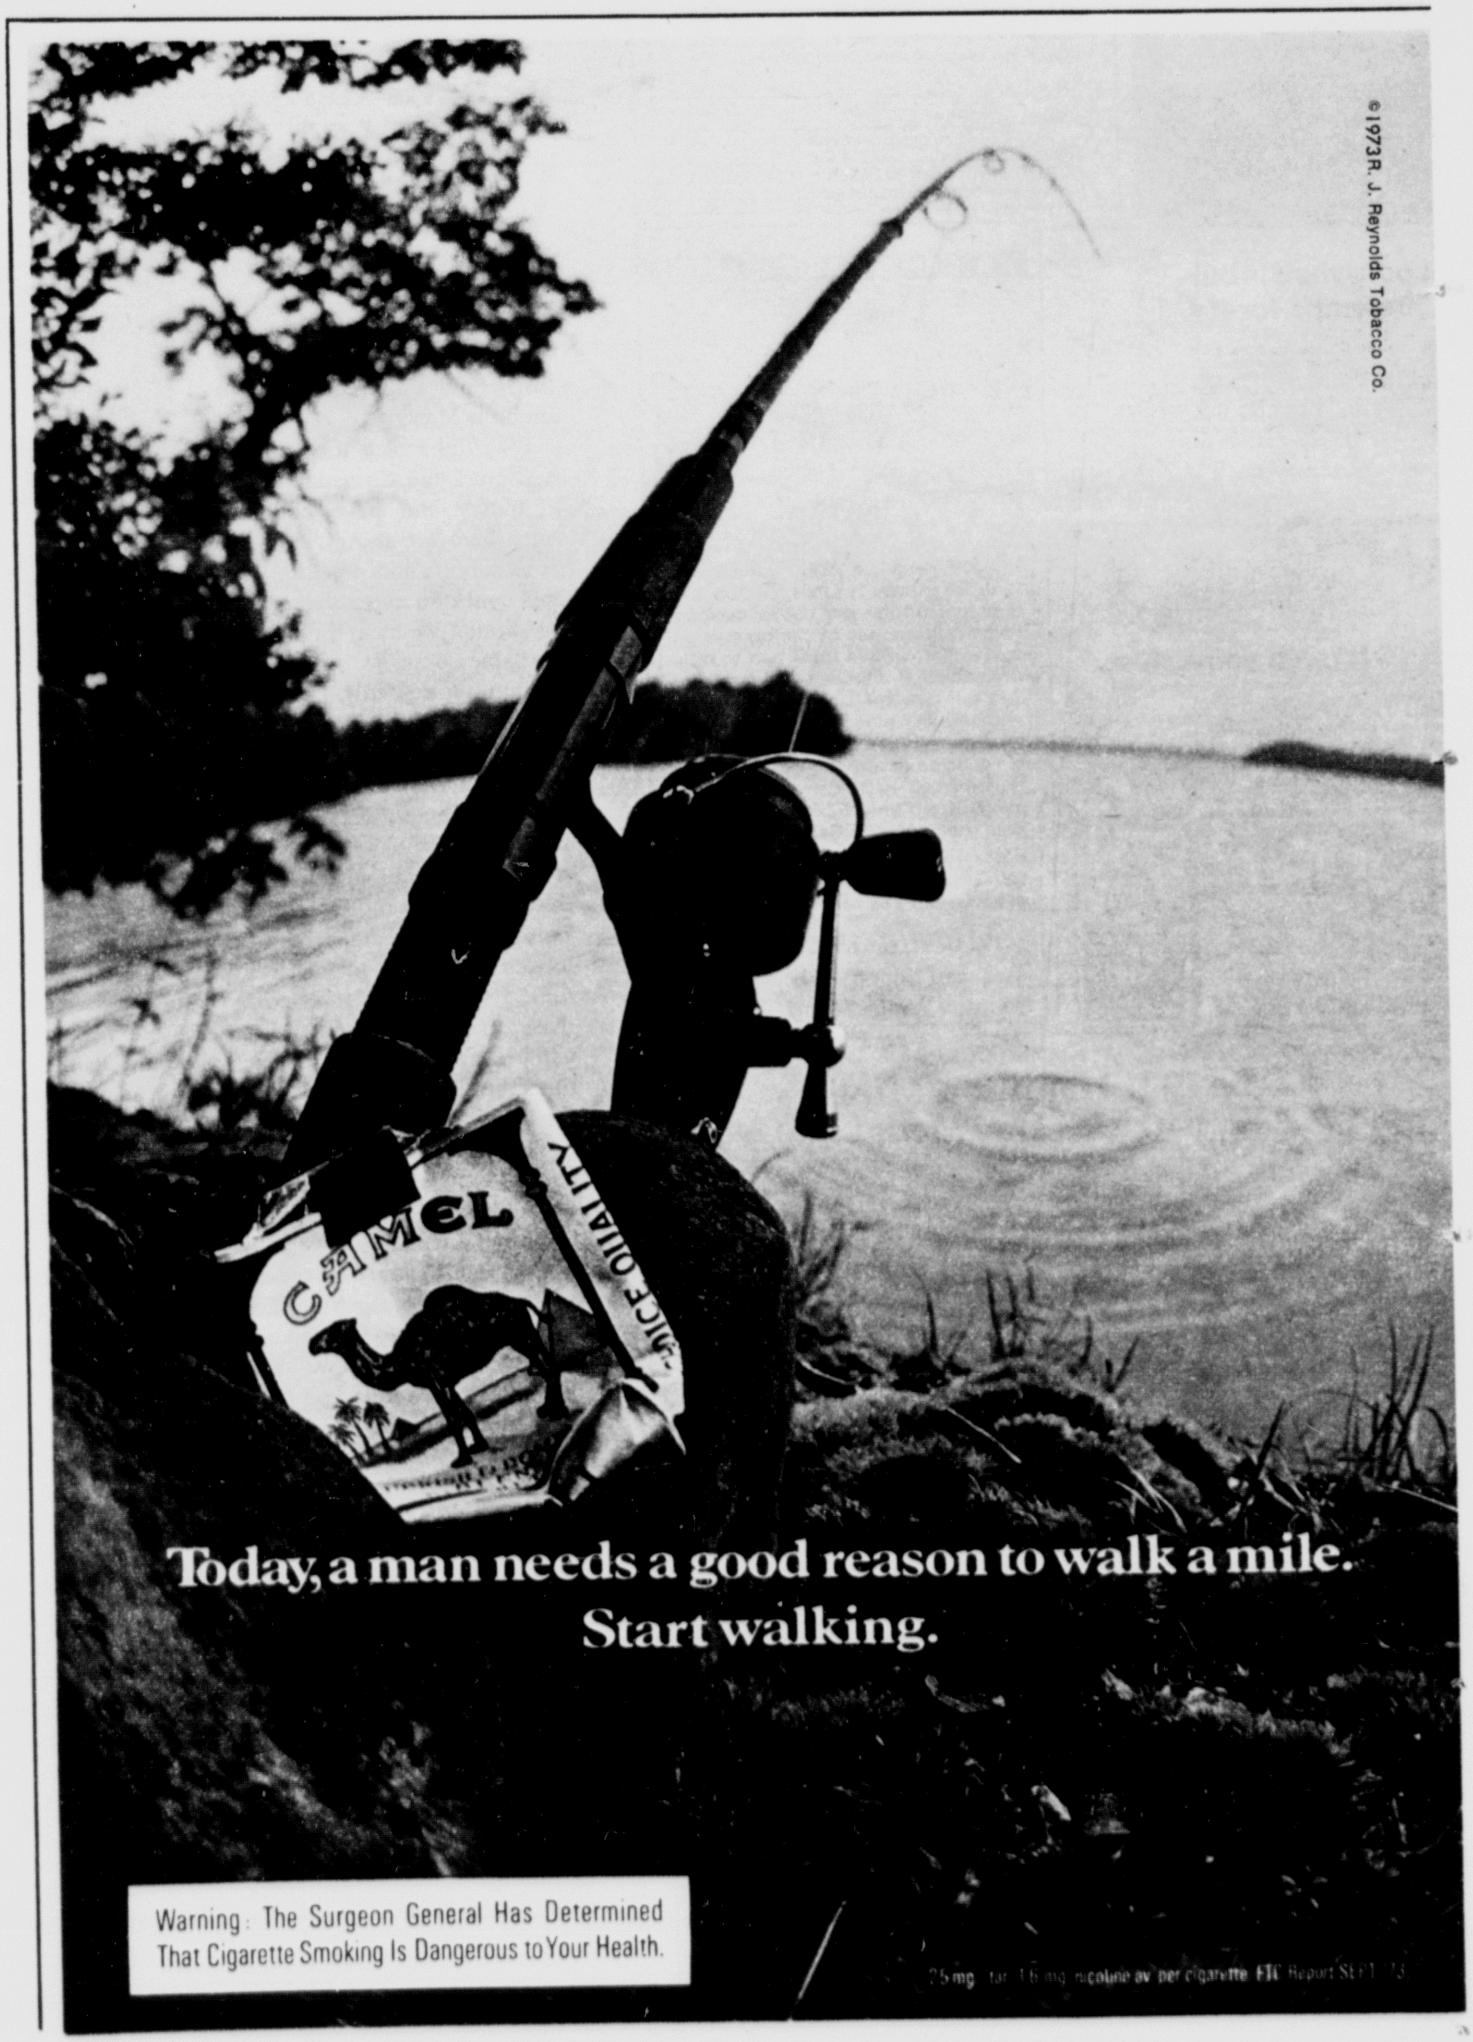

A broken ankle turned out to be a blessing for Jesse Carlyle Snead. It convinced him to give up baseball and switch to golf. That switch has brought the name "Snead" back into athletic prominence. J. C.'s uncle is Sam Snead, one of golf's all-time greats. . . . Sam didn't influence his nephew to take up the game. "When I was in school, people were always throwing it up to me about being a Snead," J. C. recalls. "I got tired of hearing it. I'd answer, 'So what if my name is Snead? I'm not a golfer!'" To get out from Uncle's shadow, J. C. picked baseball and played three seasons for a Washington Senators' farm team. The broken ankle helped convince him that he couldn't make the big leagues. He decided to forget his sensitivity and follow his uncle's trail. . . . As a youngster, J. C. rarely got to see his famous uncle. It was only when J. C. turned to golf full-time that his uncle provided coaching tips. J. C. has won nearly $100,000 on the tour during each of the last two seasons. "Sam's just like a father to me now," J. C. says. . . . When J.C. started on the golf tour, he couldn't find any sponsors to back him. Uncle Sam thought this was a good thing. "He was helped by the fact that he had nobody to lean on. It made him determined to become as great a golfer as possible," Sam points out. . . . In appearance, J. C. and Sam don't look related. J. C. is bigger and heavier. Nor can J.C.'s golf swing match the grace and rhythm Uncle Sam used to display. But what J. C. lacks in style, he more than makes up for in power.

Why Do Dogs Eat Grass?

City dogs often gorge themselves on grass the minute they feel the green stuff between their toes. Country dogs find it less of a novelty and are apt to munch more moderately. Opinions differ as to why dogs eat grass. Some authorities think it is because they need a tonic; others believe Bowser is trying to get vitamins and minerals or a little roughage for his gastrointestinal tract. Whatever the reason, there is nothing basically wrong with grass-eating unless it is carried to extremes. If Bowser overindulges this vegetarian diet, the grass can wad up and irritate his stomach. He may then regurgitate the stuff. To be sure Bowser is getting all his vitamins, feed him a quality commercial dog food and not table scraps.—By Felicia Ames

The 1974 Hamilton Mint St. Patrick's Day Medal

Minted in a Strictly Limited Edition of Pure Silver. On this day of solemn commemoration of the life of St. Patrick, The Hamilton Mint has created a fitting tribute to the memory of this unique individual.

The Medal has been created by H. Alvin Sharpe, the only living master of the intaglio engraver's art that predates the birth of Christ. The St. Patrick's Day Medal is an artistic achievement you will be both proud to own and pleased to display.

Each Medal is a full 1½ inches in diameter and contains 480 grains of .999 Fine Silver. Only one edition will be struck in the gleaming proof finish usually reserved for masterworks of fine medallic art.

This uncommon fine art medal can be yours for only $12.50 each. You will also receive—at no additional cost—a handsome display stand for your St. Patrick's Day Medal.

Act now! The edition is strictly limited to those orders postmarked by March 30, 1974. After that date, we must return all Collector's Applications with our regrets.

Childbirth in 1974: Eight Things Every Young Parent Should Know

By David Hartman

David Hartman: "There are things many of us parents and potential parents could do and should do to insure that we have the healthiest babies possible."

When the ABC television network asked me to do an hour and a half show for "The Wide World of Entertainment," I said I would—if I could pick the subject. The subject I chose was "Birth and Babies." It will be aired on March 20.

Why did I pick this subject? It interests me. Someday I hope to marry and have children. And there are things many of us as parents and potential parents could do and should do to insure that we have the healthiest babies possible.

I am not a doctor. I watched and learned like any other layman as we filmed at Cedars of Lebanon Division, Cedars-Sinai Medical Center, Los Angeles. Dr. Philip Brooks was the obstetrician-gynecologist who delivered the baby and Dr. Donald Lacky was the pediatrician who looked after the newborn infant. I was most impressed by these men, who seemed fired with renewed enthusiasm each time they delivered and cared for a newborn infant.

The following are salient points—some old hat, some new—that I learned and think should be passed on:

1. Every birth must be treated on its own terms. Each is different. And the more the medical team that officiate know about the father and mother and fetus, the better prepared they are.

2. Having a baby a few years ago was like giving birth in the Dark Ages. Today parents can work and study together to understand the development of the fetus and to know what to do during labor. The father is, in a way, a coach, and his presence not only lends strength to the mother during labor, but brings the family together at its greatest moment of joy.

3. Labor is defined as hard work—and it is. A basic principle of physics has to be overcome to give birth. Women sometimes get so intrigued by what is happening to them that a contraction may catch them unaware. And for the man? Well, what the woman goes through is nothing less than a miracle!

4. The mental attitude of the mother at the time of birth is very important, and correct guidance during her pregnancy and knowledge of exactly what is going on alleviate her anxiety. This, in turn, minimizes the need for medication.

"Having a baby a few years ago was like giving birth in the Dark Ages."

5. Monitoring devices are now employed so that one can tell exactly how the fetus is reacting to what is going on during labor. Any sign of distress can be detected immediately.

6. The delivery is a team effort, not only on the part of the father, who coaches the mother in breathing and bearing down, but by the anesthetist, nurses and doctors as well. The neonatologist—a pediatrician who specializes in the first 28 days or so of an infant's life—also comes onto the scene. He can help the obstetrician-gynecologist during the delivery by positioning the fetus, keeping an eye on the monitoring and then taking over the care of the infant after birth.

7. After the birth, the woman needs a period of time to get acquainted with this new human being who simply didn't exist such a short time before. Everyone—mother, father and infant—has adjustments to make.

8. Babies are not merely small adults. They are unique. Babies in trouble need specialized care, specialized equipment. It behooves all parents to know if their newborn child might need this care. If it is suspected that the baby might, they should find out where to get it. The obstetrician is the one to ask.

How to keep your money from being MURDERED!

by Gary Halbert

© 1974 Good News Publishing Co.

If you are lucky enough to have any money set aside for a rainy day and you're keeping it in a savings account, you are really loosing money hand over fist.

Your money is probably earning about 5¼ per cent interest. Since inflation is averaging 8 per cent to 10 per cent a year, you are not even breaking even. And the way things are going this year it can only get worse.

Do you realize that you have to spend $1.49 to buy as much steak as you could buy for a dollar only a few months ago?

If you have any money invested in the stock market, you are really asking for it. Eighteen months ago Winnebago was considered one of the safest of the blue chip stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. A thousand dollars invested in this "safe" stock only a year and a half ago, as of this writing, would have shrunk to $145.00. And hundreds of stocks have done even worse.

What about U.S. Savings Bonds? As an investment they are really a joke. Ten years ago if you had invested $1,000.00 of your hard earned money in series "E" government bonds you would have by now earned only $7.44 a year in purchasing power.

Well, how about keeping your money hidden in an old sock under the mattress? Had you tucked away a thousand dollars in this manner in 1957, by now your purchasing power would have dropped a full 40 per cent. Are things about to get better?

No way.

The year 1974 promises to produce the highest inflation rate in the last 22 years. Prices, as you may have noticed, are going no where but up. Some, like meat and gasoline are going right out of sight. The plain fact is that your money is in more danger right now that at anytime since 1929.

Is there a way out? Is there any place at all to put your money where it is safe? Where will it earn enough interest to keep ahead of inflation? Where you can get at it instantly in case of an emergency? Is there?

You bet there is!

The answer is going to surprise you. The best place to keep your money is probably the same place you are keeping it now. In your bank in a savings account. You've got to start doing things a little differently, however.

Here is just one of the things you can do if you know how. You can go to your bank, take out your savings, fill out a new deposit ticket, put the money right back into another savings account and increase the interest on your savings from 6 to 15 per cent. All in one day! Hard to believe isn't it? But this is just the beginning.

Listen to allœof this!

- When you open a new account you can get ten bank gifts instead of one.
- You can withdraw your money and still earn interest on it.
- You can have two savings accounts paying you interest at the same time on the same money.
- You can earn interest on money you have spent months ago.
- You can earn more money on your checking account than most people earn on their savings accounts.
- You can earn interest on the money other people have on deposit.

All of this is perfectly legal. Everything you will be doing is not only permitted but actually encouraged by banks and other financial institutions because the more money you make the more money they make. In fact, they use these techniques themselves. And during all this, your money will be insured 100 per cent by the U.S. Government. All of this is carefully explained in a new book titled, "How to Rob a Bank Without a Gun."

The book was written by an Ohio school teacher named George Jenney as part of a research project for a publishing company. The book is easy-to-read, easy-to-understand, and can lead you step-by-step to a new financial independence. The book is not now available at book stores or newsstands.

You can get a copy if you hurry by sending your name and address and $6.95 in cash, check, or money order payable to The Good News Publishing Co., Dept. No. 1095, 7576 Freedom Ave., N.W., North Canton, Ohio 44720.

The book will be sent to you promptly by return mail. The publisher guarantees that this book will show you how to at least double the earning power of your money.

If not, or for any reason you are dissatisfied, you can return the book for a full and immediate refund of your entire purchase price. You can't lose.

Send for the book today. Remember, now more than ever you have a real money fight on your hands and it is only going to get worse.

Here is a chance to put the odds on your side.

CHUCK CONNORS
A blanket security system

A pistol-packer on film (and rifle-slinger on TV reruns), Chuck Connors also keeps a gun next to his bed in his home. In fact, he has one of the most intricate security systems in all of Los Angeles. "I have everything from closed-circuit TV to a Westinghouse Alarm System that sets off an alarm and alerts the security guard; two German police dogs, a searchlight that can immediately light up the whole place and a shotgun next to my bed. No one," he adds, "has ever penetrated my defense." With that kind of setup, who would dare try?

RON BLOMBERG & PETE GOGOLAK
Hair's the thing . . .

Do you laugh at TV commercials that show professional athletes in locker rooms discussing hair sprays, hair creams and hair dyes? Well, maybe it's more serious than you think. Recently Ron Blomberg, the left-handed power hitter for the New York Yankees, got himself a "weave job"—a complicated process by which hair is woven into the already existing tufts to cover the bald spots on top. Football star Pete Gogolak of the New York Giants has the opposite problem. He has his hair, but he's a compulsive comber. The last thing he does before going on the field is to run a comb through his locks. In his new autobiography, Gogolak writes: "A thousand guys have said to me: 'This is one hell of a time for you to be worrying about your hair,' and I agree with them. It is." But, he explains, long, messy hair "could spoil my concentration. I don't want hair flapping around my neck when I'm trying to make a 50-yard field goal. Besides, long hair is a pain after a game. I don't want to spend half an hour getting my hair dry enough to go outside." From "Nothing to Kick About," by Peter Gogolak with Joseph Carter (Dodd, Mead & Co., $6.95).

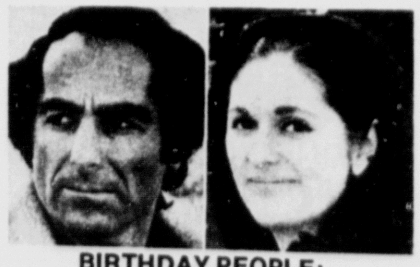

Jadee started out as a Playboy bunny in 1962. She is now a "bunny mother," supervising the 96 beautiful bunnies of New York's Playboy Club. "At the time I started," says Jadee, "wearing the bunny costume was very sexy and risqué, but now the outfit looks like a bathing suit. People, including the families that come in, are looking for service in a nice, clean atmosphere and not sex, sex, sex. In fact, bunnies have lost some of their mystique, but we've always stressed personality anyway. If I had a daughter, I'd think twice about encouraging her to be a bunny. It's a lucrative job and the hours are flexible, but it's totally physical and exhausting. I reached a point where I didn't want to carry around 30-pound trays of glassware, throw together salads and take out food. But I like what I'm doing now."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

CAN DO

Our trash can quickly filled with trash.
We bought a second, feeling rash.
That trash can filled, in just a wink.
Does trash, then, swell? Do trash cans shrink?

Although it seemed a bit absurd,
We did, in time, procure a third,
And that too filled up to the top
With trash each week. Where will it stop?

With trash I stuff each can and rant:
The thing is not a can but can't.

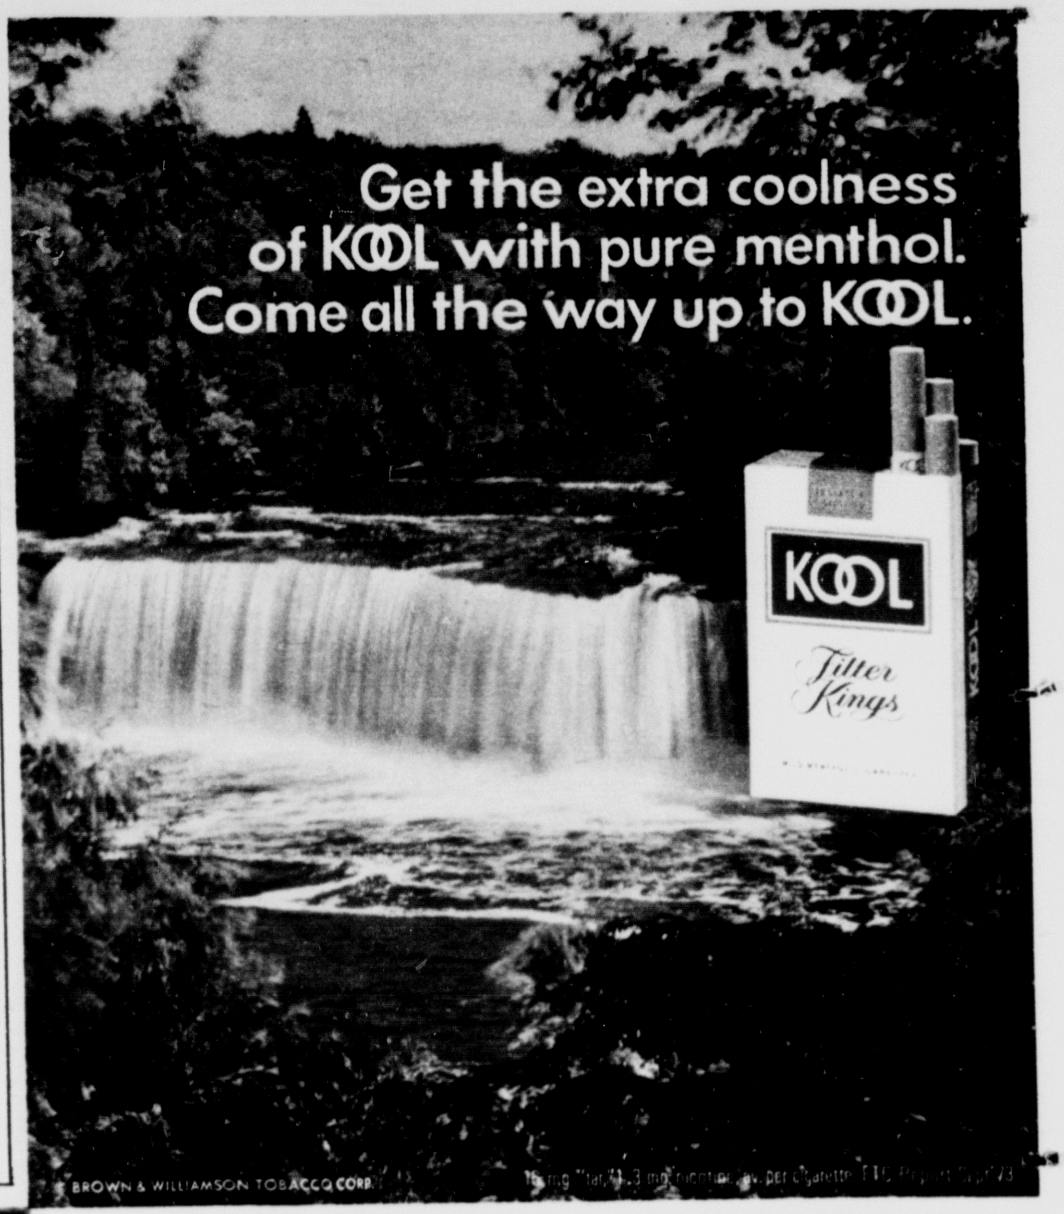

Little boy to departing father: "Daddy, please bring me home a rat from the race today." —Dorothea Kent

The big-city reporter asked the small-town editor why people bought his newspaper, since they already knew what everybody in the town had done that week. "They buy the paper," the rural editor explained, "because they want to find out which ones got caught."
—Lucille J. Goodyear

A traveler in the mountains of West Virginia stopped to talk with a woman sitting on her porch one bright autumn day. They both were admiring the breathtaking view of forests and hills, the smoke rising from the chimney of a distant cabin, the tilled fields on the steep hillsides, the woods filled with game, a fresh creek gurgling nearby.

"This," said the stranger, awed, "surely is heaven."

The woman, with full knowledge of the hardships of rural living, made a face. "It's heaven if you're a man or a dog," she said. "But it's hell if you're a woman or a mule." —Dan Bennett

The other day, while cleaning, I ran across the following exercise in penmanship and/or letter writing, written by our seven-year-old granddaughter, Erika. The terse text, devoid of salutation and punctuation, ran:

"You did not pay your phone bill

—Mrs. Joseph L. Saltzman

It was the first day of school for my six-year-old grandson, but he said he couldn't go because he had to think. "What must you think about?" asked his mother.

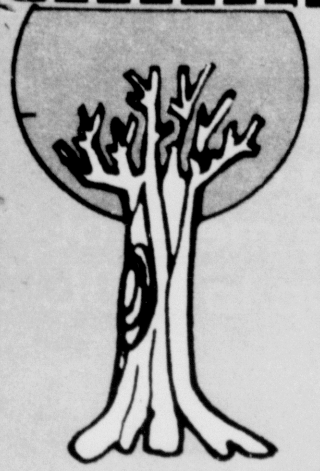

My grandson piped up, "I must think if I am doing the right thing." —Mrs. Lillian Wilson
